MAILS IN ENGLAND BOMBED

BLASTS IN FIVE CITIES LAID TO IRISH PLOTTERS

Seven Hurt; Guard Letterboxes.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 9.—Police reserves and fire engines raced through London streets tonight as bombs, believed to have been planted by the outlawed Irish republican army, exploded in twenty-seven letter boxes and two postoffices. Many other blasts of a similar nature occurred in Birmingham, Lincoln, Leicester, and Manchester. Seven men were injured.

In London, 250 police squad cars were ordered out to patrol the central district of the city, where most of the outrages occurred. Metropolitan police were directed to place a guard over every letter box in the city.

Bombs Explode in Postoffices.

Within half an hour after the first blast occurred at 8:30 p. m., twenty-seven fire engines answered calls in London.

At the Wimpole street postoffice in London a worker was injured when a parcel exploded as he was stamping it. Another parcel burst into flames in a worker's hands. Smoke revealed nine other bombs.

Six men were injured when a bomb, in a large envelope, exploded in the Manchester postoffice and destroyed a number of letters. Four other bombs were discovered in the mail there.

Six bombs exploded in the Lincoln postoffice. A number of workers were splashed with acid.

All of the bombs were of the rubber balloon type. They explode when acid eats through rubber to the explosive inside.

One Explosion on Train.

Police believe two or three men drove through the city early this evening planting the bombs in letter boxes.

The letter box explosions were discovered when passersby noticed smoke emerging from the letter slots. In some cases the blasts were preceded by muffled booms and flashes of fire.

In Birmingham mail caught fire in one instance in a truck en route to the postoffice. It was put out by the driver with an extinguisher, but the mail was damaged.

All of the bombs mailed in London were addressed in the same handwriting to various parts of the country.

Four Sent to Prison.

STIRLING, Scotland, June 9.—(AP)—Terence McSherry, an Irishman, was convicted today of stealing explosives to make bombs and was sentenced to prison for ten years.

McSherry, one of four men convicted on the theft charges, had told the jury that the British government was responsible for the recent wave of bombings in England and Scotland because of its refusal to withdraw British troops from northern Ireland.

The others—Francis McNeece, Samuel Kennedy, and Matthew Somerville—were sentenced to terms of from eighteen months to seven years.

August Finally Gets Back Marbles He Lost in 1863

Savannah, Ga., June 9.—(AP)—In 1863 Augustus Pigman, then 8 years old, lost sixteen prized marbles when he tossed them under a porch stoop to keep them from the hands of pursuing playmates. Workmen demolishing the building a few days ago found the long lost marbles and returned them. At 84, Pigman, a retired druggist, is beyond the "knuckle down" age, but will send the marbles to his 3 year old grandson in New York.

Only Finland Keeps Her War Debt Record Clean

Washington, D. C., June 9.—(AP)—Finland, only war debtor now honoring her obligation to this country in full, is keeping up her record by making the regular June payment of $160,693. The Finnish Minister, H. J. Procope, in a letter to Secretary of State Cordell Hull, said the Finnish government would deposit the amount in the Federal Reserve Bank, New York City, June 15.

GEORGE VI. LAYS LILIES ON TOMB AT MT. VERNON

Pays a Tribute to Unknown Soldier.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.]—King George VI. of Great Britain today paid homage to the memory of the man who rebelled against the tyranny of his ancestor, George III., and founded the great republic of the western hemisphere.

The king placed a wreath of lilies, carnations, and iris at the foot of the marble tomb of George Washington in the brick vault at Mount Vernon.

The ceremony occupied only a few moments and was marked by spartan simplicity, but it was the most striking gesture of friendship the king and queen have extended to the United States in their visit to this country.

The king is of the fifth generation from the British monarch against whom the colonies revolted in 1776.

Places Two Other Wreaths.

The wreath was the first of three the king placed at American shrines during the day. The second was at the tomb of the unknown soldier, and the third at the Canadian Cross—the monument of the Canadian government to Americans who died in the Canadian service during the world war.

En route from the tomb of Washington to Arlington cemetery, the royal couple paused to inspect a Civilian Conservation corps camp at Fort Hunt.

The royal party came to the tomb from the presidential yacht Potomac where they lunched with President Roosevelt and members of the cabinet and their families. As the king was piped overside the craft, the royal standard, which for the first time in history flew at the foremast of an American naval vessel while the presidential flag fluttered at the main mast, was hauled down.

Queen Dressed in White.

The king wore a top hat and a cutaway. The queen was dressed in white crêpe with silver accents and carried a parasol. The President wore a white linen suit, a Panama hat, and a green and white striped tie. Mrs. Roosevelt wore a print of red and blue dots.

The king stepped to the tomb and placed the wreath, paused for a moment with bowed head and then returned to the side of the queen who was flanked by Mrs. Roosevelt. The President stood at the king's right.

Among photographers at the scene were Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. and James Roosevelt, eldest son of the President, who is a movie executive. Both aimed small movie cameras.

Son James Takes Movies.

As the king and queen started on a tour of the mansion of the first President, son James raced across a field to take up a vantage point to continue his film of the visit. He was spotted by the king.

"What are you doing up there?" the king called.

"Taking pictures," Jimmie replied.

"So I see," the king said. "Must be jolly fun."

The inspection of the mansion and gardens of Mount Vernon was leisurely. The king was escorted by Mrs. Horace Mann Towner, regent of the Mount Vernon Ladies' association, and the queen by C. Wall, superintendent of the shrine.

Throughout the day the queen kept the parasol between herself and the sun. Her face glowed from the sunburn she received at the garden party. The redness accentuated the deep blue of her eyes.

Scores of spectators and members of the party trailed after the royal couple like a golf gallery. Many of the followers were in toppers and cutaways and applied their handkerchiefs furiously to their streaming faces.

Footmen Place Cushions.

Each time the king and queen reentered their cars, Sergeant Footman to His Majesty Watts placed a cushion on the king's seat and offered him a lap robe. Sergeant Footman to Her Majesty Smith did the same

QUEEN CAPTURES ALL WITH A SMILE AND HER PARASOL

BY MARCIA WINN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.]—If you want to sell an empire retain a queen as saleslady, for it is apparent now that the British have captured Washington again, and they've done it with a queen carrying a parasol.

'T is Elizabeth whom the thousands who line the royal route at all hours want chiefly to see. Of George VI. they say little other than, "Why, he looks just like his head on the shilling!" But of the queen, with her eager smile and constant little parasol, they really rave. Rave is the only word.

Six Ensembles in Two Days.

Her clothes probably have much to do with the adulation. A picture queen, she has yet to deviate from the purely regal and picturesque to the purely comfortable. In two days she has worn six complete ensembles here, only one of them with a skirt that can be called short. Everything else trails, or is bouffant. As a matter of fact, she looks better seated than standing, as her short figure, despite recent dieting, is almost matronly.

Her jewels, too, have attracted widespread curiosity. She must have brought a trunkload, including two tiaras, one of platinum brilliant with diamonds, the other of diamonds and globular rubies, each with matching necklace, bracelets, and brooch. By day she has worn pearls; yesterday three strands, each pearl the size of a hazelnut, separated by diamonds; today, two strands. At night her earrings dangle, but by day she wears diamond and pearl studs.

Her Smile Is Constant.

Then, of course, there is her demeanor, which is perfect for public appearances. She never looks aloof with the hauteur attributed to majesty. She seems always alert, interested, and even eager. Her smile is constant, and as she rides along she extends one gloved hand in a graceful, outward swoop, palm upward, in a "Thank you, my good people" manner.

Most effective of all, though, in the capture of Washington, have been the queen's parasols. The people love them. Already Washington shops are displaying copies. It looks as though a fad is inevitable.

Elizabeth has carried one with every daytime costume here. Yesterday, when Washington watched royalty parade, she had a tartan throw over her knees, but carried a pale lavender parasol lined in deep green over her head. At Lady Lindsay's garden party, when she came looking like a powder puff in ruffled white, she carried a dainty, matching ruffled parasol of lace and net.

Still Another Parasol.

Today, when she and the king went back to the British embassy to receive members of the British colony, she carried still another parasol, of a subtle pale gray crêpe, with a small, scalloped edging, again matching her dress.

This was the first official event of the British monarch's second day and they arrived a little late because of what London newspaper men irately

QUEEN SQUEEZES HIS HAND, SO HE'S SURE IT'S GOOD WILL TOUR

Washington, D. C., June 9.—(AP)—Representative H. P. Fulmer (D., S. C.) was convinced at the capitol reception today that King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth came to America primarily on a good will tour.

"I had my doubts and wanted to find out," he explained. "So when I shook hands with the queen, I squeezed her hand gently.

"In return she squeezed mine gently and smiled and now I'm convinced it was a good will tour."

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.]—The king and queen of England, having cultivated the good will of the nation's capital with royal success over a stretch of thirty-six hours and 45 minutes, entrained tonight for Red Bank, N. J. There they will board a United States destroyer tomorrow morning and arrive at the Battery in New York at 10:15 a. m.

Their majesties' special train pulled out at 11:30 p. m. from Union station, where it arrived at 11 o'clock yesterday morning. Secretary and Mrs. Cordell Hull bade them farewell. In the interim King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth had pursued a smiling passage in parades and receptions and endeared themselves to several thousands of the official and social set by their eager friendliness at luncheons, teas, and formal dinners.

Greeted by Congressmen.

A high point of the two day visit was the meeting today, under the dome of the capitol, of the congress of the United States with the British monarchs. Their majesties shook hands with seventy-four of the ninety-six senators and 352 of the 431 members of the house. Thus, for various reasons, twenty-two senators and seventy-nine representatives did not attend the reception in honor of the visiting rulers.

With the same smiling ease of manner which won them plaudits during an exhausting day in the public eye yesterday, the king and queen responded to the greeting of the nation's legislators.

The senate body was sedate as it paraded past the monarchs and gripped their hands, but irrepressible members of the house were in a jovial mood which expressed itself in a variety of salutations to the British monarchs.

The queen's hand was kissed by a Louisiana congressman and the king was hailed heartily as "cousin" by a Texan.

Pictures Portray Surrenders.

This remarkable scene took place in the rotunda of the capitol, directly under the great dome. When the king's eyes roved the chamber they fell upon two reminders of the unpleasantness of a century and a half ago between his country and the land which he is visiting. They were two huge paintings, twenty feet long and ten feet in height, which portrayed the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown and the surrender of Burgoyne at Saratoga.

Bronze and marble statues of George Washington and Thomas Jefferson, heroes of the American revolution, flanked the receiving line. The sad countenance of Abraham Lincoln, engraved in stone, and the shy grin of Will Rogers, Oklahoma humorist, preserved in bronze, furnished a striking contrast in the background.

Burning in 1814 Recalled.

Not far from where their majesties stood, a British admiral, Sir George Cockburn, occupied the speaker's seat in the house of representatives on Aug. 24, 1814, and put the mock question to grinning British soldiers who had invaded the capitol: "Shall this harbor of Yankee democracy be burned?" The answer was a roar of affirmatives.

Books and papers were torn from their shelves and paintings cut from their frames and the torch applied to the combustible mass. The conflagration wrecked the interior, but the

Wins a Degree After 10 Years of Night Study

Three nights a week for years Elizabeth Wehner has left her job as a bookkeeping machine operator and journeyed to Northwestern university's downtown campus. Three other nights a week she has hurried to her home at 2033 Belmont avenue to study for her classes.

Elizabeth Wehner. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

This afternoon Miss Wehner will wear a cap and gown and receive the degree of bachelor of philosophy at Northwestern's commencement in Dyche stadium, Evanston. She is the first student in the university's history to complete a full college course in the night school. It took her ten years.

6,000 Hours of Work.

Miss Wehner is a slight young woman, 28 years old, with a gaiety that belies her perseverance. To gain her degree she has spent 2,400 hours in classrooms during the last decade and at least 3,600 hours in study.

During this time Miss Wehner has held one job for eight years, taught horseback riding Sundays at a riding academy near Evanston, and has become an expert swimmer. She has had one date a week. She has mastered German, French, and Spanish, and has kept her scholastic average at a high B.

"Stubborn, you see!" she laughs, bobbing her blonde curls. "I won't admit I can't do it. Anyway, I couldn't stop—the elevator men and the guards would miss me. I'm a fixture."

Study Is a Habit.

Study is a habit with Elizabeth. She was graduated from Lake View High school in 1927 and went back for a year's graduate work. Then she studied German for a year with a private tutor.

And now that she's got her degree? She'll be back at Northwestern university three nights a week. She'll be home studying three nights a week. She's going to work for a master's degree.

PENNY WISE! THEY SAVE 135,000, AND TAKE TRIP TO FAIR

Whigman, Ga., June 9.—(AP)—It took Mrs. G. B. Trulock three days to count a penny fund she and her husband started saving six years ago—but it was worth the trouble. Today the Trulocks are bound for the San Francisco fair on 135,000 coppers—$1,350 worth.

YOGI, BURIED 12 HOURS, COMES UP SAFE AND SOUND

BOMBAY, India, June 9.—(AP)—Witnesses today watched the emergence of a Hindu who had himself buried alive for twelve hours to demonstrate the power of Yoga philosophy. Shree Bhagwanswamiji was buried in a sitting position while huge crowds looked on and the ceremony was broadcast by the All-India radio.

When the grave was opened twelve hours later observers said he was found sitting as he had been left but apparently in a trance. In two minutes he was fully wake, they said, and stepped out amid wild cheering and hymns of praise.

Observers said no sweat was visible on his face and that flowers buried with him were completely fresh. He grinned and told questioners he would repeat the performance any time for five rupees [about $1.75].

A POLISH 'PIG PUZZLE' SHOWS HITLER'S FACE; GERMANY PROTESTS

WARSAW, June 9.—(AP)—A new "pig puzzle" which appeared in great numbers in the city of Katowice has resulted in a formal protest by the German consul there, the newspaper Wieczor Warszawski said today.

The puzzle consists of four cards, each showing the head of a pig. The trick is to "find a fifth pig." A certain arrangement of the four cards reveals the face of Adolf Hitler.

The Polish government took immediate steps to stop the sale in Katowice, but the puzzle now is appearing in Warsaw. Wieczor Warszawski reports that quantities of the puzzles were smuggled into German Silesia from Polish Silesia.

Court Rebuffs 2 Month Bride in Support Plea

Judge Robert C. O'Connell refused yesterday to grant temporary alimony to a bride, 19 years old, who filed suit for separate maintenance after two months of married life.

Mrs. Trula Komis. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

The judge declared that the idea of young people parting after a brief marriage and the woman being awarded separate maintenance for the remainder of her life is repugnant to the principles of justice. He pointed out that a bill to correct the present separate maintenance law is pending in the legislature in Springfield.

Separated After Two Months.

The bride who drew the judge's criticism is Mrs. Trula Komis of 4107 Carroll avenue. She appeared with her attorney, Milroy R. Blowitz, to ask temporary alimony from Basil Komis, 34 years old, a beauty culturist. The couple was married Feb. 12 and separated April 18.

Attorney Louis Ancel, counsel for Komis, objected to any temporary payments. He said that Komis' income is $40 a week and that his wife eventually will share in the $125,000 estate of her father.

"Mrs. Komis is able bodied and has an income," Ancel said.

Attorney Blowitz explained that Mrs. Komis is ill and without funds to return to her home in Morgantown, W. Va.

Temporary Aid Sought.

"Mrs. Komis is not asking her husband to support her forever," said Blowitz. "She cannot support herself here and cannot return to her home town."

"I am opposed to separate maintenance in a case like this," Judge O'Connell declared. "The trend of the law is against it. Public sentiment is crystalized in a bill now pending before the legislature. This bill would permit either party to separate maintenance to obtain a divorce two years after the separate maintenance decree was granted."

walls were saved when a severe rain extinguished the flames.

But this historical background was not in the minds of the royal visitors or members of congress today. When the king and queen ascended the broad steps of the capitol and appeared in the doorway of the rotunda, senators and representatives applauded warmly and loudly.

Garner and Bloom Entertain.

The tedium of waiting for the king and queen had been relieved for the legislators by an impromptu entertainment put on by Vice President John N. Garner and Representative Sol Bloom.

The senators had been herded behind velvet ropes into one enclosure and the representatives packed tightly into another. Vice President Garner circulated among both groups, slapping backs and telling stories which produced guffaws. At one time, noting the restlessness of the congressmen, Cactus Jack grabbed the velvet ropes as does a prize fighter after he has entered the ring, and sank to his haunches, then bounced quickly up again. He scuffed his shoes on the marble floor in imitation of the fighter scraping the resin of the ring as the chamber rang to laughter, cheers, and whistles.

Sol Bloom, the New York statesman, who as acting chairman of the house foreign affairs committee during the illness of the chairman, Representative Sam D. McReynolds, has been included in all royal receptions, furnished unconscious amusement for the lawmakers. Mr. Bloom scurried about, issuing orders to one and all.

Borah First in Line.

When the shaking of the royal hands started Senator William E. Borah, the dean of the senate, was first in line. Their majesties proved themselves amazingly deft in wringing hands, exchanging a word of greeting, and then grabbing the hand of the next in line without any unseemly display of haste. By actual count they exchanged 465 handshakes, a few senate and house attachés having crashed the receiving line. They performed this task in twenty-one minutes flat, averaging 2.7 seconds per shake.

There was a surge forward when the time came for house members to file past the king and queen. Sol Bloom rushed to the front and stood at the king's left. House parliamentarian Lew Deschler, who knows the face and name of all 426 members, whispered names into the ear of Bloom and he repeated them to the king.

Kisses Hand of Queen.

When Representative Robert L. Mouton, Louisiana Democrat, came to the queen, he murmured a greeting in French, addressing her as "votre Majestie." The queen looked a little startled as the Louisianian raised her white gloved hand and planted a fervent kiss thereon. Then she smiled very graciously upon the dark skinned little Mouton.

Representative Nat Patton of Texas came before their majesties a minute later. Mr. Patton was in an expansive and friendly mood. Where Mr. Patton comes from a friend is addressed as "Cousin."

"Hello, Cousin George!" boomed Mr. Patton, pumping the king's hand. "Howdy, Cousin Elizabeth!" he greeted the queen a moment later, "you're prettier than a picture!" He went on his way beaming while the king and queen looked at each other with what was not a smile but an unmistakable grin and members of their entourage stood aghast.

Two in Wheel Chairs.

Representatives Joseph J. Mansfield of Texas, an invalid, and William J. Miller, of Connecticut, a legless war veteran, were pushed past the king and queen in wheel chairs. Their majesties spent a few moments chatting with each.

The four women members of the house also attracted the particular attention of the queen. She asked questions of each, desiring to know how many women members there were and the states they represented.

When it was all over, the king turned to Senator Key Pittman, chairman of the senate foreign affairs committee, and said, with slow emphasis: "Her majesty and I are unable to express our appreciation of the universal courtesies and friendship we have received."

The king and queen began the day at 9 a. m., by breakfasting in their rooms in the White House on fruit juice, bacon and eggs, toast and coffee.

President and Lindsay Talk.

President Roosevelt revealed at his press conference today that he, the king and Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador, had sat up in the President's oval study from 12:20 a. m., until 1 a. m., discussing the international situation in general terms.

Mr. Roosevelt said the discussion was such as any two persons might engage in during such strenuous days as the present. He characterized the royal couple as "very, very delightful people."

KING GEORGE VI. PAYS A TRIBUTE TO WASHINGTON

for the queen. The President and Mrs. Roosevelt spurned the robes in the broiling sun. So did the king, but the queen used hers.

At Fort Hunt the king and queen inspected CCC boys. In the line the queen spotted the face of a fellow Scotsman and asked his name. The man addressed was H. B. Dickson, who told the queen that he was born in Dundee, Scotland, sixteen miles from the queen's birthplace, Glamis castle, famed in Shakespeare's "Macbeth."

Dickson said he had been a surveyor's assistant as a boy and had surveyed many farms and estates in that vicinity. The queen chatted about the climate of Scotland at this time of year and no doubt found the conversation a relief from the heat.

At the same time the king gave several CCC boys the thrill of their lives by stopping to chat with them. Among those addressed was John Draganza, 23 years old, of Rochester, Pa.

"How many pounds have you gained?" the king asked.

"Ten, sir," was the reply.

"What do you do for heat in the barracks in the winter time?" was another question.

Wreath for Unknown Soldier.

As he entered the impressive gates of America's national cemetery a 21 gun salute was fired for the king by a Fort Meyer artillery battery.

An impressive scene was unfolded at the tomb whose inscription reads: "Here rests in honored glory an American soldier known only to God."

Sixteen marines four deep flanked either side of the white marble tomb. Beyond the marines on the king's left were 32 soldiers and on the right were 32 sailors. All had their rifles at present arms.

A sergeant of the Canadian Black Watch in a scarlet tunic and colorful kilts and an American sergeant major in full dress held a wreath similar to that placed at the tomb of Washington.

The king was escorted to the tomb by Gen. Malin Craig, chief of staf of the United States army. The President stood at attention far to the left. Members of the presidential and royal parties formed a semicircle about the tomb.

King Marches Forward.

The king marched forward. The soldiers snapped to salute. The band ruffled and flourished into the national anthems of the two countries —first that of England and then that of America.

The king took the wreath and then an army bugler stepped forward to sound the mellow and mournful notes of taps. As the last note died down the slope of the marble dotted cemetery toward the Potomac, the king turned and walked through the memorial amphitheater, where 10,000 representatives of veterans' organizations crowded to catch a glimpse of the royal couple.

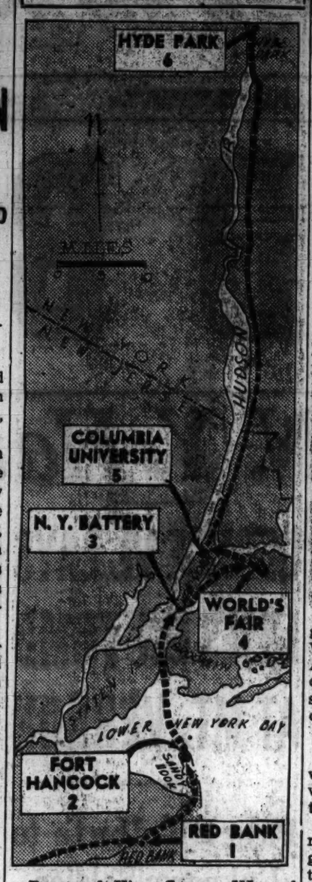

The king walked slowly about the amphitheater and out across the lawn to the Canadian cross, a tall granite cross faced with a bronze sword. This bears the names of Americans who died in Canadian ranks in the world war and a dedicatory inscription.

Marines, soldiers and sailors flanked the memorial. To the king's left the scarlet tuniced marine band sounded flourishes and ruffles. Again the national anthems were played. The king placed the third wreath at the foot of the cross, awaited the sounding of taps and then climbed in beside the President to return to the White House.

Welsh-Born Congressman Gets a Warm Royal Smile

Washington, D. C., June 9.—(AP)—Representative Noah M. Mason [R., Ill.], drew an extra warm smile and handclasp from King George VI. today by announcing himself as a former subject of his majesty. "Born in Wales," Mason explained. "Really," responded the king. "When did you come over here?" "O, about fifty years ago," Mason replied.

KING QUESTIONS BYRD ABOUT NEW ANTARCTIC TRIP

Washington, D. C., June 9.—(AP)—King George VI. of Great Britain twice evidenced, during his two day visit to the capital, a keen interest in interior department plans to send an exploratory expedition into the antarctic next fall.

At the embassy garden party yesterday and the White House tea today the king closely questioned Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, retired, veteran of two antarctic expeditions, about the forthcoming trip.

Congressional approval still is necessary before the "United States antarctic expedition" becomes a reality. A bill, bearing Mr. Roosevelt's indorsement and approval of the budget bureau, suggesting an appropriation of $340,000, is awaiting house action.

BRAIN TRUSTERS TALK NEW DEAL AT TEA FOR KING

Invited to Tell Him What It's All About.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.]—The New Deal alphabet came to tea at the White House today to tell the king and queen of England what the New Deal is all about.

The tea, given on the south lawn of the White House late in the afternoon, was a carefully guarded and closed affair. Thirty-nine persons attended. Among these were six in the royal entourage, seventeen members of the New Deal inner circle, and nine Roosevelts. The New Dealers were invited, an official explained, because they knew the answers to questions their majesties have asked.

Only a few of the guests held no government post. These included William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, the only man other than British Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay to come in a cutaway, striped pants, and top hat.

Admiral Byrd Present.

Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, who wore a gray sack suit and a pith hat with a green visor, also was among the nonalphabetical.

Until the big, black cars began to roll up at the locked White House gates, no one knew the identity of the guests. Reporters were banned from the grounds, and nothing was announced, except that the tea, given by the President and Mrs. Roosevelt for their house guests, would be on the lawn with a choice of hot or iced tea.

It was to be just a quiet moment in the garden, beside the blossoming magnolia that Andrew Jackson planted in memory of his Rachel, with the king and queen talking to people the President thought could give them ideas.

Alphabet Heads File In.

Nathan Straus, head of the USHA, was among the first to arrive. Close behind him came Jesse Jones, head of the RFC, cool and smiling in white linen.

Then came others, some with the curtains of their cars pulled down, ranging from lean, frowning Harry L. Hopkins, secretary of commerce, to young Mrs. Dorothy McAllister, vice chairman of the Democratic national committee, and Elmer F. Andrews, head of the wage and hours bureau, who walked up on foot and presented his pink card at the gate.

Reporters craned their necks for the arrival of heavy browed John L. Lewis, who had intimated he had been invited somewhere, some time, to meet the British rulers, but he didn't come. The state department later announced he had sent his regrets.

Unemployment a Surprise.

Consequently, King George got all his labor information from Mr. Green. Of him the king inquired about unemployment. Mr. Green estimated it at 10 or 11 million. "So many?" the king asked in surprise. "But business is improving," Mr. Green reassured him. "I think employment will increase now."

The procedure by which their majesties learned the answers to their questions was this: They sat on the lawn with the President and Mrs. Roosevelt. The President explained to his circle, seated casually in deck and lawn chairs some feet away, that the king wanted to learn a few things. Then he summoned one at a time to sit down and have a quiet chat. The President himself took no part in the chat, acting only as master of ceremonies.

Stewart MacDonald, head of the FHA, for example, told the king about housing. Miss Dorothy Lenroot told him about the children's bureau. Aubrey Williams of the NYA told him about youth and John Fahey of the HOLC, told him about loans. Queen Elizabeth asked an occasional question.

For the WPA, the king had its head, Col. Francis C. Harrington, at his side, as well as the WPA women's head, Mrs. Florence Kerr, resplendent in sheer black with purple orchids. For social security, he had Mrs. Ellen S. Woodward; for farm security, Dr. Will W. Alexander. All chiefs of the New Deal emergency bureaus and agencies, in fact, attended, as did Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, and Dr. John W. Studebaker, commissioner of education.

QUEEN GIVES DINNER AT BRITISH EMBASSY IN ROOSEVELTS' HONOR

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.]—Elizabeth, queen of England, startled official Washington tonight, when she used square linen doilies, edged with lace, rather than satin damask, for her dinner at the British embassy for President and Mrs. Roosevelt.

Covers for thirty-six guests were laid on the long, oval mahogany dinner table of Lady Lindsay. The table was brilliant with silver, crystal, American beauty roses and the embassy silver plate that bears the cipher of all the British monarchs since George IV.

For her farewell appearance in Washington, the queen wore a Victorian picture frock of deep rose tulle, embroidered from tip to toe with gold and silver thread and re-embroidered with Alexandra roses in tones of pink, gold, silver, and blue and little blue butterflies. She wore a diamond tiara on her dark hair, two magnificent diamond necklaces at her throat and a diamond bracelet.

Among the American guests were Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Speaker and Mrs. William B. Bankhead, Justice and Mrs. Harlan F. Stone, Secretary of State and Mrs. Cordell Hull; Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, Senator and Mrs. Key Pittman, Senator and Mrs. Alben W. Barkley, Representative and Mrs. Sol Bloom, Under-Secretary of State and Mrs. Sumner Welles, former Secretary of State and Mrs. Henry L. Stimson, R. Walton Moore, counselor of the state department; Alanson B. Houghton, former ambassador to Great Britain, and Mrs. Houghton; George T. Summerlin, chief of protocol at the state department; Brig. Gen. Edwin Watson, secretary to President Roosevelt, and Mrs. Watson.

KING AND GARNER VOICE APPROVAL OF EACH OTHER

Washington, D. C., June 9.—(AP)—King George VI. thinks Vice President John Nance Garner one of the most interesting men he met during his crowded thirty-six hours in Washington, and the Texan thinks his Britannic majesty George VI. is a "mighty fine feller."

When the Vice President told the king goodby today he put an arm around the royal shoulders and told him how much he had enjoyed their talks. Next to President and Mrs. Roosevelt, King George probably talked to Garner more than to anybody in Washington.

As for Queen Elizabeth, Mr. Garner thinks she is a "beautiful little lady." He said: "You know she comes from Scotland, where they have mighty fine people."

MAYOR REVOKES 8 TAVERN, DANCE HALL LICENSES

Mayor Kelly yesterday revoked the license of six taverns for various liquor law violations. The revocations: George D. Hadler, 8159 South Chicago avenue; Richard Jennings, 1713 East 79th street; Economy Liquor corporation, 942 West 63d street; Harold Kanzelbaum, 3503 State street; the Hippodrome, 7900 South Chicago avenue, and Albert Lencioni, 3858 State street. The mayor also revoked the licenses of two dance halls for indecent and immoral dancing. These were held by George Sikes, 64 East Jackson boulevard, and Robert Tomlinson, 36 West Randolph street.

EDITORS ACCLAIM TRIBUNE TRIUMPH IN COLOR PICTURE

Two More Sent by Wire Are Printed Today.

A preview of the newspaper of tomorrow! With this and similar phrases editors in the United States and Canada yesterday expressed approval of a historic advance in newspaper making—coverage of distant news events in color photographs sent by wire.

They were stirred to comment by a picture taken in Washington, D. C., on Thursday and printed in THE TRIBUNE yesterday morning. It showed King George VI. of Great Britain and President Roosevelt soon after their meeting in the Union station. It showed them, and their surroundings, in color.

That picture was taken with the Tribune color camera. Prints of it were supplied the Associated Press Wirephoto, which transmitted copies, broken down into the basic color formula, to twenty-five newspapers. Some of them used it; others announced it would be saved for their Sunday sections. Some criticized constructively the quality of the transmitted prints but, without exception, all were interested in seeing more color photos.

British Papers Enthusiastic.

And a new triumph was added to that of the day before. The Associated Press radioed one of the color pictures to London and the Glasgow Record and Mail [Scotland] announced it will reproduce the picture in tomorrow's editions. The paper has a circulation of 250,000. Other journals of King George's realm were enthusiastic over the possibilities of color pictures transmitted by wire and radio.

Today THE TRIBUNE prints on the back page two more color photos dealing with the royal visit. One shows the crowd at Mount Vernon, the other King George standing before the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington cemetery. These pictures, like the one yesterday, were sent from Washington by the Asssociated Press Wirephoto to this newspaper and the other twenty-five who received the epoch making pioneer effort of the day before.

Picture Makes Great Hit.

"Congratulations on splendid cooperative spirit of CHICAGO TRIBUNE and Wirephoto in first general dissemination of color photograph," read a message from Walter M. Harrison, managing editor of the Daily Oklahoman of Oklahoma City, Okla. "Publication here made a great hit. We feel we are first in an innovation that will be a casual mine run feature of the newspaper of tomorrow."

E. E. Soules of the Peoria Journal Transcript was equally enthusiastic. "Tribune color photograph by wirephoto is big step in advance," he telegraphed. "We may hope soon to see spot news pictures in color handled on same schedule as black and white. We printed picture with reasonable success. Congratulations."

The Dallas News used the photo as a front page feature. Among papers which have indicated they will make use of it in Sunday editions are the Washington Star, the Columbus Dispatch, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, the Dayton News, and the Louisville Courier-Journal.

Canadian Paper Hails Work.

From far away Vancouver, B. C., came a message from the Daily Province: "Congratulations to THE TRIBUNE on its achievement. Mechanical limitations prevented Daily Province using photo at this time, but engravers tell us copy would have produced excellent results. May use it in magazine section."

The managing editor of the Denver Post said that the time element did not permit use of the picture, but that his newspaper was keenly interested in further transmissions.

Other publications which were unable, for various reasons, to use the picture but wanted to see more color sent by Wirephoto, included the Des Moines Register and Tribune, the Los Angeles Times, the Salt Lake City Tribune-Telegram, the Portland Oregonian, the Kansas City Star, and the Minneapolis Tribune.

Editors Offer Suggestions.

As requested by THE TRIBUNE, some of the editors of the American newspapers offered suggestions. Some said there had been insufficient light for the taking of such an ambitious picture and that there was not enough contrasting color. At the same time they observed that the photo was made under the rough and tumble conditions of regular newspaper work. The Tribune photographers took their places beside the "black and white" photographers and movie men. They took their pictures where and when they could get them. Their object was to take a true color photo of an event rich in news interest.

The color camera itself is an ingenious mechanism. Mirrors in its interior split the light that comes through the lens into three primary colors—red, yellow, and blue—and record each color on a separate plate. The plates then are developed. To get the completed scene all three must be used to print the picture.

3 Basic Color Prints Sent.

The result at the receiving end is a negative. This is developed and a positive print is taken which is almost exactly like that sent. In the present color photography, then, three basic color prints are sent.

Then come the intricate engraving processes. In THE TRIBUNE plant these have been reduced to a few hours. Until recently color photographs could not be prepared and printed unless workmen had as many days as they now have hours.

DIES IN DOCTOR'S OFFICE.

Thomas Hansen, 180 Waubansee road, Riverside, died of a heart attack yesterday in the office of Dr. Charles E. Wiley, a heart specialist, at 20 East Jackson boulevard. Hansen was 73 years old. He was a clerk for the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad before his retirement several years ago.

Turns Out to Be Britain's Supersaleslady.

termed an "unprecedented" concession to women reporters. The king and queen received some eighty-four of them before leaving the White House.

It all was an outgrowth of Mrs. Roosevelt's press conference, usually held in the room which was being used as their majesties' sitting room, but today held downstairs in the Green room. At the conference Mrs. Roosevelt announced the queen had consented to meet the women reporters, and entered into a detailed outline of protocol.

The women were to line up, double file, she said, and the queen would come down the line. "I suggest you do not shake her hand," she said. "Just bow and give your name and your paper."

Royalty Suddenly Appears.

The women then lined up, the row extending from the Blue room, where diplomats are received, in to the lobby. Suddenly not only the queen, but the king and several members of the royal party, appeared.

The queen wore a tailored dress of pale gray pebble crêpe, the round neck and short sleeves edged with inch wide scallops of tiny silver sequins. A wide white hat of crinoline straw, banded in white ribbon, was turned up at the left side, exposing her dark brown hair. She wore elbow length white suede gloves, white suede pumps, and sun tan stockings. The king wore morning clothes and carried a black silk hat.

When the queen saw the array she turned back to Mrs. Roosevelt in surprise, her eyes twinkling. "O," she said, "there are quite a lot of them, aren't there?"

And then, as she passed between the line, her smiling face flushed: "Good morning! Good morning! Good morning!"

King Walks Beside Her.

The passage was very swift. The king, walking beside the queen, said nothing. He simply bowed.

Behind them, apparently enjoying the mass presentation much more than the royal couple, came Lady Katherine Seymour, one of the queen's two ladies in waiting. Tall, blonde, and quite pretty, she wore a dark polka dot dress and was hatless. She clutched an extra pair of long white gloves—and the parasol. Sir Alan Lascelles—the king's assistant private secretary, complete with top hat, cane, mustache, portfolio, and ruddy complexion—trailed a step behind her.

There were, it might be added, no individual presentations. The royal party was late, anyway, but three British writers managed to slip in their curtsies as the monarchs raced past. Then they were gone—to the embassy, where the Union Jack was whisked down and the king's standard run up for the duration of his call.

British Ex-Soldiers Present.

In the embassy garden a double line of British former service men had formed to await their majesties. The king went down to receive them, the queen remaining on the portico, but suddenly a shout went up from other guests, "We want the queen! We want the queen!"

So the queen, opening her little parasol, went down, followed by her other lady in waiting, Lady Nunburnholme, wearing a short black crêpe dress shot with splashes of blue and a small, tilted navy straw with a back bow of navy ribbon.

At this point fond mothers began pushing their brightly scrubbed children out into the royal pathway, hoping for a look from their queen. Little Jackie Turner, attired in worn gray sweater and shorts and very hot, received the queenly words, "You don't mind standing in the sun?" Little Isabella Kinloch, wearing a plaited skirt of the scarlet Stuart tartan and a duller tartan on her head, was told, "What a nice tartan bow!" Then Mrs. Kinloch went into a long, stammering explanation of where it came from. Several women were presented to the queen, among them Maude Hutcheson, who lost two brothers in the British army.

Queen's Energy Amazing.

At no time, though, was the queen still or even quiet. She moved rapidly about, asking questions of every one. Her energy seems amazing, and she emerged from each ordeal looking as fresh as on her first appearance of the day. She apparently has so perfect a complexion, a creamy one with a high flush on the cheekbones, that she doesn't even use powder.

From the embassy, which, after all, was only the first stop in a long, hot day, the king and queen rushed on for a congressional handshaking, and then on and on and on. Yet, in the late afternoon, when they returned to the White House for a tea, the queen somehow still gave that wide smile and that queenly swoop of the hand to the waiting Washingtonians.

"GOING OVER BIG," HE WHISPERS; QUEEN BEAMS

Washington, D. C., June 9.—(AP)—Queen Elizabeth of England gave Representative Guy L. Moser [D., Pa.] an extra smile today when he whispered to her:

"Come and see us again. You're going over big. Everybody likes you."

"Thank you," she replied, beaming.

A congressman at Moser's side in the capitol rotunda asked him what he had said. "That's our secret," Moser replied. Queen Elizabeth was still within earshot. "She laughed and smiled again," Moser related.

N. Y. Ready to Welcome King and Show Off Its World Fair

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 9.— [Special.] — Awaiting the visit of King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth of England tomorrow, city and world's fair officials today completed plans for the greatest reception ever accorded foreign potentates in this country. Crowds of more than two million persons are expected to greet their Britannic majesties.

The royal couple will set foot on the lower tip of Manhattan Island at the Battery in the forenoon after a night train ride from Washington and a voyage on the United States destroyer Warrington from Red Bank, N. J.

British Exhibit to Be Seen.

Then the British rulers will drive through the streets receiving the acclaim of the New York populace. Reaching the exposition grounds in the borough of queens, they will be guided around by such dignitaries as Gov. Herbert H. Lehman and Mayor Fiorella H. La Guardia. Next will be a drive around the exhibits, luncheon in the federal building, and inspection of the British pavilion.

On their way to the estate of President Roosevelt's mother at Hyde Park to spend the week-end, the king and queen will stop for a brief visit at Columbia university.

Special precautions were being taken today for the protection of the royal visitors, for New York is more foreign and less American than any other city in the country.

Provide Bullet Proof Glass.

The king and queen will ride in a limousine equipped with bullet proof side glass provided by General Motors corporation, it was learned. It was understood that Scotland Yard, the British secret service, had requested the bulletproof protection for the sovereigns.

More than 13,000 policemen of the city's total force of 18,000 will be mobilized to hold the crowds back and guard the royal motorcade as it moves through the streets.

Meanwhile, representatives of the state department and police officials here perspired through a rehearsal of their parts for the reception of the royal couple at the pier. Godfrey Haggard, British consul general, kept a sharp eye on the preview and at one point marked a glaring violation of protocol.

The department of docks was the offender because it flew the royal standard on a twenty-eight foot eagle tipped pole during the proceedings. Haggard pointed out the standard should be flown only when the king and queen actually had arrived on the spot. It was finally decided to place six employés in special charge of hoisting the flag at the split second when King George and Queen Elizabeth set foot on the dock.

HYDE PARKERS READY TO MEET ROYALTY TODAY

Hyde Park, N. Y., June 9.—(AP)—The 2,000 inhabitants of Hyde Park, President Roosevelt's home town, tonight eagerly awaited the arrival of King George and Queen Elizabeth of England here tomorrow.

A church service Sunday and a Roosevelt hot dog picnic will be highlights of the royal schedule.

While the village watched state police, secret service operatives, and army officers prepare for a record crowd here, there were elaborate precautionary measures at nearby Poughkeepsie.

More than 100,000 persons are expected to flock into Poughkeepsie for the arrival of the royal motorcade from New York City about 5 p. m. tomorrow. Police plan to bar all trafic from the route in the city three hours before the king and queen arrive.

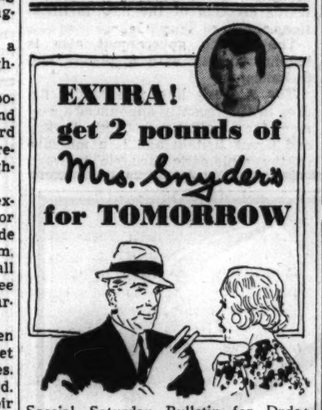

About 2,500 National Guardsmen will help state and city police, secret service men, American Legionnaires, and Boy Scouts to handle the crowd.

The king and queen will end their Hyde Park visit Sunday night and return to Canada.

Mt. Vernon ScotchGardener Presents Bouquet to Queen

Washington, D. C., June 9.—(AP)—Alexander Reith, Scotch-born gardener at Mount Vernon, picked a bouquet and presented it to Queen Elizabeth today. Afterward he said to reporters:

"I canna tell ye exactly whut her majesty said, although she was quick to ease ma nervousness."

ASK OUTSIDE AID FOR POLISH JEWS OUSTED BY NAZIS

Police Begin Roundup as Leaders Seek Visas.

BERLIN, June 9.—(AP)—Polish Jews in East Prussia and thousands of others scattered throughout Germany who have been ordered to leave or go to concentration camps, appealed to their leaders in Berlin tonight for help in finding homes outside this nation.

The Jewish leaders, who have been working at top speed for months in efforts to get visas, said they were practically powerless to act except in a small number of instances.

Transports of Polish Jews, more than 10,000 of whom have been given written notices to depart within time limits of from a few hours to four weeks, continued today to be organized by police.

Poland Refuses Many.

The most harried of the Polish Jews are those Poland says she will not accept because they have lived so long abroad. Some of these have been told they must get out of Germany or be interned. Poles with legal Polish passports are being taken to the frontier.

Numerous instances have come to light of Jews without a country who have tried and failed to cross "the green border," as the smuggling route across the frontier is called.

The Jews come to Berlin afterward to seek counsel as to what they should do. Some of them keep on trying the smuggling route until they are successful or are arrested.

Must Speed Up Efforts.

Included in the present new Nazi effort to get rid of the remaining Jews are those who were arrested last fall and released on promises to emigrate.

It has been impossible for many of them to get visas. Police are now telling them to speed up their efforts or go back to concentration camps.

East Prussian authorities have ordered all Jews, estimated at 11,000, to be out of that province by June 20. Four thousand Polish Jews in Leipzig have been given notice to leave within one month. In Munich 600 Polish Jews were given one month notices and an unrevealed number ordered out within a few hours. Orders also were given to Polish Jews in a number of other cities.

Cyrena Van Gordon Says Husband Beat Her

San Francisco, June 9.—(AP)—Cyrena Van Gordon Smith, who as Cyrena Van Gordon sang with the Chicago and Metropolitan opera companies, asked $1,000 monthly maintenance today in a cross-complaint to the divorce suit of her husband. He is Howard Dunbar Smith, San Francisco mining engineer. Mrs. Smith filed a separation suit which was uncontested last fall. Smith later sued for divorce, charging mental cruelty. Her action today charged he beat her. She asked $6,000 for current bills, and said Smith was worth more than $300,000. She is in New York.

Turkey to Fortify

PENNSYLVANIA LABOR PEACE BILLS SIGNED

Harrisburg, Pa., June 9.—[Special.]—Gov. Arthur H. James today signed three amendments to Pennsylvania's "little Wagner act" outlawing sit-down strikes and placing powerful curbs on other strike abuses. The bills were passed by the Republican controled legislature.

They provide punishment for employés found guilty of unfair labor practices and modify an anti-injunction law to permit judges to issue restraining orders under certain conditions in labor disputes.

"These amendments will help Pennsylvania dig herself out of the disastrous mess in which she was left by four years of the extravagance, experimentation and stupidity of the 'Little New Deal,'" said Gov. James.

BRITAIN TO BUILD FORTS IN TURKEY; AIMED AT NAZIS

Ataturk Line Will Run Along Frontier.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 9.—Another link in the ring being forged around Germany by Great Britain and France was disclosed today.

It is, or will be, a Turkish line of fortifications running to the Aegean sea along the frontiers of Bulgaria and Greece. Three lines of forts are to be erected along the two frontiers. The new line will be called the Ataturk line, after Turkey's recently deceased dictator, Kemal Ataturk.

The fortifications will be financed by the British. A Turkish military mission, under the leadership of Gen. Orbay, now is in England. The main objects of the mission are to get British material and engineers to help construct the giant fortifications. Gen. Orbay is understood to have had talks already with the British imperial general staff and with Leslie Hore Belisha, secretary of state for war.

French Also Give Help.

The Turkish government has announced a $90,000,000 defense budget, of which the major part will go towards erection of the new fortifications.

The French government also is helping Turkey with engineers and technicians.

The Ataturk line presumably figures in the recently announced agreement for an alliance between Turkey and Great Britain and is a measure in the diplomatic struggle between Germany and England in the near east.

Eye Appeasement Gestures.

LONDON, June 9.—(AP)—Gestures toward Germany by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax were described by sources close to the government tonight as the beginning of a British counter propaganda campaign to offset Nazi charges that England and France are seeking to encircle Germany with enemies.

The purpose of statements by the prime minister and foreign secretary in parliament yesterday that Britain was willing to discuss Germany's claims for economic living room was not immediately clear and gave rise in some quarters to suspicion that the government might be planning a new appeasement movement.

Official sources, however, denied any shift from what they called the new policy of peace by resistance.

The parliamentary correspondent of Reuters, British news agency, which has close connections with the government, said that the intention of the statements was to answer encirclement propaganda.

Denies Conference Is Planned.

The correspondent added that the Chamberlain and Halifax statements did not foreshadow any British initiative for negotiations with Germany or any conference.

As indications that the prime minister and his foreign secretary were aiming their words primarily at the ears of the German public, officials pointed to these facts:

1. Chamberlain expressed hope that the British Broadcasting corporation would carry his statement in its German language broadcast, inaugurated a few months ago to get around Nazi censors and to present the British point of view in Germany.

2. Lord Halifax said that one of the chief dangers in the present situation was that the German people as a whole should drift to the conclusion that Britain had abandoned all hope of reaching an understanding with Germany.

Statements Are Broadcast.

3. The BBC broadcast Chamberlain's statement in full and broadcast the lengthier statement of the foreign secretary almost in full.

The German press regarded the declarations as propaganda. Berlin editorial comment was unanimous in assailing them as British maneuvers to distract attention, as old tricks of intrigue against the [Rome-Berlin] axis, and as fine words mixed with insults.

In official Nazi quarters it was said that Germany distrusts the conciliatory speeches as a diplomatic maneuver connected with the hard sledding apparent in British negotiations with Russia. Officials said the government regarded them as an effort to bring pressure on Moscow.

FRENCH ARREST FOUR FOR SMUGGLING JEWS INTO NICE FROM ITALY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NICE, France, June 9. — Four Frenchmen, two fishermen, and two chauffeurs, were held by special police today on a charge of smuggling Jewish refugees from Italy into France.

Those arrested by mobile police units assigned to break up the refugee smuggling racket were Ange Brezzo, 39 years old, and Enrico Rumori, 45, both fishermen, who were alleged to have received $100 a trip for picking up the refugees from boats off the Italian coast, and August Nuppi, 53, and August Marze, 29, who allegedly were paid $10 a trip for transporting the Jews from Mentone to Nice after they had landed from the fishermen's boats.

The police believe the four responsible for the illegal entry of more than 200 Jewish refugees into France.

CHANGE OF VENUE SOUGHT FOR TWO HEINTZ LAWYERS

Counsel for Attorneys Edward A. Fisher and Francis J. Kennedy, who are charged with conspiracy to obstruct justice, sought a change of venue yesterday when the case came up for retrial before Judge William J. Lindsay in Criminal court. They told the court they intendec to argue that the defendants would be in double jeopardy if they went to trial again and that they believed a judge who had not been connected with the case previously should decide the point.

Fisher and Kennedy were arrested in the case of Hubert Heintz, son of a Winnetka broker, whose indictment for robbery of a finance company on Nov. 4 is still pending. Heintz escaped detection for some time by dyeing his hair, and the attorneys are accused of helping him to accomplish this. The first trial of the two men ended in a mistrial when a juror was disqualified.

Judge Lindsay instructed that a written petition for change of venue be filed and said he would rule on it on Monday.

FLEEING LIQUOR THIEF SHOT.

Dominic Cox, 19 years old, colored, 3617 Federal street, was shot and wounded in both legs early yesterday by Arthur Prince, 42, also colored, a watchman. Cox smashed a window of the Oberman drug store, 4301 South Michigan avenue, and attempted to flee with two bottles of liquor, Prince said.

FRENCH STRIVE TO FORCE RUSSIA TO CUT DEMANDS

Hint Value of Accord Is Overestimated.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 9.—Definite stiffening of the French attitude toward soviet Russia was noticeable in government circles today. While the conviction still is expressed as to the desirability of including Russia in the British-French front to stop Germany, mouthpieces of the Quay d'Orsay unmistakably hinted that the importance of a pact with the soviets generally had been overestimated by public opinion of the western powers.

This public attitude, it was indicated, had given the Russians the idea that they virtually could dictate conditions to France and England—an attitude which the French and British could not accept.

Accordingly, there is reason to believe that London and Paris are going to intimate in a friendly way to Moscow—if they have not already done so—that the Russians had better come down off their high horse for, after all, the pact is just as important to them as to the western powers—if not more so.

Pressure on Moscow.

Whether this is just putting a little pressure on Moscow to hasten the end of the dickering or whether it is an indication that negotiations with Russia and the whole policy of the so-called encirclement of potential aggressors is doomed, it is impossible to say yet.

It may or may not be significant that views very similar to those which appear to prevail in government circles were expressed today at a hearing of the senate foreign affairs committee by former Premier Pierre Laval.

Laval did not directly attack the proposed three-power security pact, but he expressed the view that the widespread belief within the western powers that the pact with Russia would secure peace automatically was a very dangerous illusion.

Shy at Baltic Pledge.

One thing is certain—the latest French draft of an accord dispatched to London does not provide for the same kind of automatic and immediate assistance in case of a German attack on the Baltic states as in the case of attack on Poland. It is argued here that it is impossible to guarantee the Baltic states against their will and that when a guarantee is not absolute it is impossible for any agreement for assistance to be put into force automatically.

Jewess Disguised as Arab Seized with a Time Bomb

JERUSALEM, June 9.—(AP)—A Jewish girl in Arab attire was seized today, police announced, with a basket of fruit and vegetables which concealed a time bomb set for 11 a. m. She was arrested near the Jerusalem central prison, which usually is filled with Moslem visitors on Friday mornings.

Wins Freedom Today

(Story in Adjoining Column.)

Serbian Regent and Wife End 8 Day Visit to Germany

BERLIN, June 9. — (AP) — Regent Prince Paul of Jugo-Slavia and his wife, Princess Olga, were on their way back to Belgrade today after an eight day visit to Germany. They left by train last night after spending two days at Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering's estate. Previously they had been the guests of Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

RUSSIA CONVICTS MRS. RUBENS, BUT FREES HER TODAY

Fate of Missing Husband Kept a Secret.

MOSCOW, June 9.—(AP)—Swift soviet court action today brought a promise of freedom tomorrow for Mrs. Ruth Marie Rubens, American imprisoned in Russia for a year and a half, but it produced no answer to her only question—"Can you tell me anything about my husband?"

Admitting she entered the soviet union in 1937 with a false passport, the brunette Mrs. Rubens coolly puffed a cigaret while awaiting a sentence of eighteen months, which she already had served except for one day. The trial, announced only shortly before it began, lasted forty minutes.

She was disconcerted only when the court declined to give her information as to the whereabouts of her husband who disappeared from a Moscow hotel shortly before she was arrested Dec. 9, 1937.

Embassy Efforts Fail.

Her husband, known both as Adolph Arnold Rubens and as Donald Robinson, has not been heard of since, despite efforts of the American embassy and the state department in Washington to get to the bottom of the mysterious case.

The judge's response to Mrs. Rubens' request for information about her husband was only, "No, not yet."

When asked if she had anything to say before sentence was passed Mrs. Rubens declared in English:

U. S. Officials Present.

American embassy officials were present to witness the quick little courtroom drama while a heavy rainstorm drummed on the window panes. It was not known, however, whether she would be turned over to American officials for possible prosecution on charges of falsifying a passport.

[Both Mrs. Rubens and her husband are under indictment in the United States on charges of obtaining fraudulent passports. In Washington officials said they believed the soviet reduction in charges against Mrs. Rubens from espionage to passport fraud was due to their belief that Mrs. Rubens was innocent of spying activities attributed to her husband. The state department indicated it would prosecute her. The charges carry a possible penitentiary sentence of five years and fine of $2,000.]

Embassy officials in Moscow had been permitted to see Mrs. Rubens once before, in a prison interview a month after her arrest. No mention was made at the trial of reports long current that Mr. and Mrs. Rubens were suspected of espionage.

Wears Smart Gray Suit.

Dressed in a smart gray suit, furs, and hat, Mrs. Rubens told the court she and her husband had left the United States to travel in France and Italy "because of my delicate health." When they reached Europe, she said her husband suggested "it would be a good idea to visit modern Russia."

Last November the soviet army newspaper Red Star hinted the Americans were held for espionage and linked their names with the spy trial then current in New York.

The paper said that one defendant at the trial, Gunther Gustave Rumrich, "no matter how he twisted or turned" had to admit fifty American passports had been obtained for sending German spies to soviet Russia.

[Three men were convicted in New York on May 2, 1938, for helping Rubens fake sixteen American passports and each received sentences of two years' imprisonment.]

STORM TROOPS TOLD DANZIG TO BE JOINED WITH GERMANY SOON

FREE CITY OF DANZIG, June 9.—(AP)—Albert Forster, fiery Nazi district leader, told a rally of 18,000 Danzig and East Prussian storm troopers tonight that Danzig hoped for annexation by Germany "in the near future." Eight thousand of the troopers were from East Prussia.

"We all feel that the fate of this city has advanced to a stage which we hope will lead to a good end in the near future," Forster said.

On the platform beside Forster was Victor Lutze, Adolf Hitler's chief of staff of the brown shirted SA [storm troops] corps, who came for a two day sport festival which tonight's demonstration opened. His presence at the time of strained relations between Poland and Germany over the question of Danzig's return to the reich heightened interest in the rally.

HEAR POPE ASKS A PEACE PARLEY WITHOUT RUSSIA

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

ROME, June 9.—Strong reports that Pope Pius' latest peace move consisted of a suggestion to Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain to call a four power conference without Russia went the rounds here today. On the stock exchange particularly the story was persistent and received credence—so much so it brought a strong market. Among other things, it is understood that if the pontiff's peace moves fail he will issue a pastoral letter explaining his ideas and making a last appeal over the heads of the various governments directly to the people.

Quezon Signs Law Designed to Protect Tenant Farmers

MANILA, P. I., June 9.—(AP)—Over the protests of large landowners, President Manuel Quezon today signed the rice tenancy act prohibiting hacienda owners from ejecting tenant farmers without legal cause. Quezon warned owners they must recognize the human rights of the farmers and not treat them as economic slaves. He said he would offer a similar act at the next assembly session covering industrial workers.

4 Men, Woman and Child Slain by Mexican Bandits

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 9.—Wreckage believed to be that of the Baby Clipper in which the American flyer, Thomas H. Smith, left Old Orchard Beach, Me., on a trans-Atlantic flight May 28 was discovered in the ocean 180 miles from Milford Haven, Wales, today.

Drifting through a heavy mist just before dawn, the Welsh trawler Yezo came upon the wreckage. Grappling irons brought up the undercarriage and one wheel of a small silver painted airplane.

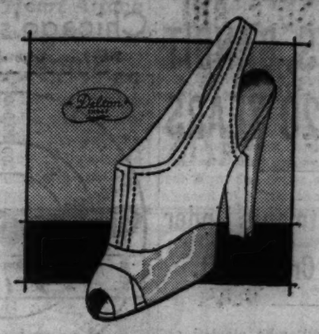

The tide washed away the rest of the wreckage before Jim Gale, skipper of the trawler, could get it aboard. When the tide changed he could not find it again. After three hours of fruitless searching, Gale brought the Yezo into Milford Haven harbor, where aviation authorities examined the recovered wreckage for possible identification marks.

CLOTHES BAR 3 FROM RUMANIAN SENATE SEATS

BUCHAREST, Rumania, June 9.—(AP)—Three peasant leaders with a constitutional right to become senators for life were refused admission to the senate today on the ground they were in civilian clothes. Former Premier Julio Maniu, Ion Michalache, exminister of the interior, and Dr. Nikolai Lupu, were told by the doorman they must conform to King Carol's decree making military style uniforms compulsory for new members of the corporative parliament organized on Fascist lines.

The three men, bitter foes of Magda Lupescu, King Carol's friend, departed in an angry mood. The new constitution allows one month for senators to be sworn in before forfeiting their seats.

OUT OF JAIL ONLY TEN DAYS, BANDIT GETS 1-20 YEARS

Vote 2 Indictments Under Habitual Crime Act.

Edward Zielinski, who started on a new crime career four days after he had completed a year's robbery sentence in the county jail, was sentenced yesterday to one to twenty years in the penitentiary. Immediately thereafter he was named by the grand jury in two indictments under the habitual criminal act. He faces mandatory sentences of twenty years' imprisonment if he is convicted on the new robbery indictments.

Edward Zielinski.

Zielinski, who has enjoyed leniency at the hands of the law enforcing officials for the last four years, was taken before Judge Robert Jerome Dunne in the Criminal court. The judge revoked the probation he had granted Zielinski last year on a previous robbery charge and sentenced him. Zielinski had engaged in a crime orgy last year, and despite three robbery charges had been given a one year jail sentence on a reduced charge and allowed probation in a second case. He was released from jail a week ago Wednesday.

Victim Tells of Robbery.

Present yesterday in Judge Dunne's courtroom were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kinast, 3828 Honore street, whose automobile Zielinski halted at Archer and Newland avenues last Sunday. Mrs. Kinast told the judge Zielinski ordered her husband to drive to a secluded part of the neighborhood after taking her purse which contained $4.

"We drove on a while," Mrs. Kinast said, "and when we reached a dark spot, Zielinski mumbled, 'This is a good night for a murder.' Later, before he ordered us out of the car, he said, 'I've got a good notion to drill you.'"

After hearing Mrs. Kinast, Judge Dunee turn to Zielinski, saying: "Don't you remember that when I sentenced you last year and added a year's probation, I warned you to keep out of trouble?"

Defendant Just Yawns.

Zielinski yawned slightly. "Yeh, you did, judge," he replied. "You said I'd go to the pen if I didn't go straight."

"That's just what's going to happen," snapped Judge Dunne. "I'm going to send you right now to serve your full term."

"Aw, judge," pleaded Zielinski, "can't you make it one to ten years instead of one to twenty?"

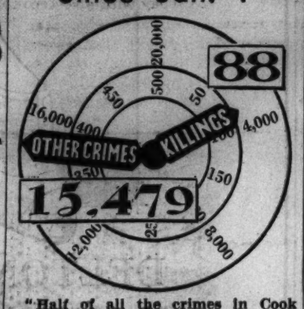

At this display, Judge Dunne turned an irate red. Simultaneously First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert Crowley stepped forward and said: "We're going before the grand jury immediately on this case to seek indictments under the habitual criminal act—and that'll put this man away for a long time."

Half an hour later, the jury heard Mrs. Kinast repeat her story. Bernard Fishman, 5545 Jackson boulevard, told how Zielinski had stolen his automobile after he had robbed the Kinasts. The jury then voted to indict Zelinski.

Zielinski, who is 22 years old, has a criminal record dating back to 1935, when he served sixty days in the Bridewell for a petty theft. He was captured last Sunday night after the two robberies.

40 Georgia Mules Tough but So's the Heat Wave

SECRET BRIDE, 19, UNABLE TO GO TO COLLEGE, SUICIDE

Girl Kills Self as Husband Races to Save Her.

Momence, Ill., June 9.—[Special.]—Despondency over a thwarted desire to obtain a college and musical education was advanced by a coroner's jury tonight as the cause of the suicide of Mrs Eleanor McMurrough Nagle, 19 years old, who was graduated from Momence High school last Friday.

Mrs. Eleanor Nagle.

The girl's secret marriage two years ago to William Nagle, 27, a bakery employé, was made public by her death yesterday. It was indicated that the marriage stood in the way of the talented young wife's dream of seeking a musical career.

Mrs. Nagle was found shot to death with her husband's .25-20 caliber rifle in his car, which was parked near the old Shrontz cemetery on a side road two miles east of Momence. At the time she shot herself her husband was speeding to the scene to try to prevent the act.

Beatrice Hayden, school chum and graduating classmate of Eleanor, said the young wife drove to the Hayden farm home outside of Momence about 5 p. m. yesterday. Eleanor stayed only a short time, but she made a startling statement while she was there, Beatrice said.

"I guess I'll commit suicide," Eleanor told her, Beatrice testified at the inquest tonight. Eleanor was smiling and Beatrice believed it was idle chatter.

After Eleanor left, Beatrice said, she became worried and drove to Momence to find her. She failed because Eleanor had driven onto the side road, but she told Nagle of the statement and sent him on a hurried quest for his wife. He found her just after she had fired a bullet into her head.

Q.—Did Eleanor ever tell you her married life was unhappy. A.—No.

Q.—Didn't you tell that to people around town? A.—No.

Q.—You know, Beatrice, that there was another boy in her class she liked very well? A.—Not that I know of.

Q.—Do you think the motive for her act was because she couldn't go on with her musical education? A.—Yes.

Both Nagle and the girl's father, John McMurrough, denied that the young couple had quarreled. McMurrough said he and his wife had known of the secret marriage but were keeping it quiet until Eleanor finished school. He said he had fixed up four rooms in his home and that the couple, who had never lived together, had planned to begin housekeeping.

Funeral services for Eleanor will be held from the Good Shepherd church here at 2 p. m. tomorrow. Burial will be in the Momence cemetery.

GIRL OF 18 HELD AS KIDNAPER IS 'A PERFECT FOOL'

Admits Stealing Boy, and Would Do It Again.

San Francisco, Cal., June 9.—[Special.]—A girl of 18, who set out from her farm home seven months ago with the intention of making her way in the world on her good looks, was held today on a charge of kidnaping for ransom, an offense that carries a possible life sentence. She was arraigned and held on $50,000 cash bail.

The prisoner identified herself, after giving two aliases, as Miss Margaret Polly Weil of Nassau, N. Y. She is charged with the abduction of Krehe Osborn, 5 years old, in what police said was San Francisco's first kidnaping for ransom in forty-five years.

Officers said Polly told them she demanded $1,600 for the safe return of the boy, whose governess she had been for a month, to get money to pay the mortgage on her mother's farm at Nassau. She also said she liked pretty things and saw little chance of getting them with her meagre income.

Traced to Hotel Room.

Her kidnaping scheme failed when police traced her to a hotel at San José, fifty miles from here, and found her and the Osborn child in a room. They had been missing for twenty-seven hours.

"I know I've been a perfect fool," Polly told officers, after submitting calmly to arrest. "But I guess I would do it again if I had the chance.

"I like pretty things. Other people have them and I wanted them, too. I could see I was never going to get any place with the little money I could make. I don't care about myself, but I'm not going to drag my mother into this."

She insisted, however, that the ransom money was to go to pay off the farm mortgage and told police that her mother is Mrs. Graham Weil of Nassau.

Admits Thefts in Chicago.

The attractive brunette admitted robberies in Chicago and Hollywood, Police Inspector John Engler said. He quoted her as saying she robbed the home of Mrs. Helen Hamilton, 6121 North Hoyne avenue, Chicago.

While employed in the home of Mrs. I. M. Holperin in Hollywood, Engler said, she robbed her employer and a guest, Mrs. S. Dayan of Indianapolis, Ind., of $3,000 in jewelry and apparel. She also took $50 in cash and rings valued at $300 from Mrs. Mabel Osborn, mother of the boy she abducted, the officer charged.

Engler said Polly's kidnaping scheme failed because she wore an expensive cape of silver fox furs that had been stolen in Los Angeles on May 2. A witness who saw her and the child enter a railroad station on Wednesday to entrain for San Jose remembered the furs and was able to supply police with the clew necessary to trail her.

Polly said she left home seven months ago and, although inexperienced, figured she could "get by" because she is attractive. She came here five weeks ago from Chicago and obtained employment as governess for the Osborn boy.

Note Demands $1,600 Ransom.

Mrs. Osborn discovered the disappearance of Polly and her son and found a ransom note about 1:15 p. m. Wednesday. The note, which police said was in Polly's handwriting, demanded $1,600, and warned Mrs. Osborn not to notify authorities "if you value your son's life."

The kidnaper decided upon the modest ransom, she said, after learning that Mrs. Osborn had $1,800 on deposit in a bank. The bank book was holding the ransom note in place when Mrs. Osborn found it.

Mrs. Osborn promptly called officers and the hunt began. Newspapers, press associations, and the radio were sworn to secrecy and maintained a self-imposed silence until the child was found safe.

Mother Can't Believe It.

Nassau, N. Y., June 9.—(AP)—Mrs. Graham Weil, 65 years old, mother of Margaret Weil, sobbed today when she learned her daughter faced a charge of kidnaping a 5 year old boy in San Francisco and said "I can't believe it."

GIRL IN CHICAGO.

Mrs. Helen Hamilton, 6121 North Hoyne avenue, whose home was looted by Margaret Weil, held as a kidnaper in San Francisco, said last night that she well remembered the girl who seemed to be a perfect maid. Mrs. Hamilton is the wife of Edmund C. Hamilton, president of an interior decorating company. "I hired the girl through an ad last Jan. 20," said Mrs. Hamilton. "She gave her name as Ruhama Graham Thames, but preferred to be called 'Hamie.'". "Hamie" disappeared the night of April 1. At the same time Mrs. Hamilton's fur and cloth coats, several dresses, jewelry, and other personal effects valued at $1,000, disappeared together with $65 in cash.

NAZIS QUIZ CZECH WOMAN PATRIOT IN POLICE SLAYING

Nurse Held After $20,000 Fine Is Levied on City.

PRAGUE, Bohemia, June 9.—(AP)—A young woman of Czech nationality was reported tonight to be in police custody in connection with the slaying of a German police sergeant at Kladno Wednesday night. The slaying had brought about a $20,000 fine and severe punitive measures by the Nazis against that mining and industrial center, which is fifteen miles from Prague.

The woman was said to be a nurse. At a hospital in which she was employed she was described as a great patriot. It was admitted that she was being questioned. The report was that she had voluntarily given herself up to the authorities.

Jews Hit by Fine.

This development came after German officials had levied the 500,000 crown [$20,000] fine on the Kladno district and ordered that any one withholding information of the slaying be shot upon discovery.

A police official asserted that in collecting the penalty Jews and persons known to have been ardent supporters of former President Eduard Benes would be obliged to make the greatest contributions. The penalty, it was said, would be imposed on the police district of the Kladno territory, embracing several villages, as well as the city of Kladno.

Stern punitive measures already imposed by the office of Baron Konstantin von Neurath, reich protector of Bohemia-Moravia, were tightened, and it was announced that further measures would follow tomorrow night if the slaying had not been solved by then.

Czech Unrest Grows.

Unrest and uncertainty crept over the remnants of the Czecho-Slovak republic in the wake of the incident. The police sergeant, Wilhelm Kniest, was found dead on a street in Kladno early yesterday morning. Some quarters thought the end of the slight measure of self-government the Czechs now have might be in sight.

An 8 p. m. deadline had been set by the German authorities for the Czechs to solve the killing. Tonight the deadline was advanced twenty-four hours. There were reports that full martial law or mass arrests might follow expiration of the new deadline without discovery of the slayers.

In the tightening of stringent measures it was ordered that the streets of Kladno be cleared between 8 p. m. and 5 p. m. It already had been ruled that doors and windows of homes must be closed during these hours.

300 Arrests Reported.

It was reported that about 300 persons—including state and district Czech police and the mayor of Kladno and other city officials—were interned in a school house. Included among those held, it was reported, was the district leader of the National Unity party, the only legal political group for Czechs in the protectorate.

The National Unity party took a serious view of the situation at a special meeting in Prague today. A special commission was ordered to go to Kladno to investigate the shooting of Sergt. Kniest.

At the same time the party declared that such "acts of force are a crime against the entire Czech people."

The district council of Kladno posted a reward of 30,000 crown [$1,200] for apprehension of the killer or killers, and then during the day raised it to 100,000 crowns [$4,000]. The reward fund was boosted to $6,000 late tonight when the government of the Bohemia-Moravia protectorate added 50,000 crowns to it. The reward was personally approved by Von Neurath.

News Suppressed in Germany.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 9. — The German public is scarcely aware of what is going on in Bohemia-Moravia in connection with the slaying of a German policeman. A six line item in the press merely informed the German population that "a cowardly murder of a German policeman occurred in Kladno. Measures have been taken to prevent a repetition of such incidents."

It is asserted that for weeks the Germans have been looking for a pretext to be used to rescind the privileges left to the Czechs and to abolish the semblance of independence given them under the name of a protectorate. The Czech population fears that hostages will be taken from among the former Czech leaders who were unable to leave the country and that a rule similar to the German rule in Belgium during the world war will be established.

NIEMOELLER'S FAMILY MAY LOSE HOME AS NAZIS HIT AT PASTOR

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, June 9.—The German Evangelical consistory has initiated proceedings against the Rev. Martin Niemoeller, former U-boat commander and imprisoned head of the Confessional church, which may result in his relegation to the status of itinerant preacher and the eviction from his Dahlem parish house of his wife and children.

Presumably acting on orders from Dr. Friedrich Werner of the reich church chancellery, the consistory has directed a letter to the Rev. Mr. Niemoeller through the GSP [secret police] notifying him of a recent decree by Dr. Werner making it possible to place pastors "on the waiting list," a euphemistic way of saying they are temporarily deprived of their pulpits and their emoluments, including salary and residence.

Since the Rev. Mr. Niemoeller's wife and children during his imprisonment have continued to live in the Dahlem parish house, such action would be tantamount to their eviction.

ALUMNI OF N. U. AWARD MEDAL TO BISHOP STEWART

The Rt. Rev. George Craig Stewart, Episcopal bishop of Chicago, was awarded the alumni medal by Northwestern university alumni at the Illumination night program last night on the Evanston campus.

The medal is the highest honor bestowed by the association, which numbers 43,000 graduates all over the world. The award is for distinguished service to the university. Five other residents of the Chicago area were given alumni merit awards last night. They were Mayor Henry D. Penfield of Evanston, Congressman Ralph E. Church of the 10th district, former Ald. John A. Massen of the 48th ward, Dr. John A. Wolfer, associate professor of surgery and director of the tumor clinic of Northwestern medical school, and Mrs. Arthur E. Swanson of Evanston, president of the women's building association of the University guild.

BRITISH HAND PROTEST TO JAPS IN SHANGHAI ON SLAYING OF BRITAIN

SHANGHAI, June 9.—(AP)—The British consulate general today presented a strong protest to Japanese authorities on the death Wednesday of R. M. Tinkler, British employé of a cotton mill, from wounds inflicted by Japanese marines.

The protest asserted that the killing of Tinkler, formerly an inspector of municipal police here, was unjustified and objected to the failure of the Japanese to report the case to British authorities or to allow a British doctor to see Tinkler.

The Briton died in the Shanghai general hospital in Japanese dominated Hongkew of wounds inflicted by Japanese who charged he had fired on a Japanese officer when Japanese marines entered the mill to stop a fight among Chinese workers.

State Sen. H. S. Burgess Stricken with Heart Attack

Fairfield, Ill., June 9.—(AP)—State Senator H. S. Burgess, 72 years old, was stricken today with a severe heart attack in his law office here. A member of his family said his condition was serious. Senator Burgess, a Democrat, served in the house and was elected to the senate in 1924 and again in 1932 and 1936.

Court Denies Habeas Writ to New York Ex-Convict

Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley of the Criminal court yesterday denied a writ of habeas corpus to Joseph Chevlin, an ex-convict, who is seeking to avoid extradition to Buffalo, N. Y., on charges of theft and forgery of $34,400 in checks from the Cliff Petroleum company there in 1933. Defense attorneys filed an appeal from the order and Chevlin was released in $7,500 bond.

SUBTERRANEAN TRANSIT (3)

By CALEB

CURIOSITY as to how one will get into and out of the new subway system to be opened by midsummer of next year, is a natural attitude that can be satisfied with a little imagination, supplemented by information from the system's engineers. . . .

Stations will be of two types: the "island platform" type and the "side platform" type. Side platforms will be at Roosevelt Road, Chicago and Grand Avenues, on State; also at Clybourn and North and Ashland and Milwaukee avenues. North of the Chicago River, they will be 500 feet long and 12 feet wide; and in the Loop these platforms will be 22 feet wide.

The twelve different stations on the two routes will be of varying sizes, dependent on volume of traffic; and for entrance to platforms, they will be located at mezzanine level—about 18 feet below the curb. Stairways will run to them from sidewalks on both sides of the roadway; and from there to the platform, escalators and stairways will be provided—one to each platform in outlying districts, and two in stations through the Loop.

Station structures proper will be of steel and concrete, or reinforced concrete; and on downtown thoroughfares like State and Dearborn, entrances will be in the middle of each block, to facilitate easy distribution of passengers over the continuous platforms from Lake to Van Buren, and Randolph to Jackson Boulevard . . .

And here a very natural query may occur to many a reader. "What about ventilation of all these train-and-passenger-crowded areas underground?" Obviously, this is no detail to experienced engineers, and has been adequately provided for. Trains will operate, both through separate single-track tunnels, and side by side. In the former case, there is a piston-like action set up by their speed that will greatly facilitate ventilation through openings to shafts and sidewalk gratings located, on inbound tracks, just beyond the end of station platforms.

These will relieve air-pressure and assure positive circulation; while at Loop stations, natural ventilation will be reinforced by exhaust-fans connected to ducts and louvres, which are capable of changing the entire air content every ten minutes. Also provided—to be used only in case of fire—are huge exhaust-fans, midway between stations, having sufficient capacity to clear the entire subway section of smoke in five minutes.

CASSIDY PLEADS FOR THIRD TERM FOR GOV. HORNER

Proposes His Candidacy to Young Democrats.

Peoria, Ill., June 9.—[Special.]—A third term for Gov. Henry Horner was formally proposed today by Attorney General John E. Cassidy in the keynote speech at the annual state convention of Young Democrats of Illinois.

The only comment of Horner in Springfield was: "I very much appreciate the compliment." A Democratic official close to him said, however, the proposal unquestionably is the opening gun in the governor's campaign. Horner's reëlection would make him the first Democratic three term governor in Illinois history.

The question of his health is probably the foremost obstacle in the path of the governor. He was seriously ill in Florida for four months recently. Upon his return to the state capital in the middle of April he was directed by physicians to devote no more than an hour a day to state business.

3,500 Democrats Present.

The advancement of Horner's name was made before about 3,500 Democrats who are attending the two day session held in the state armory. E. A. Dayton of Decatur was elected permanent chairman of the convention.

Cassidy's proposal that the governor succeed himself was accompanied by a blistering attack on the Republican party. He dwelt on national as well as state politics as he extolled the Democrats and denounced the Republicans.

"Let them bring forth their infant Dewey, their Harding-like Vandenburg, or their befuddled Taft," the attorney general shouted, "and we shall meet them toe to toe and eye to eye.

"America won the world war under the leadership of Wilson. Democracy made Illinois solvent and again self-respecting under the command of Horner, and turned back chaos and imminent collapse through the inspired guidance of Roosevelt.

Credits Horner for Success.

"Today our party has the affection and warm confidence of a decided majority of the electorate of this state. The great single force who produced these happy circumstances is he whose absence makes this magnificent meeting incomplete—the gentle, personable, cultured man of sentiment, the heroic, the valiant, the devoted Gov. Horner.

"A unified democracy of this state without factionalism or timidity will nominate Gov. Horner next year and, in November, 1940, a grateful people of this state will again happily elect him to continue as their matchless leader."

Lieut. Gov. John Stelle, who fought Horner's renomination in 1936 but ran the state "without rocking the boat" during the governor's illness, is scheduled to speak before the convention tomorrow. Stelle has frequently been mentioned in speculation as a Democratic candidate for governor in 1940.

G. O. P. TACKLES DEADLOCK OVER HARDING'S POST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 9. — [Special.]—Republican state central committeemen arrived in Springfield tonight to make a second attempt tomorrow to elect a national committeeman to succeed the late George F. Harding. Early arrivals believed that a deadlock which prevailed during nine ballots last month still persists.

The same four candidates still are in the running and, as before, the campaign managers for Charles R. Walgreen, chain drug store owner, are optimistic. Optimism also was firmly expressed by those supporting Hill Blackett, advertising executive; Thomas J. Houston, insurance man and 10th district committeeman, and Phil Collins, American Legion politician. All four candidates are Chicagoan.

Some of the committeemen here said that John D. Hamilton, the national chairman, might arbitrarily pick a committeeman if the committee fails tomorrow to elect.

Identify Dead Man in Time to Prevent Pauper's Burial

New York, June 9.—[Special.]—The missing persons bureau today identified the body of a man who died in Bellevue hospital on Tuesday as A. J. Owen Culbertson, 40 years old, member of a noted Texas family. Had it not been for the identification the body would have received a pauper's burial in Potter's field. The man suffered a stroke Monday night in a room of a small hotel. He was removed to Bellevue and died without regaining consciousness. Investigators learned that he had been a writer of note, a friend of Richard King Mellon and John Hay Whitney.

THUMB, $1 AND NERVE! CO-ED CIRCLES WORLD

New York, June 9. — [Special.] — Jean Lackey of Delavan, Wis., quit the University of Wisconsin in the midst of her senior year in 1936 to try to thumb her way around the world. She made the trip, but she did plenty of work in addition to the thumbing.

The wandering co-ed returned today aboard the Holland-American liner Nieuw Amsterdam, not as a vagabond, but as a sort of international Jacqueline-of-all-trades. Among the jobs she held in various countries were those of model, doctor's assistant, publicity agent, movie producer, stenographer, and advertising agent.

She had only one suitcase, a little more than $1, and a large store of nerve when she started out. She returned with money in the bank, a wardrobe of Parisian frocks, and a store of knowledge and experiences.

LAY STONE TODAY FOR U. OF I.'S NEW GREGORY HALL

Champaign, Ill., June 9.—[Special.]—Alfred Gregory of Kansas City, Mo., tomorrow will lay the cornerstone of the new $772,000 University of Illinois building, Gregory hall, which has been named for his father. Gregory, an attorney, is the son of Dr. John Milton Gregory, first president of the university, from which the son was graduated in 1878. The new building replaces old University hall which was torn down last year.

MICHIGAN G. O. P. FOR VANDENBERG ALL ALONG LINE

Lansing, Mich., June 9.—[Special.]—Officers of Republican county committees throughout Michigan have indorsed United States Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg as the party's 1940 presidential nominee, James F. Thomson, Republican state central committee chairman, reported today.

Thomson said the committee executives at a meeting here adopted a resolution stating that Vandenberg has become nationally famous for his statesmanship and ability since he went to the senate in 1928.

"His leadership," the resolution continued, "during this period has been the rallying point for sane, constructive opposition to all schemes dangerous to the public welfare. He has never failed to voice opposition to the fallacies of the New Deal, but has favored those ideas which were constructive."

BACK O' YARDS CLUB CATCHES A BYGONE FLAVOR

A Breeze Wafts In from the Stockyards.

Some 150 members of the Back o' the Yards Old Settlers' club gathered in their former stamping ground last night to recapture the flavor of old times. Even the wind was in their favor and the famous old stockyards odor made them feel at home.

Mrs. Blanche Beasant, a branch librarian, and James J. O'Toole, 78 years old, an assistant corporation counsel, were in charge of the celebration at Davis square fieldhouse, 45th street and Marshfield avenue. About the turn of the century, when Germans, Poles, and Irish battled for the leadership of the back o' the yards area, and even the Irish couldn't get along after they won, O'Toole headed one of the Irish factions. The other faction was known as Tom Cary's Indians. George Hilton, one of three remaining Indians, was there last night to see that O'Toole didn't do all the talking.

O'Toole knew everybody. He remembered where they used to live. He remembered who married whom. And he enjoyed reminding them of it.

A Bag Puncher De Luxe.

One of the guests was Andrew Vogler, now 66 years old, of 5421 South Marshfield avenue, who was the champion bag puncher of the middle west thirty-eight years ago. He was then a butcher in the neighborhood and later became a government inspector at the stockyards. He won his medal in 1901 at old Oswald's grove, 52d and Halsted streets, when the Packing Trades council gave a picnic and offered a medal. Seven others entered the bag punching contest, and all gave up without trying when they saw Vogler's show.

But Vogler got married thirty-six years ago and deserted the bag punching contests. For thirty-five years he was in retirement. Then last Christmas his sons gave him a punching bag. He built his own special platform and practiced secretly. Last night he put on his old show. Then he did it all blindfolded, and the Back o' the Yards club went wild.

Recalls Old Names.

Afterward Vogler told them he used to belong to the Crystal Athletic club on 47th street, east of Ashland avenue, and he recalled to their memories Tom Mowat, the fighting street car conductor; Jack Perry, and William [Buck] Montgomery of earlier fistic fame.

There were songs by Jack Cunningham, the McCormack of back o' the yards, and by Walter Goodwin, who composed the song by that name. There were ancient Gaelic figure dances under the direction of Mrs. Mae Kennedy, in which proficiency was judged only by what happened below the dancers' knees.

An interested spectator and loquacious arguer at the party was Edward [Spike] O'Donnell, one time big shot in beer. The last time O'Donnell was arrested he said he was in the coal business.

RECEPTION WILL GREET M'NUTT AT INDIANAPOLIS

Indianapolis, Ind., June 9.—[Special.]—Paul V. McNutt's return to Indiana from the Philippines, of which he is high commissioner, will be marked by a homecoming reception in Monument circle here. Frank McHale, president of the McNutt for President club, announced the plans today. The former Indiana governor and his family will arrive in Indianapolis on June 29 or 30, depending on arrival of his ship in San Francisco.

Edward C. Elliott, president of Purdue university, will be chairman of the reception and will give the address of welcome from the balcony of the English theater. McNutt will respond.

Gov. M. Clifford Townsend will head a committee to meet McNutt's train at Union station. The Democratic state committee and Indiana Young Democrats club will participate.

Gunther Takes a Look Behind Scenes in Asia

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Inside Asia," by John Gunther. [Harpers, $3.50.] Published Thursday.

The author of "Inside Europe," which gave a large share of the American reading public the groundwork for an understanding of Europe's complicated difficulties, here surveys Asia with the same analytical eye. He illuminatingly presents the salient points of each Asian country's relations to the larger world and to its own internal and border worlds.

Written in the manner of the good, intelligent conversation of a legal minded talker, "Inside Asia" presents a panorama of that other side of the world which has become more and more significant in the political future of the civilized world.

Mr. Gunther devotes almost half of his book to Japan and China, and clarifies, for this reader at least, the internal situations in both countries and their relations to each other and the outside world more succinctly than any previous writer.

Japan's official reiteration that she is dedicated to preserving the peace of Asia is almost the patriotic song of the country that, as Mr. Gunther says, "is on the march." "The march is cruel and vigorous," he writes. "Nothing will stop Japan except force—force stronger than Japan's—or, conceivably, social upheaval following grave military disaster."

"China . . . is in the grip of a convulsion partly of disintegration, partly of rebirth," says Mr. Gunther, and he explains in simple, understandable terms the personal and political nature and spirit which resulted in those convulsions.

The leaders in all of the Asiatic countries are treated to the same careful though brief analysis. Mr. Gunther has done a remarkably thorough job in a book which, though not in fact brief [almost 600 pages], is amazingly pemmicanized. "Inside Asia" is practically a must book for intelligent readers of the news.

Colonial Day Adventure

"Next to Valour," by John Jennings. [Macmillan, $2.75.] Published Tuesday.

Another long, exciting chronicle of the "Northwest Passage" period and mood is this tale of another of Roger's Rangers, one Jamie Ferguson of New Hampshire, who fled there when he was little more than a boy from his native Scotland after his father died fighting for the Stuart cause.

The book is written in the first person. It purports to be the explanation which Jamie sent to Sir William Pitt in 1766 [as well as an explanation to his sons and his son's sons] as to why he refused an official offer of the restoration of the ancestral Ferguson lands and title and preferred to remain a plain Ferguson of New Hampshire.

By that technical trick the book takes on the immediacy and the vividness and reality of a contemporary document.

To Jamie Ferguson, as a provincial soldier in the French and Indian wars, Crown Point, Ticonderoga, Albany, and the Plains of Abraham were vivid experiences, but no more harrowing than his lonely days as scout in the wilderness or his private battles with death.

There is as much adventure tucked away under the dignified and sometimes a little pompous prose of these 820 pages as any thriller boasts.

Fashions for Men

"Men Can Take It," by Elizabeth Hawes. [Random, $2.] Published Monday.

Elizabeth Hawes, whose autobiography, "Fashion Is Spinach," was one of last year's most spectacular best sellers, offers us now a gay, amusing tirade on men's clothes.

Miss Hawes, who is one of the best known designers of women's clothes in America, suggested in "Fashion Is Spinach" that she thought men were worms, or they wouldn't "take it" on a hot summer day. Here she goes into the subject thoroughly, and a man's wife will either huzzah with him if they both read it [and if she really thinks more of her husband than she does of herself] or want Miss Hawes fed a cup of hemlock for impiety and corrupting youth.

For Miss Hawes dares to point out the absurdity of men loading themselves down with [by statistical record] five pounds and nine ounces of stifling clothes in the summer while women wear [by the same statistics] only one pound and nine ounces. And she more than intimates that the reason men insist on wearing tight collars [eight layers of material] and ties [three layers] around town in hot weather is that their little women insist on their looking like every one else. Miss Hawes then goes into very amusing philosophical bypaths on the way a good many little women spend their lives—doing nothing!

Miss Hawes insists that her specific suggestions about men's clothes are not radical at all, that all she wants is to get the men comfortable and—maybe—beautiful. She thinks that knitted trousers would do the trick, with blouses worn either inside or outside. She advocates the removal of the collar and tie and suit coat for work and formal play.

"It is all so simple," she concludes, "I wonder why one should write books about men's clothes." And that reminds us that one of the most famous books in the English language is about men's clothes, "Sartor Resartus," and that Miss Hawes sticks to her subject just about as closely as Carlyle did.

Assorted Moods Skilfully Created in 3 Brief Novels

BY MARCIA WINN.

"Pale Horse, Pale Rider," by Katherine Anne Porter. [Harcourt Brace, $2.]

Katherine Anne Porter, author of "Flowering Judas," seems more finished, more mature, in this new book, which consists of three short novels. All three are distinguished in tone and treatment.

Katherine Porter.

Each story creates a certain mood. "Old Mortality" is nostalgic. "Noon Wine" is like its name, headily powerful. "Pale Horse, Pale Rider" deals with one of the many great loves broken by the influenza epidemic that swept through the army camps in the winter of 1918-'19.

Miss Porter is an able and often subtle craftsman. Her stories are woven deftly and surely, with a delicacy of style that fortunately just misses the stigma of prettiness.

Gorki's Short Stories

"A Book of Short Stories," by Maxim Gorki, translated by Avraham Yarmolinsky and Baroness Moura Budberg. [Holt, $3.]

This collection of fifteen stories by Maxim Gorki includes several of his well known ones, such as the ageless "Creatures That Once Were Men," but it also includes six never before translated into English.

Just why former translators have ignored "The Hermit," one of these six, is a mystery, for it is Gorki at his best. The translation of "Lullaby," too, should have been done long ago, for it is a powerful, exquisite story of a woman of the streets, a man, and a crippled child.

Aldous Huxley, however, in a foreword to the collection, wonders whether Gorki should be read in translation. His power, Huxley contends, arises from his nuances of phrasing which may be lost completely in translation. Nevertheless, this is the first attempt to bring together a representative collection of Gorki's best stories in translation, the editors say, and it should be a welcome and valuable edition to English book shelves.

Mexico as It Appears from 2 Viewpoints

"An Eye-Witness of Mexico," by R. H. K. Marett. [Oxford, $3.]

Two Englishmen give us the latest impressions of Mexico—one with an ax to grind and the other as an impartial observer.

Bearing a message is Graham Greene, one of the young English Catholic intellectuals, who went to Mexico to learn for himself of the suppression of the church and found exactly what he was looking for.

Greene, whose novel, "Brighton Rock," will be remembered, entered the country at Laredo, proceeded through Monterrey and San Luis Potosi to Mexico City, then went to Vera Cruz, sailed to Frontera, and traveled through the states of Tabasco and Chiapas, where religious intolerance was the strongest.

Everywhere he found proof of the government's iron hand. He does not enter into any of the arguments advanced in behalf of the suppression, being satisfied to seek out evidences that the church still lives in the hearts of the peons. He presents seemingly irrefutable proof that this is so.

R. H. K. Marett went to Mexico to enter business but found it hard to do so until he had done some exploring of his own. His admittedly layman excursions to the Toltec and Aztec ruins are as interesting as any part of his pleasant book, unless it be his experiences with his wife's family. He married into a substantial Mexican family and found them fine and entertaining people. P. W.

The Story of Vienna

"Vienna," by Henry Dwight Sedgwick. [Bobbs Merrill, $3.75.]

"The biography of a bygone city" is the nostalgic subtitle of the story of this once gay, carefree place, the home of Gluck, Haydn, and Mozart; of the minnesinger, Walther von der Vogelweide; of the gallant Wallenstein and Prince Eugene, and of the fabulously wealthy family of Liechtenstein. On the flyleaf are the words:

"Men are we, and must grieve when even the shade
Of that which once was great has passed away."

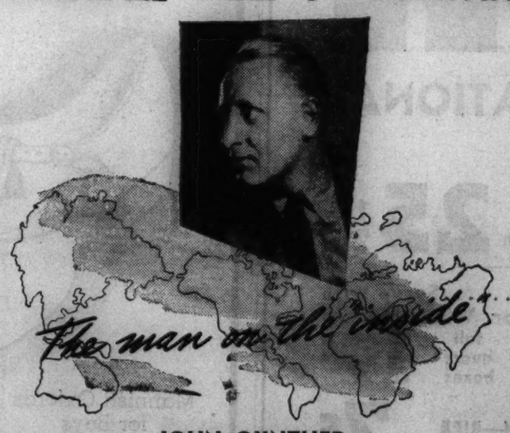

Henry Dwight Sedgwick goes back to the very beginnings of Vienna and then traces its growth, describing that elusive thing, its spirit, by telling of its rulers, its social life, its architecture, its culture. The chapter on the baroque period is a delight, while that on Marie Theresa is as witty and clever as it is informative. There is music in the sentences that describe the famous waltz and its composers, and tense drama and tragedy in the final pages that deal with Dollfuss, Schuschnigg, and the anschluss.

Here is a book that holds the very essence of one of the most fascinating cities in the world. No books we've ever read on London or Paris or Florence can compare with it. It is a treasure. E. W.

WIEBOLDT TRUCK SLAYING GOES ON 'UNSOLVED' LIST

Union Terrorists Escape Police Once More.

Nearly two months ago James Lawrence, a Wieboldt department store truck helper, was killed by labor terrorists. Last night police and the state's attorney's office said they are still investigating the crime, but admitted they lacked definite clews to the identity of the killers.

Thus it appears that the killing of Lawrence will go down among the many labor slayings in Chicago remaining unsolved. The lack of success by police in solving labor crimes has led experts in criminology to conclude that the labor purge is the safest form of murder.

Slain During Union Dispute.

Lawrence, 45 years old, was shot to death April 12 during a dispute between trucking unions and the Wieboldt stores. He was one of five men riding on a Wieboldt truck which was fired upon by an auto load of gunmen. A $5,000 reward has been offered for the arrest and conviction of the slayers.

The slaying of Lawrence was the twentieth labor killing in Chicago in the last eight years. In all except one instance the killers escaped without punishment. The one case in which a conviction of labor terrorists was obtained was that of John Rooney, secretary and treasurer of the Circular Distributors' union; Henry Berry, business agent, and Miss Rosalie Rizzo, Rooney's sweetheart.

The two union officials and the woman were found guilty of the murder in 1933 of Stanley Gross, a watchman at a Goldblatt Brothers department store. Gross was shot down while guarding the store from acts of union violence. Rooney and Berry were sentenced to life imprisonment and Miss Rizzo was sent to prison for twenty years.

Four Killings in 1938.

In 1938 there were four murders attributed to labor terrorists. All are unsolved. One of these was the slaying of Lloyd Rourke, an independent laundry driver.

Rourke had defied an order by pickets to stay away from the Del Prado hotel where the Trades and Crafts council, an overhead organization of unions, had established a picket line. On Feb. 10, 1938, while on his route he was hauled from his truck by sluggers and beaten to death with a baseball bat.

On March 25 of the same year Edward Shuler, a member of Local 399 of the International Union of Operating Engineers, was shot to death on the west side. Investigation showed he had been an opponent of the ruling faction of the union and had been beaten at a union meeting several weeks before he was slain.

Capone Aid Assassinated.

Bert Delaney, former superintendent of Al Capone's bootleg breweries, was shot down at 35th street and Ellis avenue on Oct. 21, 1938. Police said he had been trying to muscle into the teamsters' union. The murder was committeed in the presence of Delaney's sweetheart.

Two months previously, on Aug. 8, James G. Dungan, czar of the painters' union, was ambushed and slain in front of his home at 3116 Lowe avenue. There were a score of witnesses to the shooting, but no arrests or identifications were ever made.

Dungan's murder was the sixth unsolved killing in recent years attributed to the turbulent affairs of the painters' union. The other slayings were: Frank Carr, in 1931; Michael [Bubs] Quinlan, a slugger, in 1934; Roy Thompson, a business agent, in 1934; Mrs. George Henneman, killed in 1936 by bullets intended for her husband, who was financial secretary of a painters' union local, and Robert A. Shields, an active member of the union, in 1937.

Teamster Union Strife Center.

Teamster union troubles, police said, accounted for the deaths of Timothy J. Lynch, west suburban union boss, in 1931; Dan Tagnetti, in 1931; George [Red] Barker in 1932; Three Fingered Jack White in 1934, and Michael J. Galvin, head of the so-called outlaw teamsters' union, in 1936.

At least five killings are attributed by police to warfare in the Moving Picture Operators' union. The victims were Jacob Kaufman in 1931, Fred F. Oser in 1933, Tommy Maloy, czar of the union, in 1935; Clyde Osterberg, an anti-Maloy member, in 1935, and Fred C. Blacker in 1937.

Police say all these killings result from the struggle for power by professional gangsters and labor racketeers who seek control of the wealthy unions.

MARLENE DIETRICH.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 9.—(AP)—Marlene Dietrich, who once complained she could not afford to live in America, became an American citizen today.

Fashionably attired—"I wear only American made clothes"—the German actress stood in a federal courtroom with fifty-nine others and took the oath of allegiance to the United States.

"I have waited five years for this moment," she said.

Miss Dietrich will leave next week for Paris to see her husband, Rudolph Seiber, and their daughter, Maria, 14.

OREGON, ILL., MAN IS HELD IN POISON DEATH OF FATHER

Sister of Victim Causes His Arrest.

Oregon, Ill., June 10 [Saturday].—(AP)—Ogle County Sherif James White said early today that George Gronewold, 51 years old, had signed a statement admitting he had put poison into a soft drink which his father, John, 78, drank shortly before he died on May 27. The sherif said a charge of suspicion of murder had been placed against Gronewold.

The elder Gronewold's body was exhumed today. The sherif said an examination by Dr. Harold Palmer of Rockford showed no signs of a cerebral hemorrhage which would have been present had Gronewold died of apoplexy, the cause of death given in the death certificate.

Quarrels with Father.

Sherif White said Gronewold in his statement asserted his action had been prompted by quarrels with his father. He said he feared his father might change his will, disinheriting him, the sherif reported. The elder Gronewold owned considerable property and the son was named beneficiary in the will.

The sherif said investigation of the death had been prompted by statements of the elder Gronewold's sister, Dena Gronewold, a nurse.

She presented the soft drink container to State's Attorney S. Donald Crowell, who had an analysis made by the state bureau of criminal investigation, Sherif White said. The chemist's report showed a "phosphorous compound, probably a type of rat poison," had been mixed with the drink.

Separates from Wife.

The prisoner had separated from his wife 18 months ago and since had been living in his father's home. The sherif continued questioning Gronewold and did not indicate when evidence would be ready to be presented to a grand jury.

SEEK COURT AID TO ESCAPE AIR RIGHTS CHARGE

A court order to release the city from paying $497,000 for air rights to build a new State street viaduct will probably be sought within the next two weeks, William H. Sexton, city traction attorney, said yesterday. The viaduct, spanning the Chicago & North Western railway tracks, will connect with the north end of the new State street bridge to be built over the Chicago river.

An arrangement between the city and the railroad made in 1932 called for payment by the city of $497,000 to the railroad for the air rights to a strip of land 50 feet wide. This, added to the 60 foot right of way already held by the city, would make possible a 110 foot viaduct to connect with the new bridge of about the same width. Last fall, however, when the new viaduct and bridge were planned in conjunction with the subway construction, a council finance subcommittee proposed that the railroad give the city the necessary rights without cost.

SEIZE SUSPECT IN RADIO CORD MYSTERY KILLING

Tavern Girls Tell Remark, "Police Don't Know All."

Henry Nunnelly, 42 years old, was taken into technical custody early today for questioning about the radio cord murder of Miss Rose Neary, well to do spinster, who was strangled and beaten to death in her apartment at 3248 Franklin boulevard a week ago last night. This was the second development in the case in the last 24 hours. Yesterday Irving Leffman, of Des Moines, Ia., Miss Neary's cousin, filed suit in the Probate court to break her will.

Nunnelly is employed as a handyman at the Franklin Boulevard hospital, a few doors away from Miss Neary's apartment. He has not been at work since last Monday, police were told at the hospital. Remarks he made last Monday night led to his arrest.

Girls Tell of Conversation.

At that time he visited the Legion inn at Madison and Sangamon streets, met two entertainers, Myrtle Kavanaugh and Hazel Armstrong, and told them, they said, he knew Miss Neary.

"I work next door to where she was killed," they quoted him as saying. "The cops aren't so smart. They don't know everything."

The police quoted the girls as saying Nunnelly had offered to sell them a lady's wrist watch, the band of which had been damaged. Nunnelly denied to police that he had had such a watch.

A wrist watch which Miss Neary's friends told police she owned has not been found since she was slain.

Green Auto Is Clew.

Nunnelly was drunk at the time they saw him, the girls said.

They followed him outside and took the license number of his car. This they gave to Des Plaines street police. Police traced it to him and, with Austin and coroner's police, went to his room at 1350 Madison street, where they seized him this morning. He was drunk.

Nunnelly's car was outside. It is colored green. A green colored car was seen "rushing away with a roar" from in front of the Neary home the day of the murder. Nunnelly told police he drives to work and parks his car in the neighborhood.

Tells of Job at Her Home.

He was questioned only briefly because of his condition. He told police he had once been in Miss Neary's home.

"That was about two weeks ago," he said.

She asked him in to repair an electric clock, he added. He fixed it and Miss Neary gave him 50 cents. He said he was at the hospital the night a neighbor ran in to telephone police about the murder. Nunnelly's right hand was swollen and bore a small scab, the result of an injury which police said must have been received about a week ago.

In Nunnelly's room police found several pornographic pictures, several murder mystery stories, and a length of wire. He said he didn't know why he had the wire.

"Sometimes I don't know what I'm doing," he said.

Austin police plan to question him today after he has rested.

Her Mind Unsound, Cousin Says.

The suit to break Miss Neary's will asserts that she was of unsound mind when she drew it. Probate Judge John F. O'Connell named the American Bank and Trust company of Chicago temporary administrator of the estate.

"The court has been informed that there are unusual circumstances attached to the execution of this will," Judge O'Connell said. "Tests of the document's validity are being made. Police are investigating Miss Neary's death."

Miss Neary's will was drawn up by Attorney Samuel Z. Pincus. It disposes of an estate valued at about $70,000. Except for minor bequests, the estate goes to such charities as Mr. Pincus may select. He was named executor. Leffman, the cousin, presumably Miss Neary's closest relative, was not mentioned. Leffman's lawyer is Arthur Grossman. Attorney Grossman said it appears that all parts of the will were not written at the same time.

Sought in Shooting

Joseph Cretzer, 27 years old, and his wife, Edna Mae, 30, identified as couple who wounded Michigan City (Ind.) policeman.

Policemen at Michigan City, Ind., yesterday identified the ninety pound gunwoman and the man who shot and seriously wounded Policeman Frank Cowgill, who stopped them for questioning early Wednesday.

They are Edna Mae Cretzer, 30 years old, formerly of Missoula, Mont., and her husband, Joseph, 27 years old. Cretzer has been sought since April, 1937, on a charge of robbing a bank in Los Angeles, Cal.

The identification was made through pictures in the files of the federal bureau of identification. Cowgill and another policeman, James Shelton, said they had no doubts that the Cretzers had done the shooting. The couple fled after wounding Cowgill and have escaped arrest, although an intensive search has been made for them.

GRACE ABBOTT CRITICALLY ILL WITH ANEMIA

Dr. Grace Abbott, for fourteen years chief of the United States Children's bureau and now a member of the University of Chicago faculty, was critically ill last night in Billings Memorial hospital. Attending physicians said she was suffering from a form of anemia. She is 60 years old. Dr. Abbott was chosen in a nationwide poll in 1931 as one of America's twelve most distinguished women. She was one of the pioneers and leaders in the fight for a child labor amendment and served on numerous governmental commissions and committees. She came to the university in 1934 to join her sister, Edith Abbott, dean of the school of social service administrations.

CONVICT FORMER N. Y. LEGISLATOR OF TAKING BRIBES

The jury verdict covered two counts of the six count indictment. It carries a maximum penalty of 20 years' imprisonment and a $10,000 fine.

Elaine Barrie in Chicago, but Barrymore Snoozes On

Elaine Barrie, estranged wife of John Barrymore, the actor, was in Chicago for six hours yesterday en route from Hollywood to New York. Barrymore apparently slept right through her visit. Miss Barrie was scheduled to leave at 6:30 p. m. Calls to the Barrymore apartment in the Ambassador East hotel elicited the reply that he could not be awakened until 7 p. m. Miss Barrie sued the actor for divorce May 11 in Los Angeles. She telephoned from Hollywood to inquire about his condition when he was stricken with a heart ailment May 30.

THE KING AND THE DEMOCRATS.

The British might not have recognized their king in the man who was picking up gloves and handkerchiefs and getting a slap on the back at the garden party. Americans might not have recognized their democrats in the senators, peers of the house of lords for the day, and wriggling in delighted embarrassment like spaniel puppies. Or would they recognize them? The country was pretty well prepared in advance for what was to come.

Mr. Garner, for the occasion the American viceroy, met his cousin the king as sovereign to sovereign, told him a story which made him laugh [what was it, Jack?] and slapped him on the back. After that the protocol was found with its head in the punch bowl. The ladies dropped their portable belongings and George VI. was busy, a much enduring monarch in the clutches of the puritan republic.

The proletarian statesmen who went to the garden party had to do something to save face against the jibes of the statesmen who wouldn't go and they covered up by adopting the free and easy manner of a political barbecue. The sufferings of the true crown colony representatives of the Atlantic seaboard must have been barely endurable. The scene was unthinkable and will remain unmentionable.

The king had his part to play and had been prepared for it. He knew Cotton Ed Smith and Cactus Jack and responded to "Howdy, king." The news must be handled with discretion back in London. Many things have happened since the visitors reached the shores of North America which will not happen again if the mayors of the palace can help it, but the price must have been studied in advance.

Certain patterns of behavior were predictable. But the indignities suffered by royalty will be well endured by the king for the sake of his country if the consequences hoped for by his ministers and prepared for by Mr. Roosevelt should be obtained. If the clumsy homage of the New Dealers opens the way for the betrayal of their own country the empire may think the results well worth the shock.

What has been accomplished by the efforts of the king? We'll know more about that when congress reveals the effects, whether it has been softened under its straw hat or made tougher. If it scraps the neutrality act and gives Mr. Roosevelt the authority he wants to pick sides and give aid, Mr. Chamberlain will think very well of his coup d'état.

JUST ANOTHER ADVISORY BOARD.

When our administration leadership is not crying for a consultative commission—at 8 to 10 thousand dollars per head in annual pay—as an adjunct to some one of the innumerable federal departments, it is pleading for the same thing under another name; for example, an advisory board to a cabinet officer. And there is no record of the plea being unanswered; the President grants it.

Harry Hopkins, the new secretary of commerce, had been quiescent for a number of days, but that did not mean he was idle. He wasn't; he was cogitating on just where and how to install a new board and so add a quarter of a million dollars to the country's expenses and provide more jobs for the faithful.

This week Secretary Hopkins became vocal. He announced that he needed an advisory board—an executive staff of 10 to 12 members at $9,000 per year—to make the commerce department a "driving force to work out broad business problems." No sooner said than done. The thing was easy. The house appropriations committee, on instructions from the President, set aside $257,500 to set up the new Hopkins staff. Thus one more federal commission is added to the innumerable throng of them already overwhelming Washington office buildings and burdening the long suffering people of this country.

The President has not yet appointed his own six assistants "with a passion for anonymity," but they will soon be named and so will Hopkins' ten or twelve men to aid him in promoting trade and industry; incidentally to promote the third term movement.

CHICAGO LABOR VIOLENCE.

Chicago undertakers reported to the state's attorney that shortly after they had received visits from organizers trying to enroll both themselves and their employés in an alleged union windows of their establishments were smashed and stench bombs thrown into their chapels. An organizer for the union was arrested and a slingshot found in his automobile. He asserted that he didn't know how it got there, but since his arrest the window smashings have stopped.

There is no need and no place for vandals and murderers in a legitimate labor movement. If the unions themselves cannot clean house they will be subjected to such regulation as will make the housecleaning effective. Legislation of this type will be unpleasant to the unions and will be regretted by their friends, but if it is enacted the unions will have no one to blame but themselves.

Nearly two months have elapsed since James Lawrence was murdered during the Wieboldt truck strike. Neither the police nor the state's attorney's investigators have made an arrest in the case. Those agencies have also had sixteen months in which to clean up the murder of Lloyd Rourke during the strike at the Plaza hotel, and have failed to do so.

Such murders can be solved, and the guilty punished, if the will to do so is present. The fact that they have not been cleaned up gives ground for strong suspicion that the will is lacking.

CLOSING THE SALOONS.

Police Commissioner Allman said all that needed to be said about saloon closing hours when the current fracas over the matter started. He told the aldermen that they had passed the ordinance he was enforcing, and that if they didn't like it they can change it.

This sound comment did not prevent an aldermanic wind from the stockyards from huffing and puffing at the commissioner the other day because his subordinates are enforcing the law. The only right of citizens the police seem to have been violating is the right to violate the law, and when that fact is recognized, the alderman's zeal for the bill of rights is as silly as was his contention that daylight saving didn't count.

It has appeared, since the closing hour has been enforced, that a majority of the gin mills in Chicago were violating it previously. It is an open secret that almost all of the violators were paying for the privilege, the usual fee being $50 a week. There is at least a hint here, to cynics, that the indignation of numerous politicos at the police may be not wholly pure.

As for the saloonkeepers themselves, they should be reminded that it is only a few years since they got out of the doghouse on their promise to behave better in the future than they did before prohibition. There is already quite a bit of local option territory in Chicago, and unless they watch their step it will be extended.

A council committee has voted to let the saloons stay open an hour later than is permissible now. It may be that a 2 o'clock curfew, enforced, will be better than a 1 o'clock curfew consistently violated. A number of cities let saloons stay open until 2 a. m. New York has a 4 a. m. ordinance which is enforced pretty effectively on the apparent theory that if a man can't get drunk by that time of the morning he should quit trying.

Any extension of the closing hour, however, should take into account differences in neighborhoods. If a visiting fireman wants to step into Rush street and bay at the moon at 3 a. m. it is probable that he disturbs few except other serious drinkers. But a noisy barroom near a residential district can be a nuisance before midnight.

ISLANDS FOR DEBTS.

France owes the United States something like 3 billion dollars, exclusive of accrued interest. The money was borrowed during the war and together with the help of the American army and navy it enabled France to win a war which she was on the point of losing. Payments of interest were kept up for a while, but for years, now, no attempt has been made to meet either principal or interest.

It is remarkable that in all this time France has given no consideration to the possibility of settling the debt or a part of it by the transfer of some of her island possessions. In addition to St. Pierre and Miquelon off our North Atlantic coast and Guadeloupe and Martinique in the Caribbean France holds several island groups in the western Pacific which are worth little to her but might be of some value to us.

The French islands in the Pacific may become useful in connection with the establishment of air services from America to Australia. American Samoa lies midway between French Tahiti to the east and French New Caledonia off Australia. We might have some need for the French holdings as stepping stones. New Caledonia is a sizable island 250 miles long. Its area is about twice that of the largest island in the Hawaiian group, and it has moderately valuable mineral resources, including nickel, manganese, and cobalt, for which we are now more or less dependent upon foreign sources. France has had Tahiti and the Marquesas since 1842 and New Caledonia since 1853 without much profit to herself or the natives.

It is by no means certain that America would take these islands if they were offered, but at any rate the offer ought to be made. The French say they can't repay us in cash [though they seem to find no difficulty in sending us cash with which to buy military planes] and accordingly they ought to inquire whether we won't take payment in some other form—islands, for instance.

PAPER PENSIONS.

[Arkansas Gazette.]

Out of the $30 a month for everybody over 65 pension plan which W. Lee O'Daniel advocated in his successful primary campaign for governor of Texas has come an act of the legislature liberalizing the present pension qualifications, but providing no money to meet the additional expense.

It is estimated that this measure, which the governor declared unsound, but signed lest he seem to "question the sincerity and good faith" of the legislators who passed it, will add 50,000 persons to pension rolls now bearing more than 118,000 names. Texas has already had to borrow more than $3,000,000 to pay the present pensioners, and has a $19,000,000 deficit.

People who showed themselves so ready to vote for an advocate of $30 a month for everybody over 65 should have asked him, and asked themselves, where the money, estimated at somewhere between $40,000,000 and $60,000,000 a year, was to come from.

The Texas legislators, as averse to voting taxes as they proved ready to liberalize pension requirements—on paper—refused to accept Gov. O'Daniel's own proposal for financing $30 pensions regardless of need. But all he himself asked for was a constitutional amendment providing for sales and resource taxes for pensions.

Even if the legislature had been willing to go all the way with him, the people who had voted for him in the belief that his election would give them $30 every month would have found that all he actually could give them was a long wait while a constitutional amendment was being submitted to voters whose approval of more taxes on themselves could not be taken for granted.

ALMA MATER SPEAKS.

Now come the days when the Gray Old Woman, called by a thousand names but chiefly Alma Mater, assembles her senior children, gowned in black but with eager young faces, in a thousand halls, wherever her temples have been built. She broods over them fondly for the last time, and seems to say:

"I have given you all I can, and I have found you worthy of the gift. You, too, have given your best thought to me, and I have rejoiced in it, for without yours, mine would be of little worth. We have lived together, in happiness and striving, for four years; we have become a part of one another; and now it must end, for the younger ones are crowding behind you. Always, always, this river of youth is flowing past my elms in its struggle toward the sea.

"I call you scholars, and give you a sign of that honorable state. You will forget much that I have taught; you may even come to hold it of little worth, in the strain and envy and disappointments of life; but the discipline you have endured here will be a strong staff for your footsteps, and the dreams you have lived with here will lead you in dark places.

"Some of you will add fame to my name; some of you may disappoint me, but for better or worse, we will remember one another. Your names are on my records, for hard tasks accomplished, to live forever. Your parents and friends are assembled here today in your honor, with pride and hope in their hearts. Strive to be worthy of them. Behind my altars are the spirits of the forefathers, who in high generosity have builded these temples, assembled these books and these teachers, so that you might follow the American way of life. Keep faith with them.

The Truth About Dearlove Road.

It is a painful duty to throw a discordant note into the romantic tones of Phil Dodd's letter in your column of June 8, but truth comes first. The half mile road near Des Plaines which connects Central avenue with Milwaukee avenue at the North Western railway viaduct is not Dear Love road. It is Dearlove road, named after a pioneer farm family of English descent.

Richard Dearlove with his children settled there in 1836, getting the land as a grant from the government. Three of his great-grandchildren, John, Harley, and Caroline Dearlove, now in or a little beyond middle age, still occupy the house on the old farm. Dearlove road, which used to be known to the neighbors as Dearlove lane, intersects the property.

The sturdy old family of Dearloves has been widely known in the northwest part of Cook county for a hundred years, and the road named after it has no "Lovers' lane" associations.

Strange Happenings in City Hall.

Crowded elevator ascending. Fat lady suddenly slaps face of man behind her. Gets off elevator. Bewildered blushing man gets off at next floor. Passengers suddenly hear small girl pipe up: "Mamma, I didn't like that bad fat woman. She stepped on my toes and I gave her a big pinch." Mother shakes child. Little Lulu.

AFTER DECORATION DAY.

Whom did we honor as the flags passed by?
What cause occasioned such a sturdy flow
Of loyal footsteps, such a ruddy glow
O faces, quickened pulses, spirits high,
A kindred feeling with the boundless sky?
What echoes answered to the bugles' blow?
Who were the actors in this gorgeous show?
Whom did we honor with this pageantry?

The living deeds of those we call the dead
Went marching by. We did not walk. Ahead
Of that procession flashed the valiant blades
Of those still filing to the great Crusades.
And as we placed the wreath, it was revealed
Again . . . The meaning of a tomb unsealed!

Newcomer.

When Long Distance Was a Baby.

Angus S. Hibbard, who pioneered in the establishment of long distance telephone communication, gets his first college degree at this commencement season—a Sc. D. from Carleton college. In the late 1880s a cranky customer in Boston declared that the service was a failure. Hibbard rang him up from New York, but the crab insisted that he couldn't hear a word.

"You're a liar," Hibbard declared.

"How dare you call me a liar!" the customer roared. "No one ever called me a liar with impunity!"

"Well, you heard me, didn't you?" Hibbard answered.

CURSES NOT LOUD BUT DEEP.

He who steals my purse, yea, him I will forgive,
Because he may have needed same to eat and live.
But he who stole my bait when fishing I would go,
On him my curse, my malediction I bestow.
May he henceforth perpetually dwell
In that Plutonian region known as hell;
And may he there forever pine and wither,
And tell Mephisto that I sent him thither.

THAT BARK MAY MEAN CROUP.

MOST of us understand the difference between a mild, inconsequential bark that a youngster may utter during the night and that peculiar, hoarse, brassy cough which we recognize as croup. The latter condition calls for immediate relief, as great difficulty in breathing will otherwise be manifest quickly. The chances are that there is an infection somewhere along the respiratory tract, although there may be no evidence whatsoever of a cold. An examination of the throat and nose may disclose little or no reddening. Nevertheless children will exhibit this tendency again and again, particularly if they become overtired from play or whenever resistance drops for any reason.

Prompt aid is essential because the swelling or spasm within the larynx may increase rapidly and occasionally the patient's face may assume a dusky shade [cyanosis], indicating that he is unable to obtain enough air.

Descriptions of the malady in question are reported in ancient medical writings. In olden days it was no doubt confused with diphtheria of the larynx because of the similarity of symptoms. In fact, any interference with breathing has always been looked upon as serious. Various terms were employed, such as "spasmodic asthma," "cynanche"—carrying the implication of strangling or choking, the "rattles," "rising of the lights" [lungs], and finally "croup" because of its supposed resemblance to a disease affecting poultry which was called croup, or pip. We were obliged, however, to wait for the discovery of the cause of diphtheria before we could comprehend that a membrane—obstructive in character—could form at the entrance to the windpipe.

Our discussion is concerned chiefly with the spasmodic type in which the onset is sudden. The child may be eating and playing normally, although a slight huskiness of the voice, if present, should serve as a warning. After he has been in bed for some hours there comes a sudden tight, short cough. The sound is so unusual that mother is awake instantly. Rushing to the bedside she finds her lad sitting up struggling for breath. Sometimes the tones are so hoarse that speech is practically impossible. Nevertheless, the manifestations are so characteristic that the trouble is identified readily.

If nothing is done the episode may continue for several hours, whereupon all signs will disappear and the little one will drop into the slumber of exhaustion. Symptoms are far more dramatic and fear inspiring than the occasion warrants. The first rule which parents must observe is not to exhibit undue apprehension, as this can only alarm the sufferer.

A few simple measures may be utilized. First, arrange a basin of boiling water so that the steam can be inhaled. A megaphone of wrapping paper may be fitted over the spout of the container and so placed that the nose and mouth will be bathed in vapor. The croup kettle is also a useful device. If tincture of benzoin compound is at hand a teaspoonful or two may be added to the water. Occasionally scalding results because of haste, and care must be taken that live steam does not come into contact with the skin of the face.

The old remedy of our grandmothers' day was a teaspoonful of syrup of ipecac, which will bring on vomiting and, in many instances, abate the seizure. After the medicine has been given a glassful of warm water may be drunk. This will assist in washing the stomach.

Another plan is to plunge the victim into a hot bath—100 to 105 degrees Fahrenheit. The period of immersion should be short—three to five minutes—and massage may be applied to the chest, back, and legs. During this interval moist air will be inhaled.

If the paroxysm has been marked it is well to keep the chap in bed for a day or two. During this time a running nose may develop, pointing to the source. If quiet is insisted upon an attack the following night will be less severe or it may not come at all.

WEIGHT REDUCTION ADVISED.

F. N. writes: My wife, 75 and fat, is suffering from a chronic varicose ulcer on the right leg. The ulcer now is dry. But all over her legs and arms has appeared a constellation of small red spots. Are these blemishes something to be alarmed about?

REPLY.

We suggest that your wife attempt to reduce her weight, and take steps to improve the circulation of the legs. Small, spiderlike enlargements of the skin capillaries are of no significance. When seated, she should elevate the feet above the level of the hips. Gravity will then assist the return flow of blood.

ALLERGIC TO SUN AND WIND.

C. R. writes: Ever since childhood I have been allergic to sun and wind. I develop a burning sensation followed by swelling after even a short exposure. This prohibits outdoor activity. What can I do for this condition?

REPLY.

Try a lotion or ointment—one that contains a small amount of pigment such as tannic acid. This may filter out enough ultraviolet so that you can brave the outdoors with comfort. A plan of desensitization—very slight exposure on the first day, increasing the amount of light gradually—may be helpful.

WHAT BLOOD PRESSURE?

E. A. writes:

1. What should a woman's blood pressure be at the age of 59 years?

2. At times my blood pressure is over 200, then again it will be 150, then up to 200 again. What is the cause of this?

REPLY.

1. Approximately 140 systolic.
2. Many factors may be responsible for the change in pressure. One of the chief causes is nervous tension. Worry, fear, fatigue, emotional upsets, etc, are common offenders.

NERVOUS ITCHING.

A. D. writes: For two years I have suffered from itching all over my body. No pimples or rashes appear. The condition is worse after I retire. I am a man of 43 years. What can I do?

REPLY.

This type of itching is usually on a nervous basis. Sedatives are suggested as well as large quantities of calcium by mouth. Your physician can advise as to the proper dosage.

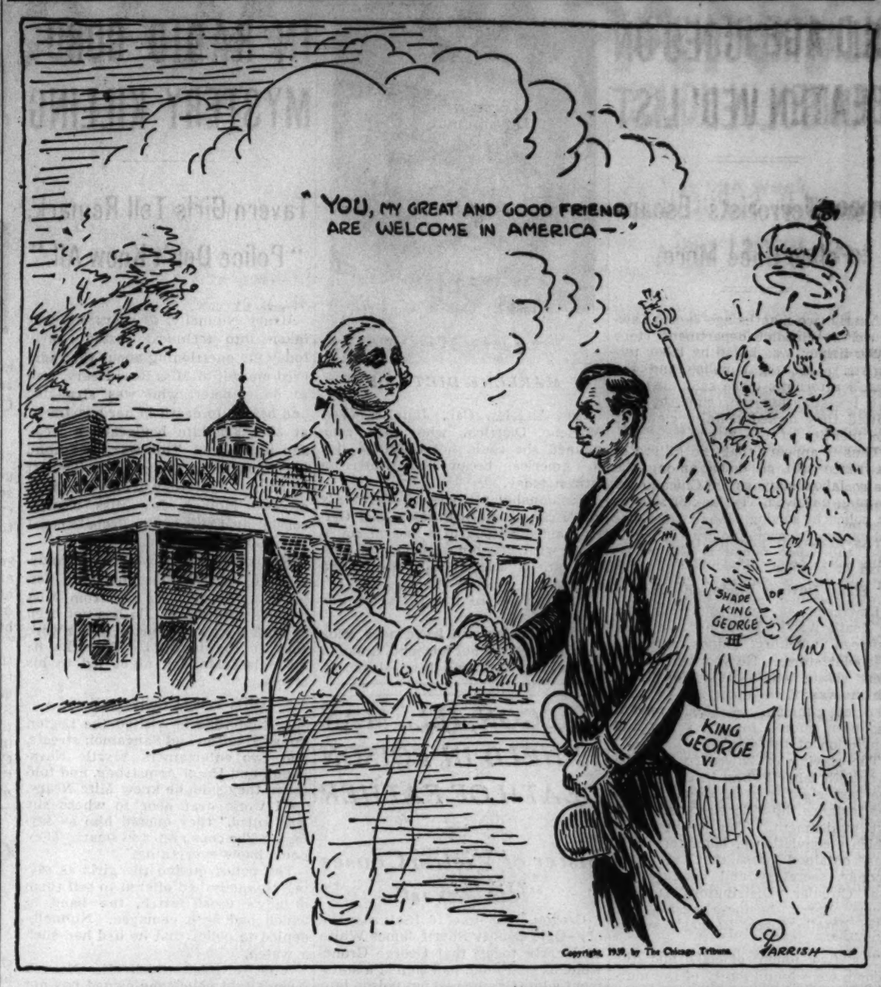

NEVER.

H. B. writes: Does a nervous stomach turn to cancer in later years?

REPLY.

No. Cancer is never caused by nervousness.

GERMANY AND SOUTH AMERICA.

Chicago, June 5.—During the past several months I have been following with interest in THE TRIBUNE the articles on foreign trade relations of the South American countries. Generally, the point of view was stressed in these articles that Germany in her efforts to increase her exports to the Latin American countries was not only unfavorably affecting the position of the United States in these markets, but was, at the same time, endangering the political principles of democracy there.

The situation in question has been thoroughly and objectively analyzed in an address entitled "Does German Trade with Latin America Jeopardize American Democracy?" which was delivered by the first secretary of the German embassy, Washington, Dr. Wilhelm Tannenberg, on April 23, at the inter-American congress sponsored by the graduate school of Fordham university, New York.

This address has been lauded as an objective and a remarkable contribution towards the success of the inter-American congress sponsored by the graduate school of Fordham university, New York.

I am sure that you, as a newspaper devoting much space to foreign affairs, will be glad to bring before your readers both sides of such a debated question.

DR. E. L. BAER,

ANY TENDERFOOT WOULD KNOW.

Chicago, June 7.—Shame on THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE! Also shame on Punch! Most any tenderfoot knows that the north, or pole star, lies in line with the outermost stars of the Big Dipper's bowl; and not, as pictured in Punch's cartoon reprinted in THE TRIBUNE today in line with the innermost stars of the Dipper, or Great Bear.

Could it be that Punch fathers a foul plot to change the heavens, or is the sky over London really different from the sky over Chicago?

FINDS TEACHING NERVE RACKING.

Chicago, June 2.—I see that "Tax Slave" finds school teachers "gimme girls of an overpampered profession." That gives me a laugh. If that writer would spend a morning in a schoolroom as I did recently he would no doubt be brought to the realization that teaching a roomful of pampered pets is hard, nerve racking work.

If parents would teach their children to respect and coöperate with their teachers it would be better for all concerned.

A CO-OPERATIVE MOTHER.

TWO WEEKS WITHOUT PAY.

Chicago, June 5.—I see that Mayor Kelly urges civil service employés to take a two weeks' vacation without pay. I know the mayor's position is not civil service, but I think it would be a handsome gesture and good example on his part to donate two weeks' pay of his own salary to the cause and he would no doubt suffer no more than they or the judges who have been asked to donate likewise. F. S.

CHICAGO ON THE WRONG SIDE.

Chicago, June 7.—In summer I think Chicago was built on the wrong side of Lake Michigan. In winter I still think the same. Who opposed Chicago's location on the other side of the lake? Was it the weather man, so he could think up fancy forecasts? O. F. DYES.

HE WOULD BAR BAGPIPES.

Chicago, June 5.—"True American," who protests in your columns against foreign uniforms and foreign instruments seen in the recent Memorial day parade is 100 per cent right. Would the Bloomington jug band for example, with each member wearing a long, red false nose and linen duster with a sign on the back recommending some one's razor blades, be allowed to accompany a regiment of British guards to St. Paul's cathedral on a church parade Sunday?

Would Jerry, the Legion's one man band, beating the drums, the cymbals and playing the bugle at the same time, be asked to join the Jacobins and march down Main street in Paris on Bastille day? Would the Weaver brothers with musical saw and one string cigar box fiddle, or Bob Burns with his bazooka, be allowed to do their stuff in Red square, Moscow, on May day? The answer of course is NO.

To me, the bagpipes are essentially out of place in our annual Memorial day ceremony, for when the bare kneed boys play "The Campbells Are Coming" or "Scots Whae Hae," sanity and reason are dethroned, brother turns against brother and the son grinds the parricidal ax. They create an awful draft, too. If what comes out of a bagpipe is music, then I'm a steeplejack. It's the instrument of the naked savage and of those who do picture writing on the shin bones of sheep.

For two years I was in charge of the world war section of the Memorial day parade and, following the custom established, invited representatives from the Balkans, the Hebrides, antipodes, Antilles, Iceland, Greenland, Finland, and Pitcairn Island. Wanting to slight no one, I asked the German soldiers, residents of the city and former enemies, to march. They did. For this, following a drumhead court-martial, I was 403'd, but recently I've been allowed to march as a spear carrier. I am in full accord with "True American." Foreign uniforms, foreign instruments, anything and everything not strictly American should have no place in the most patriotic parade in the United States.

NOTICE TO 26 ROADHOGS.

Cicero, Ill., June 3.—During the heavy rain storm Sunday afternoon, May 28, my wife and I parked our car at 58th street and Harlem avenue in the town of Summit, where we decided to wait until the storm had passed. Presently we observed a girl of about 15 running on the walk seeking shelter from the downpour. She had no umbrella or coat. At 58th street she made repeated attempts to cross Harlem avenue. The traffic was very heavy. At each attempt she was driven back by the deluge of water from the wheels of the swiftly moving cars. It seems unbelievable, but out of 26 cars, by actual count, not one driver had the common decency to pause to let this girl cross, and she did not get across until traffic slowed down. I hope you print this letter, and that each of the 26 selfish roadhogs sees it in print.

ESTATE DISTRIBUTION.

Chicago, May 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Last November my uncle, who had been insane for thirty years, died. He left an estate of ninety-five acres of land, free from debt. He also had several thousand dollars in cash.

The land was deeded him by his father with the provision that at my uncle's death the land could be purchased by [1] an heir and no one else.

A member of the family of relatives had himself appointed [2] administrator, and the man who had been trustee during my uncle's illness turned over all reports. There are seven heirs to the [3] estate.

4. How much time does the Illinois law allow to settle this estate?

5. Will there be a private auction to sell the land so that each heir may have a chance to bid?

6. Can the administrator determine the value of the land to his own satisfaction and sell to any of the heirs?

7. Must the heirs be notified in writing of the time of auction or sale of the land?

8. What percentage of an estate in Illinois is allowed for compensation for the administrator?

9. I do not know if the term "administrator" is proper, but here it means the man who has charge or settling the estate. W. D.

1. An heir or his father or an heir of your uncle?
2. Administrator of which?
3. Which estate?
4. Creditors are allowed a year in which to file their claims. Ordinarily there is no distribution until after the expiration of such year.
5. No necessity of sale in the course of probate proceedings appears from the bare facts you state, but any one of the coowners could force partition. This would result in a public sale.
6. The administrator as such would have no power.
7. They will be served with summons at the commencement of probate proceedings, and there will be published notice of the sale.
8. The statute says not over 6 per cent of the personal property.
9. An administrator is a person appointed by a court to settle the estate of a deceased person who does not name an executor by will. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

MOVE TO INFLATE OLD AGE PENSION BEATEN IN HOUSE

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.]—Having overwhelmingly defeated the Townsend old age pension scheme last week, the house of representatives today rejected all semi-Townsend amendments to the pending bill, which drastically overhauls the social security act. The house is expected to pass the measure tomorrow.

The Roosevelt administration, carrying out a campaign promise of the last election, is making a concession to Townsendism in the pending bill, which increases from $15 to $20 a month the maximum amount which the government will contribute to states on a matching basis for old age pensions.

Southerners Defeated.

The southern representatives, with scattered northern support, sought to put over an amendment by Representative William M. Colmer [D., Miss.], whereby the federal government would put up $4 for each $1 of state money for old age assistance. The amendment would retain the $20 limit on federal contributions, but it would permit $25 pensions in states now putting up only $5 a month. It was defeated by a vote of 174 to 97.

Southern representatives argued that their states were financially unable to match the $15 offered by the federal government under present law and that it was futile to expect them to match $20.

After the defeat of the Colmer amendment, Representative Roy O. Woodruff [R., Mich.] offered an amendment requiring the federal government to put up $2 for each state dollar, with a maximum pension limit of $45 a month. This plan was rejected, 142 to 79.

Keller Plan Also Beaten.

Representative Kent E. Keller [D., Ill.], a hero of the communist party, offered another amendment, the effect of which was to require the federal government to put up two dollars for one. It was roared down on a voice vote.

The pending bill freezes old age annuity pay roll taxes at the present rate of 1 per cent each on employers and employés for 1940, 1941, and 1942. Otherwise they would increase automatically to 1½ per cent each in 1940. The reduction, it is estimated, will save employers and workers $825,000,0000 in the three years.

Among other changes in the law, the bill abandons the mythical full reserve fund, which ultimately would reach 47 billion dollars in government I O U's, and puts the social security system on a pay as you go basis, with only a contingent reserve. Thus it carries out the plan advocated by Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.].

COURT GIVES U. S. 30 DAYS TO FIND TAX DEFENDANT

The government must find Lawrence C. O'Brien, former north side legislator who served a Leavenworth prison term for income tax evasion, within thirty days or its civil suit to collect $43,000 in income taxes will be dismissed, Federal Judge John P. Barnes said yesterday. Judge Barnes entered the ruling when informed the government believed O'Brien is now in Chicago.

The suit was filed July 7, 1938, to collect taxes, penalties, and interest for the years 1926, 1927, and 1928. O'Brien returned here after being discharged from Leavenworth, and appeared in other courts to contest his wife's separate maintenance suit in 1936, but has been missing since.

SAFECRACKING ESCAPED FELON GETS 5-25 YEARS

Ernest Tait, 28 years old, who escaped from the Michigan City, Ind., penitentiary in 1936 and pursued a career as slot machine operator and safe cracker, was sentenced to five to twenty-five years in prison yesterday by Judge William J. Lindsay in Criminal court. Tait was found guilty by a jury a week ago on a charge of possessing explosives. Tait was arrested in October, 1938, at 2500 South 61st avenue, Cicero. He had in his possession eighteen sticks of dynamite, 100 percussion caps, and a quantity of fuse. He admitted that he had blown open ten safes, but was twice acquitted of such charges. Assistant State's Attorney Robert Donigan then prosecuted the charge of possessing explosives and obtained the conviction.

STUDENT SEIZED FOR SIPHONING GAS DENIED CAR

William H. Kidd, 19 years old, a junior in Northwestern university, is tired of buying gasoline for his car. Next year he won't have to. Under terms of an order issued yesterday by Judge James M. Corcoran in Evanston Municipal court, Kidd is not to bring the car with him when he returns to school next fall from his home in Auburndale, Mass. Kidd was arrested April 28 on a disorderly conduct charge when he was caught siphoning gasoline from other cars in a campus parking lot. He told the police he was tired of buying gas. Kidd pleaded guilty May 31, and a motion for probation was continued to today.

U. S. HEARING SET ON CHICAGO MILK CONTROL SYSTEM

Producers Seek Action on Marketing Pact.

The federal department of agriculture announced yesterday that it will hold a public hearing in Chicago beginning June 26 to consider a program for regulating the handling of milk in the Chicago and Illinois area. The hearing, to be held in the Stevens hotel, will be conducted by the department's division of markets and marketing agreements.

Points to be considered are:

Classification of milk according to use into three groups, and minimum prices charged to handlers in each class.

Requested by Producers.

The hearing was asked by the Chicago Milk Producers' Council, Inc., and the Pure Milk association. In announcing the hearing, the government said producers' representatives complained that "marketing conditions . . . have become extremely chaotic during the present high production period."

The federal agency will seek a marketing agreement for the signatures of the handlers. If such an agreement appears by the testimony to be waranted it will be submitted to the handlers for their signatures, the announcement said. At the same time an order containing the same terms will be put up to the producers for approval or rejection.

Such an agreement would not undertake to establish prices which consumers will be asked to pay, the government said, but would seek merely to regulate conditions, bringing producers, handlers, and others together in a common understanding.

Administrative Costs Involved.

Administrative expenses would run up to 2 cents per 100 pounds of milk, to be borne by the handlers, the government said. There also would be a checkoff up to 3 cents per 100 pounds for marketing information, check testing, and weighing of milk for producers who are not members of a coöperative association.

The establishment of a federal marketing program in Chicago probably would bring about a substantial increase in the price of milk to the consumer, according to some producers and distributors. In some states an average increase of 2 cents a quart has developed under price control. Twice before Chicago milk interests have submitted to federal regulation. Both times the regulations failed. The first federal milk license program was established here Aug. 1, 1933, and terminated Jan. 1, 1934. The second was effected Feb. 5, 1934, and terminated March 2, 1935.

SIGNS COMPLAINT AGAINST FUNERAL TERROR SUSPECT

A complaint charging disorderly conduct was signed yesterday against Fiore Buccieri, suspected "muscle man" for the embalmers' union. The name of the complainant was not disclosed. It was learned, however, that the complainant told Sergt. Andrew Aitken that Buccieri had threatened him with bodily injury unless he joined the union.

Buccieri was seized Thursday by Sergt. Aitken and his squad at Ashland avenue and Polk street. He admitted he had been employed by Joseph Kavanaugh, president of the Embalmers, Funeral Directors, Morticians, and Assistants union, local 21,303, but denied any connection with terrorism against undertakers. A slingshot, however, was found in his automobile. He denied ownership of the weapon.

C. I. O. MEN PASS PICKETS; BATTLE AT AUTO PLANT

Flint, Mich., June 9.—[Special.]—All available police reserves were on guard today as members of the C. I. O.'s United Automobile Workers union crossed picket lines and went to work in spite of a strike called by a rival faction of the union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

About thirty men engaged in a mêlée in front of the Chevrolet No. 2 plant when pickets jostled men on their way to work. No damages other than bruises and skinned knuckles were incurred, however, before the fighting was halted. The workers continued into the plants.

About 2,000 men lost a few hours' work today as a result of the strife. The unions are preparing for a test of strength Monday.

MRS. LILLIAN SALTER.

Judge Philip J. Finnegan yesterday allowed Mrs. Lillian Salter of 6214 Dorchester avenue to change her suit for separate maintenance to one of divorce from Ralph Salter. Questioned by her attorney, Norman Becker, Mrs. Salter said that last February her husband took her and their two children on an automobile trailer trip to Florida.

Later, she said, he ordered her to return home and when she arrived in Chicago she learned her husband had started divorce proceedings in Florida. Attorney Becker explained Salter had agreed to drop his divorce bill in favor of his wife's suit. Mrs. Salter seeks custody of their two children, Marvin, 7 years old, and Richard, 2.

Schiller in Safety court. She was charged with reckless driving. Miss Shatz lost a leg as a result of the accident. Judge Schiller censured Mrs. Stritzel for showing little compassion toward the accident victim. He ordered her not to drive a car again for one year.

TESTING LANES RID STREETS OF UNSAFE AUTOS

Safety lanes tests by the city have cleared the streets of approximately 50,000 automobiles and trucks which were unfit for use, George B. Fleming, chairman of the Keep Chicago Safe committee, told the city council committee on trafic yesterday.

He said the city can test 10,000 cars a day. There are sixteen testing lanes at twelve locations in the city. If motorists go voluntarily to the lanes during the proper periods, he asserted, none would have to wait more than ten minutes.

Congestion at the lanes is caused by the motorists who wait until the police begin arrests, he declared, adding that these motorists usually are found to be driving automobiles or trucks that do not meet the safety requirements.

JURY'S VERDICT FREEING BROKERS FLAYED BY JUDGE

New York, June 9.—[Special.]—A jury that since April has been hearing evidence before General Sessions Judge Saul S. Streit against five lawyers and brokers accused of grand larceny in the operations of the Continental Securities corporation, returned a not guilty verdict today. The verdict was denounced by the judge as "an outrageous miscarriage of justice."

"The evidence here is overwhelming as to the guilt of the defendants," said Judge Streit. "Every one of them, without a 10 cent piece, obtained the securities involved and they planned and schemed from the outset to get possession of these securities. To me this is an outrageous miscarriage of justice, and I don't think you are fit to serve as jurors. Defendants discharged."

The defendants were George H. Clayton, broker, of Ozone Park, Queens; Vincent E. Ferretti, attorney, of the Bronx; Philip A. Frear, broker, of Washington, and Thomas W. Morris and S. Leo Solomont, both lawyers, of Boston. They were accused of theft of $700,000.

BEAUTY PARLORS GET A WAVE—IT'S A CRIME WAVE!

A lone, smooth spoken bandit held up four beauty parlors on the north side last night in quick succession. Some of his robberies were as little as eight minutes apart. The first shop was at 4240 Clarendon avenue, where he held up Miss Gladys Franke for $35 and terrorized several customers. The next was at 608 Belmont avenue, Mrs. Helen Buehrl, $18. The third was at 1969 Wilson avenue, Miss Ruth Mueller, where he got $47 and fired a shot when Miss Mueller ran out the back door. The last robbery was at 4011 North Damen avenue, where he took $7 from Miss Helen O'Donnell.

Sister Is Mother

Hilda Pantel, 7, with her sister, Mrs. Anne Harrison.

Hilda Pantel's sister will now be her foster mother. Custody of Hilda, who is 7 years old, was awarded yesterday by County Judge Jarecki to the child's sister, Mrs. Anne Harrison of 909 Wilson avenue. Hilda has been living with the Harrisons for the last five years.

When Mrs. Harrison filed adoption papers for Hilda last September her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pantel of Detroit, Mich., objected. Pantel is a WPA worker. He and his wife, Emma, have seven children besides Hilda and Mrs. Harrison.

Hilda looks upon her sister and brother-in-law as her parents, Attorney Emerson Whitney told the court and calls them Mama and Daddy. Harrison is employed as a clerk at the Palmer House. He and his wife have no children.

OWEN MOORE, 52, FORMER MATINEE IDOL, FOUND DEAD

Beverly Hills, Cal., June 9.—(AP)—Owen Moore, former matinée idol and first husband of Mary Pickford, was found dead in his apartment today. He was 52 years old.

Dr. Karl Lewis, called after the discovery of the actor's body by his wife, Mrs. Kathryn Perry Moore, said death may have been caused by a hemorrhage. He lay, fully clothed, on a bed when Mrs. Moore returned home from work at a motion picture studio. She said he had been brooding recently because of his inability to find work in pictures. Two years ago Moore was held for observation in a hospital after he had slashed his wrists during a quarrel with his wife. He was discharged after a sanity hearing.

Moore entered pictures in the silent era after ten years on the stage. His last rôle of consequence was that of Chick Clark in Mae West's picture, "She Done Him Wrong." He married Mary Pickford, then 17, Jan. 17, 1911, in Jersey City, N. J. Six years later they separated and March 2, 1920, Miss Pickford obtained a divorce in Minden, Nev.

U. S. INDICTS WPA EX-BOSS AND 3 OTHERS IN FRAUD

Kansas City, Kas., June 9.—(AP)—Three officials of a Kansas City, Mo., machinery firm and a former WPA supervisor were indicted today by a federal grand jury on charges of defrauding the government of approximately $23,000. Named in the indictment were Victor L. Phillips, president of the concern; Paul Matchette, vice president; Nelson A. Ashwell, secretary, and Earl C. Smith, former Wyandotte county project supervisor. S. S. Alexander, United States district attorney, said the indictment, containing sixty-six counts, was based on the rental of construction machinery for use on two projects.

Max Nootbaar.

Capt. Nootbaar, Heidelberg graduate, joined the police department in 1896. He was noted for his precise mind and his strict adherence to police rules. The underworld regarded him as an official without a sense of humor. Capt. Nootbaar stood out as a foe of vice. In 1912, while in command of the old 22d street police district, he cleaned out the notorious levee district.

Capt. Nootbaar retired on pension in 1922 after being injured in an auto accident, and moved to California. Before joining the police force he had been secretary to the American consul in Hamburg, secretary to an American army general in the United States, and an aid to the Austrian government at the Chicago Columbia exposition of 1893. He was born in Germany. Capt. Nootbaar is survived by his widow, Minnie, and two sons, Herbert of Pasadena, Cal., and Arthur E., 7842 Paxton avenue.

BODIES OF TWO U. OF I. YOUTHS SOUGHT IN LAKE

Walker, Minn., June 9.—[Special.]—Search was conducted today for the bodies of Harry Pendarvis, 5518 Monroe avenue, River Forest, a suburb of Chicago, and Cash Conrad of Sycamore, Ill., students at the University of Illinois, who were drowned yesterday. Their sailboat capsized on an isolated lake at Arthur's Point in Cass county.

The youths and four other students went to the lake Tuesday for a vacation after final examinations at the university. They were guests of Louis Emmerson Ward of Mt. Vernon, Ill., covaledictorian of the 1939 graduating class at the university and a grandson of former Gov. Louis L. Emmerson of Illinois.

The others in the party were Frank McKelvey of Springfield, Ill., vice president of the senior class at the university; George Dunn of Beardstown, Ill.; John Payne of Danville, Ill., and Charles Dadant, whose address was not given. Only Pendarvis and Conrad were in the sailboat when it was capsized by a strong wind.

WIDOWED BRIDE NAMES HUSBAND'S FATHER AS THIEF

A young bride took time out yesterday from mourning over her husband's death to swear out a warant against his father charging him with the theft of a pet dog.

The bride is Mrs. Jean N. Erel, 23 years old, 845 North Cuyler avenue, Oak Park. She was married eighteen days ago to Stuart R. Erel Jr., 33, a welder. He died Thursday of a streptococcic infection. That afternoon, she says, her father-in-law, Stuart Erel Sr. of Batavia, a dog breeder, visited her home and carried off Toke, a bull terrier. Yesterday Mrs. Erel appeared before Justice of the Peace Rudolph C. Weichbrodt in Oak Park and got a warrant for his arrest. The elder Erel surrendered last night, posted $500 bond, and was ordered to appear for hearing next Tuesday. Young Erel will be buried today.

D. C. STEPHENSON WINS POINT ON NEW TRIAL PLEA

Noblesville, Ind., June 9.—[Special.]—D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan of Indiana, today won a court order in his long battle for a new trial. He is serving a life term in prison for the murder fourteen years ago of Miss Madge Oberholtzer of Indianapolis.

Judge Cassius M. Gentry issued the order, requiring the state to answer not later than June 17 Stephenson's petition for a new trial.

Judge Gentry overruled a state motion for a change of venue. The state sought it several months ago when Judge Gentry overruled its objections to a motion that Stephenson be brought here from prison to testify in his own behalf.

After Stephenson is heard, Judge Gentry will rule whether or not there is sufficient evidence to justify a new trial.

Unfortunate Choice.

A man from a Chicago business organization who is approaching the retirement age has been home sick for several days. In accordance with the organization's custom, a book store was asked to send him something to read. "Send him the latest mystery novel," was the way the request was made. The book sent was Overture to Death.

Juarez's Signature.

If you've seen Juarez at the Chicago you will recall the shot showing the hands of Juarez signing the constitution of the republic of Mexico. The attention given to detail in the picture is indicated by the comment of Dr. Frans Blom, head of the department of middle American research at Tulane university, which owns a number of Juarez letters, after he had seen the picture. The signature is a perfect copy of Juarez's own signature, he said. Letters of Maximilian and of Iturbide, and plates from a dinner service of Carlotta and Maximilian's, also are in the Tulane museum. Members of the Iturbide family are living in Washington, Dr. Blom said.

By Way of Report.

That great fish being served to the John V. Farwells III. and their guests at the Saddle and Cycle club the other evening was Mr. Farwell's own spectacular catch at the Huron Mountain club. A 5⅝ pound rainbow trout, 24½ inches long, caught with a 3½ ounce fly rod. It took Mr. Farwell 45 minutes to land it. . . . Add town fauna: the pheasants that live in a Dearborn street yard. . . . And the five baby hawks Kenneth Hawks, radio advertising executive, is training for falconry. . . . Another portrait of Gertrude Lawrence has just been completed. Artist, William Earl Singer of the Italian Court building. Miss Lawrence left the gown and slippers she posed in with the artist, when she departed from town, to help him complete the portrait. . . . Gin and tonic, the West Indian drink, is a favorite with Chicagoans who want to keep cool.

It's Edwin B. Mayer's story about some friend's children:

Father to Mother—Did Bud get his diploma from the Boy Scouts yet? Then to second son, age 4½: Do you know what a diploma is, Fritz?

Fritz—Yes, daddy, he comes here all the time to fix the bathroom.

Social Events Fill Calendar for Week-End

BY JUDITH CASS.

ONLY if one had a streamlined, supercharged magic carpet could she attend all the interesting things that are happening in the Chicago area today and tomorrow. If this society editor had such a carpet she'd hop aboard it early this morning and reach the Lake Shore Athletic club at 9:30, when Colleen Moore's doll house will go on view for the benefit of Emerson House settlement.

Then along the lake shore we'd go to the South Shore Country club, where at 10 the first performance of a horse show for the benefit of the Infant Welfare society will start. From there we'd fly to Lake Forest, landing at the Church of the Holy Spirit—a carpet would have many advantages over an airplane—shortly before 4:30 so we could see lovely young Kay Sawyer Goodman become the bride of Garfield King.

At the same hour Gene Manning and "Ted" Wilder will be married at the Glen View club, and half an hour earlier Marion Barber and Grinnell Burke will be wedded in Barrington. An hour later in Chicago Ethel Dixon and Alec Fletcher will take their marriage vows, and at 8:30 tonight in Glencoe Barbara Munn and Dwight P. Green Jr. will be married.

Eastern Wedding Also of Interest.

Just how to attend all the ceremonies would be a problem, even with a magic carpet, but we'd try and do it, and also we'd like to hop east to Waterbury, Conn., for a 4 o'clock wedding—that of Mary Mitchell Wallace and Dick Baum—and up to St. Paul for a noon ceremony that will unite in marriage Ruth Dougherty and Bill Logan.

Tonight we'd divide our time between Chicago and Washington, D. C., for in the latter place Rose Chatfield Taylor will be making her debut at a dinner-dance, and at home the Chicago Yacht club will be having a Frostbite ball at the Monroe street station.

The magic carpet would be put to good use tomorrow, for out in Barrington there are to be 65 farms, estates, and homes open to those buying tickets to "A Day in the Country," arranged as a benefit for the Barrington Country Day school. The mammoth open house starts at 10:30 in the morning and closes at 6.

Tickets will be on sale at the school and luncheon will be served at the school, the Barrington Hills club, and the Country Cousin. Picnics will be in order, too, for those who want to take luncheon with them.

Rose Taylor Will Bow at Dinner.

Rose Taylor, the namesake of her paternal grandmother, the late and greatly loved Mrs. Hobart Chatfield-Taylor of Lake Forest, is making her debut at a dinner for ninety young people and a few family friends in the garden of the F street home of her parents, the Wayne Chatfield Taylors.

The Taylors will bring Rose to Lake Forest July 1 and it is probable that they will present her to friends here in the late summer or early fall, as they did their elder daughter, Adelaide, last season. Adelaide will not come to Lake Forest with the family, for she is sailing July 1 for an Adriatic cruise.

Miss Nancy Orr is the only feminine young Chicagoan in Washington for the party. She will pay a round of visits in the east before returning home in July.

Expect Throngs at Horse Show.

The South Shore Country club expects thousands at the horse show today and tomorrow. More than 750 reservations have been made for luncheon today, and over 1,000 are expected at the Horse Show ball tonight.

The three centers of the Infant Welfare society, the South Shore, the Beverly Hills, and the Kenwood Social Service club, which are sponsoring the horse show, will be in charge of the refreshment stands near the show ring.

Following the King-Goodman wedding reception a number of guests, including the bridal party, will go to the Onwentsia to dine and dance at a party that will benefit Allendale Farm.

A visit to Colleen Moore's doll house at the Lake Shore Athletic club may be squeezed in between other engagements any time up to midnight today and tomorrow. Miss Moore, Mrs. Homer Hargrave in private life, recently added a fairyland garden to the house.

Robert Hoffmans Have Daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Hoffman Jr. became the parents of a daughter, their first child, yesterday at St. Luke's hospital. The baby will be named Perrine for her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Robert M. Hoffman of Shaker Heights, Cleveland, O., who was Elizabeth Perrine. The baby's other grandmother is Mrs. Henry Pope of Glencoe.

Little Perrine is a fifth generation Chicagoan, a descendant of James Kirk, pioneer manufacturer. The senior Mrs. Hoffman came to Chicago to greet her granddaughter.

Philip R. Clarke Jr., who is in business in Chicago, and his younger brothers, Norman and David, who are students at the Asheville school, will receive with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip R. Clarke, at a party Mrs. Clarke is giving tonight to celebrate her husband's 50th birthday. The party will be a garden supper in the Clarkes' Hinsdale home, Longcrest Pillars, with music indoors and out, and entertainment. Three hundred will attend the party.

The colorful and many faceted career of Sam Houston, avenger of the Alamo, finds brilliant screen revival in "Man of Conquest."

Richard Dix—like Warner Baxter—is a man of "infinite variety" which, apparently, permits of no stale-ing. He is truant from the screen for so long at a time that you wonder regretfully if he's decided to retire. Then one day up he pops, fresh and full of vigor; able in every respect to match swords with younger and more constantly employed favorites.

His Houston is as splendid a piece of work as was his Yancy Cravat in "Cimarron." It is a virile, facile, and, at the same time, restrained performance that never permits you to lose interest in or sympathy for the character portrayed.

Against striking backgrounds of young Tennessee, Texas, and Washington, the thrilling real life story unfolds, giving an intrinsically faithful outline of Sam Houston's life.

It starts with his political campaign for governor, at which time Andrew Jackson took the stump for him; depicts the bitterly disappointing period of his marriage to the shallow, pretty, 17 year old Eliza Allen. Her desertion caused him to seek escape in drink, and an unhappy season of drunkenness was followed by his alliance with the Cherokee tribe—and his resignation from office.

The picture touches only lightly on Houston's life with the Indians, hustling to catch up to his romance with lovely Margaret Lea and the thrilling events which led up to his defeat of Santa Ana at Jacinto. . . . Great episode this! With a small band of Texans Houston maneuvered the jeering, astute Mexican commander and his superior forces into a trap, and to the battle cry of "Remember the Alamo!" led his Texans to victory, wresting the state of Texas from Mexico.

Mr. Dix had an excellent director and is supported by an A1 cast. Edward Ellis—there's a player!—is grand as Gen. Jackson. Gail Patrick is a delightful Margaret. C. Henry Gordon portrays Santa Anna effectively, and I don't see how any of the other acting could have shown improvement.

"Man of Conquest" will, I hope, be preserved in the archives for the pleasure and profit of another generation.

[And do come and visit us again, SOON, Mr. Dix!].

The Marxian Theory.

Hollywood, Cal., June 9.—A painted mustache, a harp, a red wig, and a piano do not appear at first survey to offer any quality of artistic permanency, but they have endured for twenty-five years in show business, possibly because behind the painted mustache is Groucho Marx; south of the red wig and east of the harp is Harpo Marx, and north by northeast of the piano is Chico Marx. At this writing the three of them are demonstrating the Marxian theory of comedy and celebrating their twenty-fifth year in show business in "A Day at the Circus," which is being directed by another veteran of musical comedy, Eddie Buzzell.

Art Fisher, fast talking monologist of vaudeville, hung their nicknames on the brothers Marx in 1917 while he was playing with them on a vaudeville bill at Decatur, Ill. . . . One of the Marxes was serious, thoughtful; Fisher tabbed him Groucho. Another of the brothers wore rubbers constantly; Fisher called him Gumshoes and then altered it to Gummo for sake of rhythm. A third was always chasing the girls, who were referred to in 1917 as "chickens"; Fisher named the amorous Glenn Cunningham Chico. Harpo was a cinch for the fourth of the quartet.

Comedians long had resorted to mustaches as comedy props, but Groucho's mustache, painted on his upper lip, had a Rembrandt quality that lifted it into another realm. The painted mustache, however, just happened. The family was playing at the Fifth Avenue theater in New York and Groucho was using a hair mustache.

On this evening he tarried too long over dinner and when he rushed into the theater he found his brothers raging because of his tardiness. The five minute warning already had been sounded and they were going onstage immediately. With no time to adjust his false mustache or to change into stage clothes, Groucho hastily applied a wide streak of cork to his upper lip, toned it down with powder, and rushed out as the curtain lifted.

His brothers muttered to him as they started the act, convinced that the phoney mustache would kill the laughs. Privately he was equally apprehensive. Groucho laid in his first line, and it got the same laugh that it always rated. In fact, the act played just as well as it ever had played, and when the Marxes came offstage they were delighted that the emergency had been met and laid low.

The entire background of the Marx brothers was vaudeville, the most ancient and honorable of the fine arts of pantomime and backward falls. The family had a streak of theater running through it. "My mother was the finest mimic I've ever seen," Groucho tells you. Her brother was Al Shean, of Gallagher and Shean fame. In 1917, when the Marxes were on the first rung of the vaudeville ladder, Shean arrived in Chicago with the company of "Friendly Enemies" and took up residence in the Marx house. The mother asked Shean to fix up a vaudeville act for his nephews and the result was "Home Again," which got them their first booking at the famous Palace.

For fifty-five weeks the Marxes enjoyed a spectacular success with this act, amplifying the original laughs ccntained in it and "finding" other bits of business and situation gags that turned it into one of the merriest romps vaudeville ever had played. W. C. Fields and other vaudeville headliners tell me that it was almost impossible for an act to follow the Marxes. The volume of laughs from audiences was so tremendous that performers in the upstairs dressing rooms could hear them. One famous comic, who shall be nameless, used to become so upset at the knowledge he had to follow the Marxes on the bill he drowned out the noise of the laughs by turning on the faucet in his dressing room sink.

Then Coal Mine Operator Jim Berry, who owned the Walnut Street theater in Philadelphia, stepped into the Marxian lives. Berry, with a tenantless theater on his hands, proposed through Joe Gates to bring in the Marxes and stage a musical comedy around them. His investment in costumes and scenery ran to some $3,500. "I'll Say She Is," the musical comedy, gave Berry a profit of about $300,000 because it played Philadelphia, Chicago, and other big cities for a solid year, played Broadway for another year, and completed a third year on the road.

"I'll Say She Is," when it opened at the Casino theater in New York, made the Marxes overnight the toast of show business. They've been doing very happily ever since. Gummo and Zeppo retired from the act and became prosperous theatrical agents. Occasionally they visit Brothers Groucho, Harpo, and Chico and make rude remarks about their comedy efforts because the Marx freres believe thoroughly that if you spare the whip-o you spoil-o the child-o, and they lay on with great vigor.

Ostrich Capes Ideal Finds for Warm Nights

BY RHEA SEEGER.

What to wear for evening during the heat waves; something that will be decorative, light as a whisper and yet sufficiently cozy to ward off any possible chill of late hours.

Feathers are the answer. Lovely uncurled ostrich is now used for some lovely confections in snowy white, black, and a few pastels. These are longish, designed to clear the hipline, loose and boxy, and have long sleeves. The bands of ostrich are stitched vertically to vapor thin chiffon and they're heart breakers for anybody's money.

They flutter with the slightest breeze and look as cool as an ice cube. These are fetching toppers for chiffons, nets, crêpes, and dress parade cottons.

For less money, but with lots of glamor, try the newest summer boleros in marabou . . . tagged under $10 they're the finds of the week. These are extremely short, have short sleeves, and for the price you are limited to white. They can be dyed any shade you desire.

More money to spend? There are all kinds of longer models for any occasion and for any gown. Elbow length sleeves, wrist lengths, and a good variety of colors are obtainable.

Black and white ostrich affairs in shorter models with either long or short sleeves are moderately priced. Cool and eye appealing and with that fragile charm that only soft, feathery stuff can achieve, these summertime party capes, coats, and wraps are receiving wide attention. If you like a complete ensemble see the tiny hats and matching muffs [there are just a few left] in the uncurled ostrich models!

The sweater is knitted in the stockinette stitch, with the wrong side the right side, and creates a richness of stitch long overlooked. It may be knitted of crêpe, two-ply lightweight wool, linen, cotton, or carpet warp. It is definitly simple to knit, and requires little time. It is available in sizes ranging from 32 to 42.

For instructions in knitting the sweater with long and short sleeves, No. X-279, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework bureau, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

SYNOPSIS.

Jeff Hunter, an American mining engineer, awaits execution in a Mexican jail by order of Pancho Banderas, rebel leader. A peon friend helps him escape to Texas. Jeff meets Joan Raleigh, lost in the vastness of her feudal estate, and assists her home. He meets her brothers, Bill and Phil, and Phil's wife, Mary Lou. When they learn Jeff went to college with their cousin, Raeburn, he is invited to be their guest. An old feud against the Raleighs is being renewed under the leadership of Butler Lane, suspected of poisoning their aunt, his wife, and forging her will. Banderas, routed from Mexico, has joined Lane. Jeff offers to try to make peace with the better element and, with Jim Williams, calls at the ranch of Carl Nielsen. En route they are pursued and fired on by Banderas and his men, who follow them to the ranch. Jeff manages to disarm them. Nielsen is shocked by the outlaws. The feud has prevented a romance between beautiful Olga Nielsen and Bill Raleigh. Joan and Phil disappear—kidnaped in their own plane and made the prisoners of Banderas. Phil tries to buy their escape from the bandit. Jeff, Raeburn Raleigh and Jim Williams kidnap Lane Butler from his hotel and force him to arrange for the release of Joan and Phil. Meanwhile Banderas agrees to ransom terms with Phil. He kills one of the gangsters who becomes suspicious. He takes the captives to the bank at Raleigh where Phil is to obtain money. When Jeff and the Raleigh searchers reach the hideout they find only the body of the dead gangster. While waiting for more funds to arrive by plane from San Antonio Banderas keeps Joan as hostage sitting beside him in a car. The sight of Jeff and Bill riding into town spurs the bandit to flight. He knocks Phil off the car and speeds off with Joan. Commandeering an antiquated car, Bill and Jeff race after them.

INSTALMENT XLVIII.

A NIGHTMARE ENDED.

Jeff looked at Joan standing white and shaken a few yards from him. "You probably saved my life," he said.

"Did I . . . hit him?" she asked, almost in a whisper.

Joan shuddered. She looked at the weapon in her hand, dropped it, and instinctively wiped her palms on the flyer's suit she was wearing. Jeff pushed his revolver back into its holster and walked across to her.

"O, Jeff!" she cried, and went into his arms helplessly.

He held her there, close, and let her sob, stroking her dark hair gently. "It's all over now," he soothed. "You don't need to be afraid of him or of anybody any more. Just forget it, as you would a bad nightmare."

"I knew you would come," she said brokenly, clinging to him, "but I was afraid it wouldn't be in time."

He did not tell her how ghastly that same fear had ridden him.

"It had to be in time," he answered.

"I thought of you . . . so much," she said simply. "I knew it would be you who rescued me . . . if any one did."

He lifted her chin and kissed her.

A shot sounded.

"Bill," he explained. "We separated when we lost the trail. I'll have to let him know where we are."

He fired, in answer.

While they waited she leaned against the face of a rock wearily. The color had drained from her lips and there were deep shadows under her eyes.

"O, my dear . . . my dear!" he cried softly, and took her in his arms again. "I'll thank God as long as I live that I was in time."

Bill Raleigh looked down at the battered face of the dead man. "You found him first," he said.

"Yes, I surprised him but couldn't shoot. Joan was too close." Jeff did not go into details.

Young Raleigh picked up the revolver lying in the sand and broke it. "He fired once. Missed you?"

"He didn't fire. I managed to get his gun from him and throw it away. Joan got it and shot him."

"Joan . . . killed him?"

"No, but she gave me time to get my gun out. I think she saved my life."

"No, Bill," Joan differed. "Jeff saved mine. My bullet didn't stop the man an instant."

Bill looked at his sister. He waited a moment to steady his voice. "We've been in hell, Joan," he said roughly. "It must have been terrible for you."

Joan smiled at Jeff, wanly, repeating what he had told her. "It's all over now, like a bad nightmare. All I have to do is forget it."

It was time to change the subject, Jeff thought. He untied the sack and looked into it, then glanced at Joan and asked a question.

"He robbed the bank at Raleigh?"

"No. Phil made a deal with him. He was to set us free for $25,000. We got what money there was in our bank and Phil phoned to the First National at San Antonio for the rest. It was to be sent by plane, and we were waiting for it when you came."

"Are you ready to travel, Joan? We'll help you back to the car."

"I'll send some of our vanqueros to get the money and bring in the body," Bill said. "Let's go."

When they got half a mile from the place where they had left the car Bill fired his rifle. There was an immediate answer. Presently they saw men breaking through the brush toward them. One of them was Phil. He was pale, and there was a handkerchief tied round his head, but it was a great relief to all three of them to find him on his feet and able to travel.

Four or five more cars had arrived at the road end and others were arriving every minute. Bowman had telephoned to the big house the news of what had taken place at Raleigh and all the cars and men available had been sent by Mary Lou to join the hunt. One of the Mexican vaqueros reported that she herself was bringing the local doctor to look after Phil, Grant, and anybody else who might be injured.

They met Mary Lou the other side of Raleigh in the doctor's car. She was a wan and haggard young woman, and at sight of Phil showed signs of collapse. Her husband made gentle fun of her. They were all coming home with their shields and not on them, he told her. Pancho Banderas was dead, Butler Lane certain to get life for kidnaping, their enemies scattering for cover like a covey of quail.

With the best of the ranchers adjoining the big ranch holdings they had agreed to form a pact that would wipe out all the long enmity of generations. Thanks to Jeff, Rae, Bill, and other good friends they had come out of a tight place with no loss. He thought it was an occasion for breaking champagne and not for tears.

Neither Jeff nor Joan needed champagne. Both of them were feeling the lift of spirit that comes after danger left behind. Moreover, they had a personal private source of joy not yet known to the others.

"A bath first, and then great platters of food," Joan told her sister-in-law. "We're all half starved." She looked at Jeff. "Don't you think my prescription meets the general need, sir?"

He told her that it was perfect.

"Not quite," Bill disagreed. "A cocktail before the food. I'll take care of that. We'll meet in the lounge in half an hour, say."

Mary Lou adjourned with Joan and heard the news about her and Jeff. When they were in the lounge and the cocktails were being served she made the announcement.

"It may interest you to know, dear friends, that there is a new romance in the Raleigh family," she said. "I give you, Joan . . . Jeff. Will some one please play 'Here Comes the Bride'?"

The cocktail was drunk with enthusiasm.

"We'd better make the happy day soon," Jeff said, smiling at Joan, "for fear they make me spend my honeymoon in the penitentiary."

"For doing what?" Mary Lou wanted to know.

"If it is for getting rid of Banderas they will have to send me too," Joan cut in.

"It wouldn't be on account of Banderas. There might be other charges more dangerous. The kidnaping of Butler Lane, say. The shooting of his man at Rannigan's."

Joan looked at him, surprise in her dark eyes. "Did you kidnap Butler Lane?"

"And you shot one of his men?"

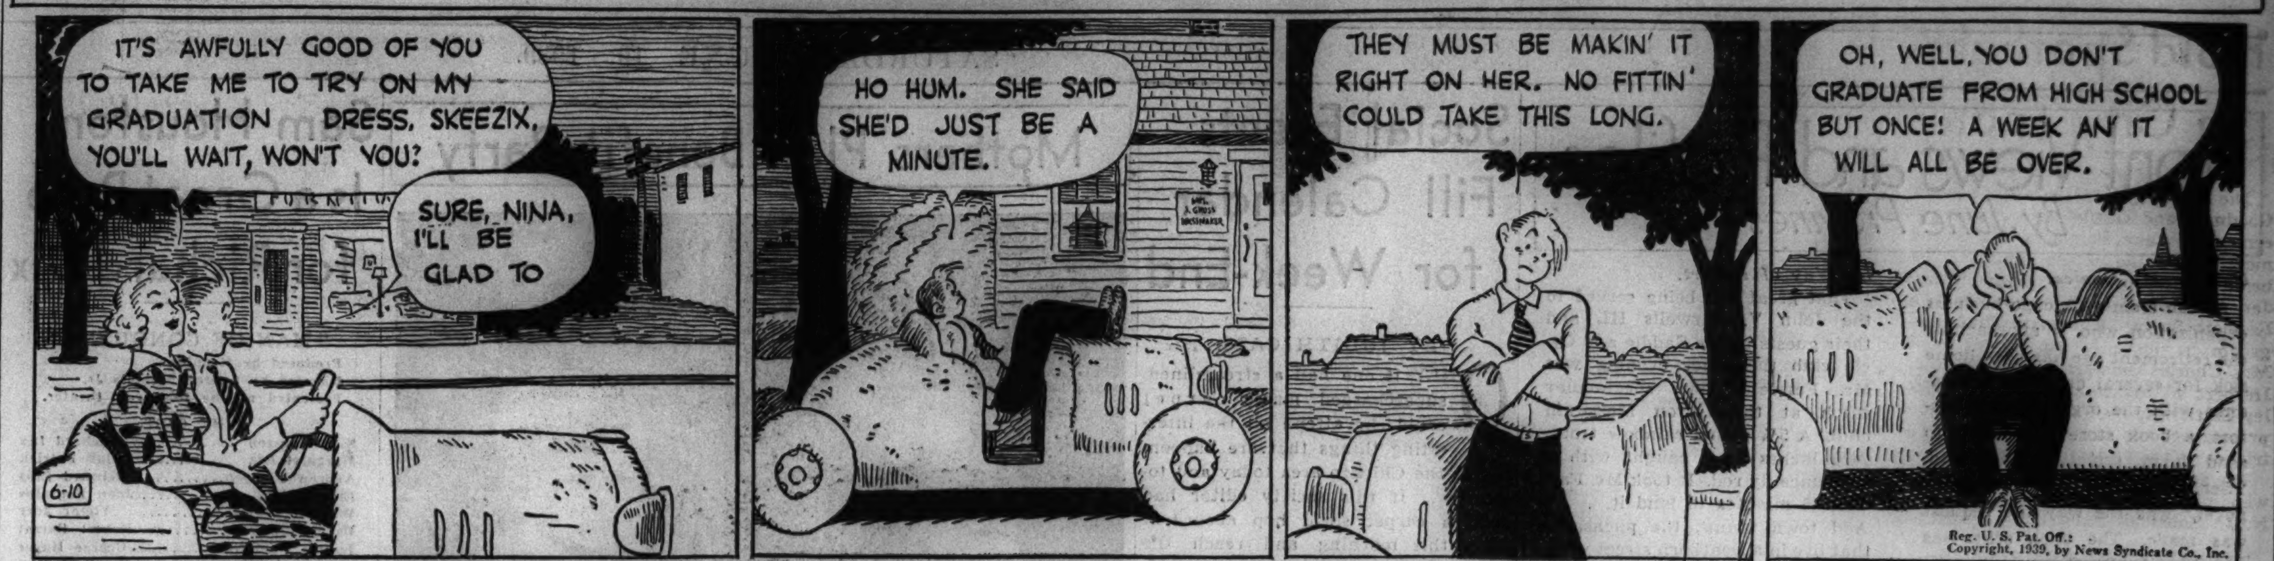

"After he had fired at Jeff twice," Raeburn explained. "It had to be, Joan. There was no other way. And there isn't a chance in the world that any court or jury would blame Jeff for doing either of them."

"I'm not blaming him, either," Joan said. "I just like to know when my fiancé kidnaps or shoots some one."

They all laughed at that. She had been through so much, all of them knew, that it was a choice between laughter and tears. She was not making light of violence but of the horror from which they had just emerged.

June Brides to Hold Spotlight in City Today

The marriage of Miss Kay Sawyer Goodman and Garfield King this afternoon in Lake Forest is one of the most interesting of the summer. The bride is the younger daughter of Mrs. James McHenry Hopkins and the late Kenneth Sawyer Goodman. The bridegroom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garfield King. The Rev. Herbert W. Prince and the Rev. Dudley Stark will read the service in the presence of the families and intimate friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins will give the wedding reception at their home in North Sheridan road, Lake Forest.

The marriage of Miss Ethel Dixon to Alexander C. Fletcher at 5:30 o'clock in the Fourth Presbyterian church will be a family affair. The John Timothy Stone chapel will seat just the numerous Dixon clan and a few intimate friends.

The bride is to wear her aunt's [Mrs. William W. Dixon] wedding gown, and the orange blossom wreath worn by her mother, the former Katharine Fisher, for her marriage to Homer L. Dixon. Her veil will be an heirloom, one worn also by the former Betty Dixon for her marriage to A. Parker Bryant several years ago.

The wedding pictures have been taken by another aunt, Mrs. Alan C. Dixon, who is an amateur photographer of note. Another uncle and aunt, the Paul Walkers, are to give a buffet supper for the wedding guests immediately following the ceremony. Their apartment at 900 North Michigan is just across the street from the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard M. Fletcher have arrived from Boston for their son's marriage. The bridegroom is a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Horace White Armstrong of Winnetka.

Among the Chicago guests at the ceremony that will make Miss Mary Mitchell Wallace of Waterbury, Conn., the bride of Richard Fitzgerald Baum of Lake Forest are his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Baum, his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift, and his cousins, the Misses Marie and Jane Swift and Mrs. Malcolm Millard, whose husband will be an usher. Gustavus F. Swift Jr. also will usher.

The other Chicagoans in the bridal party are John and Harry Nacey, Daniel H. Burnham III., and Miss Martha Borland, who will be one of six young women attending Miss Wallace.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mitchell Wallace.

At noon today in St. Luke's church, St. Paul, Minn., William Shay Logan, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Oliver Logan of the Churchill, will take Miss Ruth Dougherty, daughter of the Michael Doughertys of St. Paul, as his bride. A breakfast will follow at the Commodore hotel. Mr. Logan and his bride will make their home in Chicago.

When Miss Gene Manning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Manning of Chicago, becomes the bride of Thomas Erskine Wilder at 4:30 this afternoon she will carry a lace handkerchief which her mother carried as a bride. The ceremony and the reception will be held at the Glen View club, where Mr. and Mrs. Manning were married almost twenty-one years ago.

Mr. Wilder is the son of the Erskine Wilders of Hubbard Woods.

Many out of town guests are here for the wedding today of Miss Barbara Anne Munn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarke Jasper Munn of Glencoe, to Dwight P. Green Jr., son of the Dwight Greens of Winnetka.

The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Douglas Cornell at 8:30 o'clock this evening in the Glencoe Union church and will be followed by a reception at the Woman's Library club of Glencoe.

Dwight P. Green Sr. will be his son's best man.

Miss Marion Farwell Barber and Grinnell Burke will have a garden wedding at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the Barber home in Barrington. Miss Barber is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Hall Barber. Mr. Burke is the son of Mrs. Warren J. Burke of Glencoe.

The marriage of Miss Betty Blair, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh T. Blair, to John Richard Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Frederick Young of Dayton, O., will take place at 8:30 o'clock tonight in the Joseph Bond chapel on the University of Chicago campus.

The marriage of Miss Ruth Frances Smith, daughter of Mrs. Duane Russell Smith, to Donald J. Evans of Lawrence, Kas., will take place at 4:30 this afternoon in the chapel of St. Mary Episcopal church in Park Ridge.

Central Church.

The Rev. Richard M. Steiner, pastor of the Unitarian Church of Our Father, Portland, Ore., will be the special preacher tomorrow morning in Central church, Orchestra hall.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Women have long loved initials on linens, silver, and even apparel; there's just something about one's own initials on hat, bag, or blouse that sets it apart. But up until now we'd never heard of nor seen an initialed lipstick. We're thrilled to death with one we just got, not only because it's a lovely creamy stick in a flattering shade but because it bears our own initials. It's rather a nice, expensive feeling.

Not that it is an extremely expensive stick. It's not. You can have your own initials inserted by the salesgirl while you wait for a moment or two—and the cost of the "personalized" stick will surprise you. You can get refills for the handsome cases, too.

The shades in which this stick comes are chic and beautiful. Azalea pink for those who like pink tints; a luscious fuchsia for the die hards [you can count us among them] who refuse to relinquish the blue tones; a maize [for wear with a light golden tan], and three conventional, always ready to wear, shades in brilliant red, medium, and dark. The texture is beautiful and we know you'll like the delicate scent.

These initialed lipsticks strike us as being the best possible bet in the way of gifts. One would be elegant for the bride, the bridesmaids, or the girl graduate. They have that personal touch that takes a gift out of the dull class.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mrs. Charles Haines of 1430 Lake Shore drive announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Celeste Wakem, to Theodore Albert Mohlman, son of Mrs. Bailey Mohlman of New York City and George Mohlman of Springfield, Mass. Miss Wakem is a graduate of Hacienda del Sol in Tucson, Ariz., and of Sarah Lawrence college. The wedding is planned for September.

The engagement of Miss Mary Barbara Ott to John Leo Hodge, son of Mrs. Ira Hodge, has been announced by her mother, Mrs. Walter J. Ott of 1324 Albion avenue. Miss Ott was graduated from Immaculata High school and attended De Paul university. Mr. Hodge attended De Paul and Northwestern universities.

Prize Iris and Peonies Shown at Garfield Park

Prize iris and peonies will be on display today and tomorrow at the Garfield park conservatory. The Midwest Horticultural society is holding its 5th annual iris show in cooperation with the American Iris society and the American Peony society is holding its first regional peony show. The exhibits are free to the public.

Overalls in Modern Manner

WOMAN'S AND MISS' OVERALLS.

For comfortable outdoor living in the modern manner, nothing can quite equal the overall. Fashion has given this mode big sponsorship for the summer, and women everywhere are taking advantage of it, provided, of course, that their figures permit! You have to be well proportioned in vital areas to carry off the overall idea well.

This pattern offers an overall with either sun suit top or bid top. Take your choice. If you choose the latter, make a blouse to go with the outfit. The pattern provides for it. There are sturdy straps over the shoulders on either bib or halter top, and the waistline is snug. The full trousered effect is flattering to the feminine figure. If you like pockets, as you will, particularly for gardening, by all means have them.

You can contrast fabrics and colors beautifully with this pattern, creating some really ingenious and dramatic effects. The material you choose for the overalls must be sturdy. Heavy cottons that are crush resistant are a good idea, as is denim, which is tremendously popular.

Style No. 2806 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material for the overalls, with 1¾ yards for the blouse.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central station, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

The colorful summer edition of the Chicago Tribune Book of Clotilde Fashions is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower for 15 cents the copy. 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central station, NEW YORK CITY.

IF YOU'RE CANNING tomato juice, jams, apple butter, if you need an efficient potato and other vegetable masher or preparer of purees for baby, you'll be interested in the improved, easily operated food mill. The new model is in one piece.

FOR CHOPPING what could be better than a triple bladed gadget with a spring action? Cabbage, other vegetables, and nuts may be quickly reduced to fine pieces. It may be used also to cube steaks.

LIKE OLD-FASHIONED CIDER APPLE BUTTER? This is the fine brown kind that grandma used to make. It won't remain idly sitting on the pantry shelf for long. Several Chicago stores carry it.

AMBER CONSOMME is a new sister to the red and green consommes madrilene which come in cans, may be chilled to jelly, and which are quite delicious. The same long established food company has a good new deviled ham paste for spreading on canapes and bread. If you're fond of chow chow, chutney, chili sauce, pickled walnuts, and tarragon vinegar, you can't do better than to buy this same brand.

Names of any of these products, and of places where they may be purchased, will be supplied by mail or telephone to any one interested.

TWO NEW COOK BOOKS are "Good Food from Sweden," by Inga Norberg, and "Mary Hunt's Pastry and Sweets Diary." Both are published by M. Barrows & Co., New York. The Swedish book sells for $1.75, the other for $2.

Three hundred recipes for choice Swedish foods are included in "Good Food from Sweden." Many of the increasingly popular smorgasbord specialties are among them.

Every Mother Needs Holiday Once in a While

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

No matter how dearly people love each other, I think it does them good to be separated once in a while. You come together with a sense of refreshment; you enjoy with a keener edge those of whom you are deeply fond.

This idea is back of my next suggestion to help the overtired mother pull out of her slough of despond, that suggestion being that it will give you a real lift if you can get a little relief every so often from your home cares. To some young mothers there is a great deal of strain in the confinement and responsibility, not to mention newness of experience, that come with a first baby.

The girl or young woman who has always had perfect freedom to go and come as she pleases, doesn't always recognize this closeness as a reason for her tension. Add to this the intensity of her absorbing interest in the baby and you have one more contributing cause to her fatigue. For this young mother an afternoon or an evening out is a great rest.

So, even though it isn't easy, make up your mind that you will get away from the children and the house for some sort of recreation, with your husband, if possible. If not, without. Join forces with some other mother and each take turns caring for the children. Or find somebody who will stay with the children in exchange for some work or other service you can render them, if you can't afford to pay for her time. Nothing makes you feel so weary as to think you CAN'T get away from your duties.

Here's another thought: Your husband can help you to conquer this fatigue. Let him share the management, responsibility, and care of the children. It's better so for him and the children.

Next: Spend a little time on your appearance. A beauty session—at home or occasionally at a beauty salon, and a new hat are like a tonic. And then do two things which will act like a sort of magic. Instead of thinking always of the children as objects to be fed, clothed, and worried over, enjoy them as people.

Last, get the trick of managing better your baby or young children. It may take a little time to learn new ways, but you will gain in the end. If common sense, tact, and observation won't help you out of the bad spot you're in, we have many reading suggestions on behavior at difficult ages.

Here's hoping my prescription for you tiredness works, or helps you to find your own remedy.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: Opportunities to make use of the squeeze technique present themselves rather rarely, but the other night, in a duplicate game, I had the pleasure of successfully executing squeezes on two consecutive deals. The following was the more interesting of the two:

"West, dealer.

♥ A 10 9 6

SOUTH

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 club
Pass	1 heart	Pass	2 clubs
Pass	Pass	3 diamonds	Pass
Pass	3 clubs	Pass	Pass
Pass

"You may not agree with the bidding, but that is the way the hands were bid at our table.

"West led a diamond and East took the first two tricks with the queen and king. East continued with the diamond ace and, as declarer, I ruffed with the queen of clubs. I cashed the club ace and then led to dummy's jack. I could count eight tricks, but the ninth would be difficult to obtain. The best chance was to establish a spade in dummy for a heart discard, hoping either for a 3-3 spade break or the capture of one honor in spades. This was rather a forlorn hope, since the defenders probably would see through the scheme and force me to play the heart ace from dummy before a long spade could be established. However, it seemed the only possibility, and the four of spades therefore was played from dummy. East played the five, I put in the eight, and West won with the jack.

"West did see through the plan, but did not foresee later developments. He led the five of hearts, figuring that East must have the jack, since otherwise I would have attacked the heart suit earlier. The six of hearts was played from dummy and East won with the jack. East then returned the diamond jack, hoping that his partner held the club ten, which either would give West an overruff right then or would build a trump trick for him later on. But I ruffed high and drew West's remaining trump. At the tenth trick the situation was as follows: I held the spade A-2, heart 8, and club 7. Dummy had the 10-9 of spades and the A-10 of hearts. West was down to the spade K-6 and the heart K-Q. East's hand did not matter, except that now, of course, his spade queen was blank, since he originally had only two. I led my last trump and West was squeezed. He knew that he could not afford to discard a heart, hence let go the spade 6. Now my spade ace dropped the K-Q together. Three clubs bid and made.

"J. E. H., Illinois."

Obviously, the declarer did the best he could with the hand, but the defense faltered in more ways than one. As implied by my correspondent, the lead of the heart king by West, instead of the heart five, would have broken up the squeeze, but this feat also could have been accomplished by East. When the heart jack held the trick East should not have returned a fourth diamond in the hope of establishing an overruff for his partner, because he should have realized that this was out of the question. Declarer never would have played the hand as he did play it if he had lacked the ten of clubs. From East's point of view the possibility of a squeeze on his own partner should not have been too difficult to visualize, since East himself now was down to the blank queen of spades and since West was marked with the king and queen of hearts. Hence, instead of wasting the lead on a fourth round of diamonds, East promptly should have returned a heart to remove dummy's only entry and forthwith break up any squeeze declarer might be contemplating.

PREP OARSMEN CONFIDENT AS REGATTA APPROACHES

LAKE VIEW AND WALLER EIGHTS THREATEN LANE

VeteranCoachLauds Rowing Program.

Past performances will count for little or nothing when the four crews manned by Chicago high school athletes race down the Chicago river tomorrow for the interscholastic rowing championship in the feature event of the first annual Blade and Paddle regatta, sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., in coöperation with the Lincoln Park Boat club and the Chicago park district.

This fact is conceded even by Walter Hollatz, coach of the Lane Tech team, which has been supreme in prep rowing since the Lincoln Park Boat club recruited high school lads for crews two seasons ago. Even though Lane has conquered its three rivals, Waller, Amundsen, and Lake View, this spring, Hollatz views tomorrow's race over a seven-eighths of a mile course as a tossup.

Lake View, Waller Improve.

Lake View and Waller, which entered rowing competition only this spring, have shown steady improvement, especially since the boys learned they would compete in the regatta before thousands of spectators. Lane found Waller the most troublesome of its opponents, winning the mile test by only one length in 6 minutes and 15 seconds, the best time it has registered in competition this year. Waller's eight, rowing late in the evening, was timed in five minutes and 45 seconds over the same distance.

Tech's margin over Lake View was six lengths, while Amundsen finished only three lengths in the rear. If brawn alone counted, Amundsen would be the favorite, its crew averaging 160 pounds. Lane's average is 156 pounds.

Leonard Ratowski, 152 pound stroke of Lane, is considered one of the outstanding youngsters in the sport. He has averaged 95 per cent in his studies for four years at Lane.

Watch Huskies Drill.

Lane's juniors had the thrill of watching the three University of Washington crews go through practice spins yesterday morning on the Lincoln park lagoon as they broke their trip to the Poughkeepsie regatta. After the brawny collegians—freshmen, junior varsity, and varsity—performed for the awed youngsters, they disregarded the rain to exhibit their skill before the Californians.

Al Ulbrickson, coach of the far westerners, congratulated Coach Hollatz, Coach Dick Anderson of Amundsen, Arthur Skrabel of Waller, and Coach Louis Ruelius of Lake View for their part in arousing interest among Chicago high school youngsters in rowing. He predicted that the sport will continue to grow in the middlewest because of the impetus given it in Chicago.

Coaches Endorse Program.

Also with the Washington party was George F. Pocock, veteran builder of shells. Both he and Ulbrickson were so enthusiastic over the Chicago program that they will try to interest high schools in the Pacific northwest in rowing. Ulbrickson said inter-collegiate rowing could be improved by introducing the sport in high schools, since the college freshmen would report for practice well drilled in fundamentals.

Lake View's senior and junior crews worked out yesterday and Coach Ruelius found a ready response from the youngsters when he inquired if they wanted to take an extra drill at 5 o'clock this morning.

THE GUMPS—STEEL AGAINST STEEL!

LONDON IS GIVEN 1944 OLYMPIC SUMMER GAMES

Winter Competition Is Awarded to Italy.

LONDON, June 9.—(AP)—The international Olympic committee scrambled out of a tight corner tonight by accepting Adolf Hitler's personal invitation to hold the 1940 winter Olympics at Garmisch-Partenkirchen in the Bavarian Alps.

At the same time the committee awarded the 1944 summer games to London and the 1944 winter competition to Cortina d' Ampezzo in Italy. Bids of Detroit for the summer games and Montreal for the winter sports were defeated, the latter by the small margin of four votes.

Lake Placid Says No.

Faced with a refusal by Swiss Olympic officials to run the 1940 winter games under Olympic rules, cables were sent to Oslo, Norway; Lake Placid, N. Y., and Montreal. The replies were not encouraging. Oslo said it was holding the international ski tourney next winter, and Lake Placid said the notice was too short. Montreal said it would take the games if there was no other way out, but that it did not want to jeopardize its chances of getting the 1944 games.

The difficulty was solved by Germany. It was announced the German delegate, Dr. Karl Ritter von Halt, had received assurances from Hitler that Germany would be pleased to invite the Olympic committee to Garmisch, scene of the 1936 winter games, and to provide necessary financial guarantees to see that the games were run in Olympic tradition.

Ski Controversy Starts Dispute.

The dispute between the international Olympic committee and Swiss officials arose over the skiing program. In that part of the world skiing is the most important part of the winter games, but next year it will be reduced to the status of an exhibition because the international Olympic committee refuses to allow skiing instructors to compete as amateurs.

St. Moritz officials originally accepted the winter games with the understanding that skiing would be reduced, but later advised the committee they wanted a full competitive ski program. Count Henri de Baillet Latour, international Olympic committee president, yesterday cabled the Swiss committee to accept the program by noon or forfeit its rights. At 11:30 a. m. Switzerland refused to meet the committee's demands.

Basketball Is Dropped.

Other developments of the four day conference were:

1. Basketball, handball, field hockey, and women's gymnastics were dropped from the program of next summer's Olympics, which will be held at Helsingfors, Finland, July 20 to Aug. 4.

2. The international Olympic committee awarded a special Olympic diploma to Leni Reifenstahl for her film of the eleventh Olympiad, at Berlin in 1936.

3. A special Olympic medal was awarded to the Union of Swedish Sports Federations for "outstanding achievement and development of sports and physical education."

4. Women's speed skating was added as a competitive sport to the 1940 program. Heretofore it has been only an exhibition.

In the balloting for the 1944 games Detroit got only two votes, against London's 20, Rome's 11, and Lausanne's one. Cortina was selected with 16 votes to Montreal's 12 and two for Oslo. I. O. C. delegates pointed out that in a straight vote for second place between Rome and Detroit that the motor city probably would have had the support of most of the delegates who voted London.

Isn't cozy as a married couple's nook;

Will he sew a button when
You are shy one, now and then?
Will he shine your shoes? You bet your blooming life!
If he tells you he will not,
You can bounce him on the spot,
But just how can I discharge my darling wife?

There is no one to remind you that you're dumb;
There is no one to declare:
"I gave up a millionaire
To get married to a pauper and a bum."

There are times when you may miss
The dear children's good-night kiss,
And the lack of that caress may cause you moan;
But suppose your progeny
Turned to criminality
And were sent to Leavenworth to quarry stone!

Married life's a lottery;
If the man and wife agree,
Good St. Peter will pin medals on their chest;
But if they spend day and night
In a rough and tumble fight,
How can they enjoy the everlasting rest?

Baseball's Earlier Days.

Recently, in browsing through the files of the Erie [Pa.] Dispatch, I came across an item worth printing in the Wake. Curved pitching, as you know, came into the game with the organization of the National league in 1876. The curve did not reach the sticks until the '80s. In the Dispatch of Nov. 10, 1882, I found the following: "The Edinboro boys got badly beaten by the Waterford boys on Saturday in the match game of ball. They say it was the measly pitching of the professional gent from Bradford, who sent the ball in curvilinear zigzag gyrations to the catcher and passing over the base in a reëntrant angle, that did it."

Both Edinboro and Waterford are Erie county towns. The former is widely known as a normal school town. Waterford was visited by George Washington in 1754, when he came as the emissary of the governor of Virginia to notify the French to get back to Canada. The French commandant at Fort Le Bœuf [Waterford] told George to scram, or words to that effect.

Our Graduates.

From classroom and from college halls
They sally forth on every hand,
Forsaking learning's ancient walls,
The sons and daughters of our land.

Into a troubled world they come,
Where joy is joined with stress and strife;

As on the threshold thus they stand,
The upsurge of unsullied aims,
Avail to build a better land.

DERRINGER FAILS TO PAY; COURT ORDERS ARREST

Return of Reds' Pitcher to Cincinnati Reported.

New York, June 9.—(AP)—The arrest of Paul Derringer, Cincinnati Reds' pitcher, for alleged failure to pay a judgment of $8,170 was ordered today by Supreme Court Justice Ernest E. L. Hammer. The judgment was obtained recently by Robert E. Condon of Larchmont, N. Y., who claimed Derringer assaulted him in a Philadelphia hotel room in July, 1936.

Louis Scadron, Derringer's attorney, told the court that if an arrest order was issued against his client, Derringer could be entitled only "to what is commonly described as bail for the county limit."

Unable to Find Property.

"That would inflict a terrible punishment upon him, for the reason that he does not reside in the City of New York, and must, in the regular pursuit of his occupation, travel from place to place," Scadron added.

Condon's attorney, Reginald Field, said the sheriff had been unable to levy execution or find any property of Derringer's in New York. He explained the law permitted a plaintiff to move for arrest in certain cases where a judgment is not paid and no property in the state is found.

In ordering Derringer's arrest, Justice Hammer asserted:

"The fact that the defendant is a professional ball player in a major league, attached to a team in another state, and that his services are important at home and traveling, and of interest to the baseball public, is no reason to deprive the plaintiff of a remedy to coerce payment to which he appears entitled."

Returns to Cincinnati.

Derringer won his eighth game, against one defeat, in Philadelphia last night. His team was scheduled to arrive in New York tomorrow for two week-end games with Brooklyn but Cincinnati sources said the big pitcher went directly to Cincinnati from Philadelphia.

Walk by Passeau Gives Giants 4 to 3 Victory Over Cubs in 10th

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 9.—Claude Passeau, who beat the Giants, 7 to 1, day before yesterday, was not so successful in a relief assignment today. In the eighth inning he walked Pinch Batter Ken O'Dea with the bases full to force across the tying run and in the tenth he walked Pinch Batter Bob Seeds with the bases full to force the winning run across the plate. The Cubs, leading 3 to 0 behind Larry French going into the seventh, thus blew another one to the Giants, 4 to 3.

Manager Gabby Hartnett became nervous about the effect of the weather on Larry French, his starting pitcher, after Bill Jurges had led off the home seventh with a single. Two runs got home after Passeau came in, including the aforesaid strolling counter which tied the score.

One Run on All This.

The Cubs' ten hit attack in the first eight innings—[they had no attack in the ninth and tenth innings]—included Gus Mancuso's No. 1 home run and triples by Carl Reynolds and Dick Bartell. Eight of the hits, including the long ones, were made off Bill Lohrman, starting pitcher. Two singles were made off Dick Coffman in the eighth and none off Clyde Castleman in the last two innings. It was Castleman's first victory of the year.

The first Cub hit was good for the first run of the game. It was Mancuso's homer, a drive into the upper deck of the left field stand in the third inning. The Cubs' second hit also developed into a run. With one out in the fourth Reynolds smashed a 455 foot triple to the Cub bullpen in left center. Jurges knocked down G. Russell's hot grounder and Reynolds decided to hold third on the scratch single. Chiozza, however, picked up the ball and threw it to the stands beyond first, Reynolds scoring.

Mancuso Hits Homer.

In the seventh the Cubs made one run on a triple, three singles and a walk. Bartell's fly plunked for the triple when Demaree and Ott collided in right center and Dick got home on Mancuso's single to center. French failed to touch the ball on a hit and run bunt and Mancuso was tossed out at second. French fanned, but Hack singled to center and stopped at second on Herman's single to right. Galan walked, loading the bases, and Reynolds flied to Demaree.

French lost his shutout prospects with one out in the seventh when

Rain Grants Sox Reprieve from Yankees

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Instead of the Yankees, the White Sox drew the weather man yesterday and the latter's contribution of rain was more welcome than otherwise. Having lost two straight to the world champions, who, if they can't hit homers, will bunt or single their way to victory, James Dykes' third placers were perfectly willing to have the series final delayed until Joe McCarthy brings his prize collection of athletes this way later in the season.

The rain was good enough to chase the Yanks out of town before they could get their bat bag unlocked for an afternoon of hilarity, but the breathing spell thus provided the Sox is only temporary. They now are confronted by a fresh worry. Starting at 2 o'clock today they must entertain the Red Sox, who are in second place and haven't abandoned the idea that the Yanks can be overtaken. And tomorrow the Boston boys must be battled in a double-header.

Manager Dykes has something special to serve to Boston on this afternoon's menu. At least he hopes it will have the effectiveness of a specialty. It will be Johnny Marcum.

After tomorrow's double-header with Boston, the Sox will have two days from their league toil, but it won't be much of a vacation. They'll leave Monday for Charleston, W. Va., for the purposes of an exhibition late Tuesday afternoon with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Julius Simonini, star pitcher for the Algonquin, Ill., Owns, will be taken with the Sox on Monday. A righthander and 18 years old, Simonini is a pitcher of promise.

AMERICA TO USE SAME LINEUP IN 2D POLO MATCH

New York, June 9.—[Special.]—The same quartet which scored America's victory in the opening match will oppose Great Britain in the second game of the international polo series Sunday afternoon. The American team won the first game last Sunday, 11 to 7.

The players who will see action against the Britons include Mike Phipps, Thomas Hitchcock Jr., Stewart Iglehart, and Winston Guest. Cecil Smith of Texas was considered for a starting position, but the defense committee decided that he has not sufficiently recovered from injuries received last week in a test match.

ADDS 71 TO HIS 1ST ROUND OF 68; SMITH SECOND

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[SCORES ON PAGE 19.]

Philadelphia, Pa., June 9.—Samuel Jackson Snead led the field through the first thirty-six holes of the forty-third National Open golf tournament over the Spring Mill course of the Philadelphia Country club today. After having shot a 68, one under par, in yesterday's opening round, the one time soda jerker from the hills of Virginia came up late this evening with a 71 which gave him a half way total of 139.

Sam Snead.

That total tied the tournament record for a thirty-six hole score, the original mark having been established by Chick Evans of Chicago in the 1916 open.

Tonight, on the eve of the final thirty-six holes, Master Snead was happy, but none too certain of his ultimate seventy-two hole card. He stated in the presence of several of his rivals that he would be content to win by half a shot, if such a fractional portion of a stroke were in the rules of the game.

Smith Stroke Behind.

The 27 year old pro who learned to play the game with his older brothers on a nine hole mountain course in Hot Springs, Va., has reason to fear several of the gents crowding him in golf's biggest show. One shot back of him is a fellow who came up more than a decade ago as suddenly as Samuel did. His name is Horton Smith, registering from the Oak Park Country club. The canny Smith, unsuspected as a possible leader at any stage, today reared back and fired a great 68, the best round of the day, for second place at 140.

Smith seldom has been in such a spot as he found himself tonight. He has competed in thirteen straight open tournaments, starting with the 1927 battle at Oakmont, in which he finished forty-fourth. His best performance came in the 1930 grand slam victory of Bobby Jones at Minneapolis. There he wound up third after leading the field at 45 holes, Jones passing him at the next green.

Wood in Third Place.

One stroke back of Horton was one of the perennial candidates for the hard luck title of the game. He was Craig Wood, the big blond from Mamaroneck, N. Y., who has survived many a tough break to make himself a contender in any tournament he enters. Wood lost a British open playoff to Denny Shute, a 38 hole P. G. A. final to Paul Runyan, and a Masters' championship to Gene Sarazen's historic double eagle. Today, Craig proved that he would still like to win the No. 1 crown of the game by smacking out a 71 which left him alone at 141.

Early leaders at the 142 mark before Snead, Smith and Wood went to work over a course which baked under temperatures in the 90s were a professional and the liveliest amateur in the field. The latter is Marvin [Bud] Ward of Spokane, Wash., 1937 National amateur semi-finalist and Walker cup player. The Ward boy is being touted by his small native public as a likely winner. Last week he shot a 66 to win the Pacific Northwest open championship. The pro joining him at the 142 figure entering tomorrow's stretch is Denny Shute of Huntington, W. Va., who has been ever a factor in the open, but never a winner, despite the fact that he has won the P. G. A. twice and the British open once.

Five Deadlocked at 143.

Deadlocked at 143 was a fivesome capable of coming home in front when it's all over tomorrow night. It included Harry Cooper, one time Chicagoan from Eastern Point, Conn., and twice runner-up for the title; Johnny Bulla, competing unattached from Chicago; Lawson Little of Bretton Woods, N. H.; Frank Moore, also of Bretton Woods and a consistent scorer, and Harold [Jug] McSpaden of Winchester, Mass.

Among the 144 shooters was a fellow who is trying to win his third straight National open. He was Ralph Guldahl, Texas born giant from Madison, N. J., who still is the choice to win, in the opinion of all his rivals. The only dissenting vote against this consensus was Snead's remark, made in April, that Ralph is a fine fellow, but that Samuel himself was getting pretty tired of running second to the big boy, as he did in the 1937 open and the 1939 Masters'.

Finishes with Bogie.

The champion was unworried about the 73 which he added to his opening round of 71, and well he might, for

Runs Today Against 7 Rivals in Handicap.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Manie O'Hara, 4 year old filly owned by Hyman Friedberg and Edwin Axton of Louisville, will go after her third stake victory of the Lincoln Fields meeting this afternoon in the $2,500 La Salle handicap, a race of a mile and three-sixteenths for 3 year olds and up.

After beginning her Chicago district campaign by winning a stake for fillies and mares on the first Saturday of the meeting, Manie O'Hara matched her speed with rivals of both sexes the following week and came home first again. One of those performances was at seven furlongs and the other at a mile. Both were run over off tracks, so the heavy going, which will prevail today, is not expected to bother her.

Field of Eight Likely.

The field of eight named in the overnight entries includes one other Lincoln Fields stake winner, J. W. Parrish's Dellor, 5 year old gelding which led the way to the finish in the Peabody Memorial handicap at a mile. Others expected to go to the post are the Shandon Farm stable's Burning Star, Mrs. Emil Denemark's Some Count, C. E. Davison's Chance Ray, E. E. Fogelson's Strident, G. R. Allen's Her Reigh, and E. F. Woodward's Eagle Pass. The distance will be the farthest any of the stake performers will be required to go during the meeting.

Ernest Hanke and Warren Yarberry yesterday resumed their battle for the jockey lead where they left off the previous day. Yarberry tied his rival by bringing in the Nash Brothers' Annie Alone in the first race for his fifteenth winner, but Hanke forged ahead again in the fourth when he took Gus Simone's Busy Lutrecia and hustled her home at odds of 10 to 1.

Double Pays $322.

After a long shot had scored in the second race and an outsider in the third, the daily double paid $322.80. Corn Field, owned by Thomas Piatt of Lexington, Ky., accounted for the first half, returning $37.40, $13.20, and $7.20. Then Chi, property of R. W. McIlvain of Chicago, followed up with a victory at 7 to 1 odds.

The worst storm of the racing season swept the track just as the crowd was gathering. At the time when the horses were due to come out for the first race the back stretch was made almost invisible by a curtain of rain. It eased up somewhat after a few minutes and later stopped and the program proceeded on schedule.

The conditions seemed to affect the finishes to a certain extent, for the winners were getting home four and five lengths ahead of the field, whereas on dry days the camera has been put to use repeatedly to separate noses on the wire.

South Shore Horse Show to Open Today

The annual South Shore Country club horse show will open today on the club grounds at South Shore drive and 71st street, with a morning performance at 10 o'clock and an afternoon program at 2 o'clock. Competition will continue tomorrow afternoon.

More than eighty horses entered by sixty-four exhibitors will vie for trophies and ribbons in the thirty classes listed.

Classes scheduled for this morning in the order named are: Hunters over course C, junior equitation, 3-gaited saddle horses 14.2 to 15 hands, musical stall race, junior pairs under 18 years of age, child's useful ponies, knockdown and out, and junior jumping.

Topping this afternoon's program are the championship rounds in the 3-gaited, 5-gaited jumper, equitation, and combination hunter and jumper events. Only dogs under 1 year of age are eligible for this match which is to be held on the grounds of the Suburban club, 2 miles west of Hinsdale on U. S. route 34. Judging will start at 2:30 p. m. Competition is limited to puppies owned by members of the association, but dog owners may join the club before the match for a nominal sum.

Bulldog Show Listed.

Bulldog fanciers in Chicagoland will have a show of their own in Lake Bluff tomorrow afternoon. The occasion is a sanctioned match for bulldogs only, an open air event sponsored by the Chicago Bulldog club on the estate of Conway Olmsted, 1 Moffet road, Lake Bluff. SYRACUSE BEATS WISCONSIN CREW BY 1½ LENGTHS

Syracuse, N. Y., June 9.—(AP)—The Syracuse university varsity crew, pulling away to a comfortable lead in the first quarter mile, defeated the University of Wisconsin eight by a length and one-half in a 3 mile race on Lake Onondaga this afternoon. Syracuse was timed in 17:43.8, and Wisconsin in 17:50.8.

The Orange crew got off to a fast start before the western crew, rowing its first race of the season in intercollegiate circles, got down to business. At the mile Syracuse was leading by a length and three-quarters, but in the next half mile Wisconsin, gradually stepping up the 34 beat with which it opened the race, cut down the distance to one and one-half lengths. At the finish the Syracuse boat, hitting a 38 clip, was pulling away.

Johnny Bulla, long-driving professional golfer, averaged 312 yards with 12 Po-Do Golf Balls. This extraordinary record was made in May, 1939. Few Golfers can expect to match this record. However, this proves that if you have the skill, long distance is in the 25c Po-Do Golf Ball.

Herman Spoils Cubs' Rally.

Castleman came in at the start of the Chicago ninth and walked Passeau. Hack sacrificed and when Chiozza threw late to second, Passeau was safe and Hack reached first. Herman failed in two attempts to sacrifice, then tapped to Chiozza, who stepped on third to force Passeau, then threw to Bonura to double Herman. Galan was given an intentional pass, then Reynolds forced Hack.

G. Russell walked on four pitches to get the tenth inning under way. Gleeson popped to Kampouris and Bartell lined to Ott. Mancuso flied to Moore.

Ott opened the home tenth with a single to center. Bonura bunted and when G. Russell threw the ball into center field, Ott was safe at second and Bonura at first. Demaree forced Bonura, Herman to Bartell, Ott stopping at third. Chiozza was given an intentional pass, loading the bases. Seeds batted for Kampouris and walked, forcing Ott across with the winning run.

Snead Shoots 139; Retains Lead in Open

he was five over par leaving the twelfth. Then he decided to trim it a bit and set himself in such a spot as he was in the last two opens, climaxing the move with a 40 foot putt for a birdie at the 558 yard eighteenth.

Snead tried for birdies on the first three holes, hitting the cup at the short second. Then he three putted the fourth and missed the next green, but holed a fifteen footer at the sixth for a birdie. He hit the cup again trying for a deuce at the 191 yard seventh and blew a twelve footer at the eighth. The short eleventh cost him a par, and, then, strange as it must seem, Sam four putted the 480 yard twelfth, when he seemed to be going for a birdie. He corrected this by holing six foot birdie putts at the sixteenth and seventeenth for a 36 coming in.

Smith used up just twenty-nine putts on his round. After slicing a brassie trying to reach the 234 yard second, he dropped a fifteen footer at the third, and then a ten footer on the next hole, where he had a bad drive. At the tenth and eighteenth he came out of bunkers for one putt greens, the latter for a birdie. He was to the right of the thirteenth green, but birdied the sixteenth.

Harris Protests Indians' Victory Over Senators

Cleveland, O., June 9.—(AP)—Manager Stanley Harris of Washington said today he had protested to William Harridge, president of the American league, a decision of Umpire Harry Geisel on a play which led to a Cleveland victory over the Senators yesterday. Harris contended Jimmy Webb, Indian shortstop, ran six feet out of the baseline in the sixth inning to avoid being tagged at third by Buddy Lewis.

MAYER DEMANDS SPEED ON LAWS TO AID BUSINESS

Warns of Delay in Solving Economic Problems.

If congress adjourns without enacting remedial legislation which business has demanded, solution of many national economic problems will be delayed at least two years. Oscar G. Mayer, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, delivered this warning yesterday, in addressing a luncheon audience of 5,000 business men in the Palmer House.

Mayer said "real action" must be taken within the next three weeks. He urged the business men to present their problems to the Illinois congressional delegation while legislation is still possible.

Business Hampered, He Says.

The legislators "should be told that present laws are resulting in curtailed business—and curtailed payrolls," Mayer said.

Mayer outlined the business viewpoint on legislative needs as follows:

"Tax deterrents: It will be decided soon whether federal tax legislation will be merely an extension of expiring taxes, or a revision eliminating obstacles to economic progress.

"Labor relations act: There should be immediate amendments to clarify the rights of both employés and employer. Full judicial review of all findings and decisions should be provided.

Seeks Railroad Legislation.

"Railroad legislation: There should be prompt enactment of legislation permitting railroads to perform efficiently.

"Relief expenditures: The present method of the federal government in handling relief has been discredited. There should be substituted an impartial agency to determine the needs of the states, see that construction and other projects are let by competitive bids, and achieve economy and efficiency at every point.

"Social security act: There should be amendments at this session to prevent the burdens of payroll taxation from increasing next year, and for doing away with the menace of a huge 'reserve.'"

Business men must convince congress of their interest in these problems if they expect legislative action, Mayer said.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

The long decline in the market for hogs was halted yesterday by smaller receipts. Farmers curtailed shipments to all points because of the current low level of prices, which, as a whole, are the lowest in five years. Demand was slightly improved at about steady prices. Consumer buying of fresh pork continued light as a result of warm weather. Some cuts fell to new lows, with declines ranging up to 50 cents a hundred pounds. Hardly enough cattle and sheep arrived to test quotations yesterday. Prices were about steady.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, June 9.—(AP)—Worth street dealers reported a good interest in cotton goods today although actual bookings were smaller than in recent sessions. Prices held firm and selling agents continued optimistic. At firm prices, rayon goods met good inquiry from converters. There was little done in silk fabrics. Burlap business was routine and the spot price here was unchanged despite lower Calcutta cables.

Day by Day on the Farm By BOB BECKER

June 9, 1939.

The Fields Are Fragrant.

THERE is a rich fragrance lingering over some of the farm fields this week, the kind that tells a visitor, without any doubt, that this is June. Countless thousands of white and red clover blossoms are responsible for this fragrance. The clover fields are a solid mass of blossoms, and both the wild honey bees and the big yellow bumble bees are busy gathering nectar from the flowers.

The bright sun has the workers on the Tribune Du Page county farm wearing wide brimmed straw hats in the fields . . . strawberries are ripening in the garden plots. . . . cherry trees are loaded with yellow fruit . . . wild roses have opened their flowers along the edges of some of the woods and near the farm roads . . . and clumps of oxeye daisies are adding their colorful blooms to pastures and roadsides.

It's Fishing Time.

A farm boy fishing in the little creek that winds through the farm reported this week that he had caught a carp for his first angling thrill of the season.

White flowers seem to predominate in the farm woods. Several weeks ago, when the wild geraniums, violets, and phlox were in blossom, the woods had a distinct tinge of blue. Those flowers are gone now, and in their place this week there are oxeye daisies, yarrow, white clover, and daisy fleabane—all combining to give a touch of white to the woods.

A typical June activity on the farm is the cultivation of corn. One of the workers has been busy at the job this week. Judging by their height, the corn plants should have no trouble qualifying under the old saying, "Corn knee high by the Fourth of July." In another field one of the farm workers has been cutting alfalfa. His tractor was equipped with a flushing bar which let him know when he got close to a pheasant. The bar flushed two pheasants in the field, and the tractor was stopped each time, allowing the bird to get out of the way. Then the worker got down on the ground to look around for a nest. Each year the men put flushing bars on the mowers to protect these valuable game birds.

Making a Flushing Bar.

The flushing bar is a simple but effective device which any farmer can make. It is a wooden bar placed ahead of the mower blades. From it is suspended a curtain made of old burlap sacks or other material of that type. When the mower is in operation this curtain sweeps over the vegetation several feet ahead of the blades. Any bird sitting on a nest or hiding in the grass naturally is startled when the curtain reaches it.

If the machine is stopped when a bird is flushed, the nest and any young birds in it may be saved. Many farmers leave a small patch of vegetation around nests where pheasants or other birds are trying to raise chicks.

Du Pont Short Sales Under SEC Scrutiny

Washington, D. C., June 9.—(AP)—A Securities and Exchange commission announcement that it was inquiring into alleged "discrepancies" in Pierre S. du Pont's reports concerning short transactions in du Pont common stock brought from the Wilmington business man today a statement that "mine is not a short account in the usual form."

The "discrepancies," the SEC said, were disclosed when du Pont, who is chairman of the company's board, filed corrections on previous reports he had made concerning his transactions.

The SEC announcement said: "The official summary of transactions and holdings of officers, directors, and principal stockholders published today includes corrections submitted by Pierre S. du Pont, chairman of the board of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., on twenty previous reports of his direct holdings in common stock of that company since November, 1934."

Short Instead of Long.

As of Dec. 31, 1934, the commission said, he reported he held 33,252 shares, whereas his corrected report showed that on that date he was minus 108,460 shares.

A "net long position" means that the holder owns stock outright. A "short" or "minus" position means that an individual has sold stock which he does not own. In the latter instance the "short" seller borrows the stock in order to make delivery to the purchaser. Usually, the seller buys back the stock in the open market and returns it to the person from whom he has borrowed it.

Discrepancies Charged.

The SEC, asserting that the original report for Feb. 28, 1939, showed holdings of 73,394 shares, while the corrected total was "minus 26,542," added it has "undertaken to determine the facts and circumstances involved in these discrepancies."

In his statement, issued at Wilmington, du Pont said:

"The official report does not correctly set forth the extent of my interest as an investor. Throughout this period I have been a large holder, either directly or indirectly, of the common stock of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co."

His statement indicated that his direct and indirect holdings of common stock of the chemical company were worth about $33,000,000 at current market prices.

"At present my direct holdings are almost 85,000 shares and in addition I have indirect holdings of over 140,000 shares," he said. Du Pont common was quoted on the New York Stock exchange today around $150 a share.

AMERICAN FIRMS REDUCE WAR RISK INSURANCE RATES

New York, June 9.—(AP)—War risk insurance rates on shipments to and from the United States were reduced drastically today by a committee representing major American shipping insurance firms.

The premiums, which are established on an intricate sliding scale of values, routes, and distances of shipment, are cut from 33⅓ to more than 50 per cent of the rates which have maintained, in various degrees, since the European crisis of last September.

A member of the committee commented: "Our action was taken in the belief that, if the prospect for world peace has not been assured, at least the chance of war in the near future has materially lessened of late."

PACKERS BOOST OUTPUT OF MEAT IN LAST MONTH

Production of all kinds of meats showed a substantial increase last month as a result of the sharp upward swing of slaughtering. The department of agriculture reported yesterday that packing plants under federal inspection during May killed 15.8 per cent more animals than during April and 13.3 percent more than in May last year.

The aggregate slaughter of cattle, calves, hogs, and sheep at 6,130,490 head was largest for May since 1934. Only two May totals on record stand larger. These were in 1933 and 1934. The April slaughter was 5,290,148 head.

General Motors Will Extend Its Employe Benefit Program

Alfred P. Sloan Jr., chairman of the General Motors corporation, yesterday announced an extension of the corporation's employé benefit plan which is available to 200,000 workers in the United States and Canada.

The new program provides for hospitalization benefits of $4 per day up to seventy days for a single disability, and for benefits of $10 to $150 toward defraying costs of surgical operations. The plans also provides for payment of other hospital services.

Awaits Employés' Vote.

The present plan includes life, health and accident insurance, and costs employés $1.23 a month. The new plan will cost seventy-five cents a month additional, and is to become effective after 75 per cent of eligible employés indicate a desire to participate. About 98 per cent take part in the present group arrangement, which, Sloan said, has paid out over $37,000,000 in benefits during its thirteen years of operation.

The plan is handled by the Metropolitan Life Insurance company. Sloan said he believed the group hospitalization plan is the most comprehensive ever undertaken.

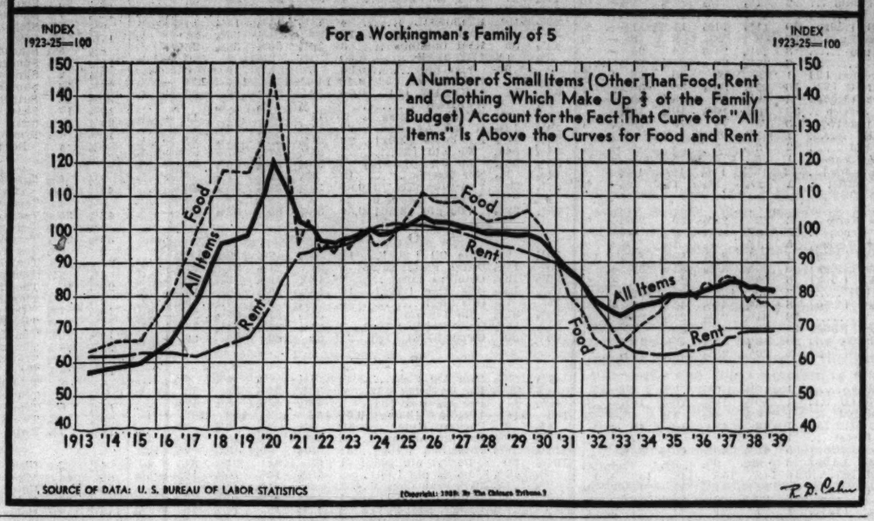

Company Shares in Cost.

The plan will be available to the following G. M. employés: All hourly and piece workers; all salesmen, and all salaried employés receiving less than $4,200 annually. The employés must be located in the United States or Canada, and must have completed three months of continuous service.

The corporation, Sloan said, will assume a share of the cost of the program, as it does under the present arrangement.

"In introducing these additional features to its group insurance plan," Sloan said, "General Motors gives practical recognition to the desirability and workability of coöperative efforts of this type."

Urges Chicago Recover Spirit of World Fair

F. C. Crawford.

Chicago, with its Century of Progress World's Fair, pointed the way out of depression to Cleveland, O., and now Cleveland is showing Chicago the upward path, Frederick C. Crawford, president of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, said yesterday. He spoke before 400 Chicago business leaders at the Palmer House in connection with the "Greater Chicago campaign."

Crawford urged Chicago to show the same spirit that in A Century of Progress made the city the chief bright spot in a world depression.

Tells Progress of Cleveland.

Crawford said that ten years ago Cleveland was in dire straits, with its plight worse than anything Chicago has known.

"The slump in the durable goods industries had been a severe blow," he explained. "There was little employment, heavy debts, poor local government, and rackets everywhere. Defeatism rode high. Cleveland was losing what little business it had left because its customers began to say: 'Your city has slipped; we don't like it; we are going to place our business elsewhere.'

"Chicago gave Cleveland the inspiration to rearrange its affairs. The success of A Century of Progress led a few inspired Cleveland business men to venture with an exposition of their own—the Great Lakes exposition. That was Cleveland's turning point.

Overhaul Civic Affairs.

"The same men who brought 2,000,000 strangers to Cleveland followed that up by demanding a new deal in all their other civic affairs. They rebuilt the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce. They raised a war chest to enable it to do bigger things for the Cleveland community. Success followed almost immediately.

"Under the five year plan started two years ago the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce has already been able to make the city's harbor one of the best on the Great Lakes; to attract fifty-seven new industries, with thousands of additional workers; to expand its wholesale and retail distribution."

Captains of teams raising funds for Chicago's campaign reported that one-fourth the $625,000 sought has been pledged.

Cotton Loans Total 205 Million; Corn, 129 Million

Washington, D. C., June 9.—(AP)—The Commodity Credit corporation announced today cotton loans disbursed through yesterday totaled $205,161,811 on 4,478,385 bales, including $5,352,661 on 117,823 bales which was repaid. Corn loans through yesterday totaled $129,630,482 on 227,670,032 bushels.

OIL TAKES MIKE & IKE (IT'S A RAILROAD) OUT OF RED TO PROSPERITY

St. Louis, Mo., June 9.—(AP)—Illinois oil development has brought prosperity to "Mike & Ike." Mike & Ike is the Missouri-Illinois railroad, formerly an unpretentious part of the Missouri Pacific lines.

Humblest of the MOP's branches, it carried uncertain amounts of coal, sand, gravel, and agricultural products in battered cars operating over 133 miles of weed grown track. Like many a more important line, Mike & Ike's annual statement was written in red ink. In the first four months of 1938, there was a deficit of $32,096.

But last July, tank cars began making their appearance in large numbers on Mike & Ike's principal line between Salem, Ill., and Ste. Genevieve, Mo. Mike & Ike's trafic doubled. In the first four months of 1939, operating figures showed a net income of $104,698.

Operating profits of the Mike & Ike, however, are only a part of its good fortune. In its yards and along its right of way at Salem and Centralia it has some 20 producing wells of its own.

9% GAIN SHOWN IN DEPARTMENT STORE BUSINESS

All except one federal reserve district recorded increases in department store sales in the week ended June 3 over last year, the federal reserve board reported yesterday. The national gain amounted to 9 per cent. Only the Dallas district had a decline.

In the seventh reserve district, which includes Chicago, the gain was 7 per cent. Chicago alone had an increase of 3.9 per cent. Sales in Detroit showed the largest jump in the district, increasing 22.1 per cent.

The national gain compared with one of 11 per cent in the preceding week. The Atlanta and Richmond districts made the best showing with 21 per cent increases. New York sales advanced 8 per cent.

For the four weeks ended June 3 sales nationally were 11 per cent ahead of last year, all districts showing gains. In the Chicago district sales were up 13 per cent.

OUTPUT OF AUTOS RISES WITH END OF BRIGGS STRIKE

Detroit, Mich., June 9.—(AP)—Ward's Reports said today that settlement of the Briggs Manufacturing company strike was reflected in a sharp upturn in automobile production. This week's output was estimated at 65,265 units, compared with 32,445 last week and 42,175 a year ago.

The trade paper's estimate of probable output of the industry for June was advanced from 225,000 to 275,000 units as the result of the Chrysler corporation's plan to make up for production lost during the Briggs strike.

Business Books

"Social Control of Business," by John M. Clark. Revised edition. [Whittlesey House, McGraw-Hill Book company, Inc., New York. Price, $5].

Revision of this analysis of the business system was undertaken by the author, a professor of economics at Columbia university, because in the fourteen years which had passed since the first edition new forms of social control of business had been developed by government.

Prof. Clark discusses the business cycle, depressions, emergency controls and the New Deal. He believes that our business system has failed to "energize" production. He proposes coöperative planning of production and demand by business and government. He suggests simplification of taxes, reduction in deficit spending, and assurance to business that the currency will not be devalued.

"The Federal Reserve System—Its Purposes and Functions," by the board of governors of the federal reserve system. [National Capital Press, Washington, D. C. Cloth bound. Price 50 cents.]

Celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of the federal reserve system, the board of governors has issued this booklet to describe its operations and purpose. The pamphlet in paper cover is furnished free to the public and for classroom use.

U. of C. Gets Cowles Group for Research

Headquarters of the Cowles commission for research and of the affiliated Econometrics society, will be brought to the University of Chicago this autumn. This was announced yesterday by Robert Maynard Hutchins, president of the university.

Alfred Cowles III. [Moffett Photo.]

The Cowles commission was founded in 1932 by Alfred Cowles III. of Chicago, for the study of problems of current economic importance and the formulation of economic theory with particular relationship to mathematics and statistics. The commission has engaged in a large scale study of the causes of the business collapse since 1929.

Important Center for Study.

"Because the Cowles commission has led the movement to integrate economic theory with mathematics and statistics, its removal to the University of Chicago will make the university the most important center in the country for the study and development of economics as an exact science," Hutchins said.

Theodore Yntema, professor of statistics at the university, will be director of research for the commission. Research associates will be Oskar Lange, associate professor of economics, and H. G. Lewis, instructor in economics.

For the last seven years members of the commission's research staff have conducted advanced courses at Colorado college, and the commission had its headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colo. The teaching program will be conducted at the University of Chicago in the future.

Director of Tribune Company.

Cowles, who maintained a private organization for economic research for ten years before founding the commission, is also a director of the Tribune company, trustee of Colorado college and the Colorado Springs Fine Arts center, and trustee and vice president of the Colorado Foundation for research in tuberculosis.

The advisory council of the commission consists of Arthur L. Bowley, University of London; Irving Fisher, Yale university; Ragnar Frisch, University of Norway; Wesley C. Mitchell, Columbia university, and Carl Snyder, who for many years was associated with the federal reserve bank of New York.

U. S. Rubber, Chrysler Short Interest Shows Large Gains

New York, June 9.—[Special.]—The short interest in Chrysler and United States Rubber shares increased sharply in May, according to the monthly tabulation published today by the stock exchange. The short position in Chrysler rose from 65,375 shares on April 28 to 81,202 shares on May 31. The short interest in United States Rubber rose from 28,013 to 54,987 shares.

The rise for United States Rubber was 26,944 shares and for Chrysler it was 15,727 shares.

The short interest in United States Steel common increased 11,029 shares to 59,261.

Steel Interest Larger.

The total short interest on May 31 was 667,804 shares, exclusive of the short positions carried by the odd lot accounts of all odd lot dealers. This figure is not exactly comparable with the 662,313 short interest figure announced as for April 28, since the latter excluded the short interest figure of seven specialist odd lot dealers.

On May 31 the total short interest of all odd lot dealer accounts was 57,750 shares. This is the first month that this figure has been published.

Decline in Studebaker.

The short position in Studebaker declined from 33,203 shares on April 28 to only 1,920 shares on May 31.

Comparisons of the short interest at the end of last month, with the figures for April 28, respectively, in some of the leading issues follow: Bethlehem Steel, 17,214 against 17,602; Chesapeake and Ohio, 19,292 against 19,359; Electric Power and Light, 15,220 against 9,195; General Electric, 13,462 against 9,942; General Motors, 44,546 against 42,144; Montgomery Ward, 11,150 against 9,780; Republic Steel, 12,322 against 11,957; Westinghouse, 10,850 against 10,378.

PREDICT WHEAT CROP UNDER 700 MILLION BUSHEL

Government Report Lowers Estimate.

A total 1939 wheat harvest in the United States of less than 700 million bushels was forecast yesterday by the department of agriculture. On the basis of June 1 conditions the government estimated a yield of 523 million bushels from the winter crop. Data provided indicated a probable harvest of 145 to 170 million bushels of spring wheat.

The aggregate of the winter and spring crops, if the maximum indicated yield is realized on the latter, will total 693 million bushels, or about 238 million bushels below the bumper 1938 harvest of 931 million bushels.

The government statisticians cut by about 20 million bushels their earlier estimate of winter wheat production based on conditions at the beginning of May.

Earlier Estimate Reduced.

The May 1 forecast was for a crop of 543 million bushels. Last year's big winter wheat harvest yielded 689 million bushels. Over the last decade production has averaged 560 million bushels annually, including three short crops from 1932-'35.

The indicated yield of spring wheat is based on the prospective plantings reported to the government earlier in the season by farmers. The 19,505,000 acres seeded to spring wheat promise a yield of 145 to 170 millions, judged on the basis of past returns and the conditions prevailing over the spring wheat belt.

Even if the maximum return is realized the total yield will fall nearly 75 million bushels below the 244 million bushels harvested in 1938. It compares with an average yield of 206 million bushels in the last 10 years.

Rye Crop Estimate Reduced.

Rye production was placed by the government experts at 35 million bushels, compared with 47 million bushels forecast a month earlier. The 1938 and ten year average yield of the rye crop were 55 and 36 million bushels, respectively.

Unfavorable weather conditions in some sections of the winter wheat belt were responsible for the reduction in the estimated yield.

Despite the smaller prospective wheat harvest this season the United States will begin the new season with an ample supply of grain because of the large surplus carried over from the 1938 crop. It is estimated that the supply on hand from last year amounts to between 250 and 275 million bushels.

Wheat Supply Still Large.

This means a total available supply in excess of 900 million bushels for the coming season. Normal domestic consumption fluctuates between 600 and 650 million bushels.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace has already decided against the imposition of marketing quotas on the 1939 crop. Under the existing agricultural adjustment act the secretary has the power to establish such quotas when prospective supplies exceed normal consumption and exports by a specified margin.

The government estimate on wheat output in the principal producing states, with comparisons on the May 1 estimates and the actual 1938 yields follow [in bushels, 000 omitted]:

An oats crop of about 930,000,000 bushels is indicated by the government condition figures, or 120,000,000 bushels less than were harvested in 1938.

WHEAT FUTURES LOWERED 1 CENT; RALLY CUTS LOSS

Liquidation by holders of wheat futures who were evening up for a department of agriculture estimate on the domestic crop, issued after the close of the market, carried prices off about 1 cent a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade at one time yesterday.

July wheat sold down to 74⅜ cents a bushel, the lowest price in more than two weeks. Short covering developed late in the session and a rally followed. Closing trades were ½ to ⅝ cent lower. Additional rains over parts of the winter and spring wheat belts added to the bearish sentiment.

Reports of rain over part of the corn belt dampened bullish enthusiasm in that grain and the close was ½ to ⅝ cent lower.

July oats were the strong spot in the grain markets yesterday, closing ⅛ cent higher on persistent buying by commission houses.

Deferred deliveries of oats were as much as ½ cent lower. Rye closed ⅜ to ½ cent lower.

STOCKS BREAK OUT OF OLD RUT AND PUSH AHEAD

Price Level Highest in Two Months.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 9.—The stock market broke through its narrow rut today to reach its highest level in more than two months. Active shares showed gains ranging from fractions to 2 points. Volatile issues advanced as much as 4 points.

Trading expanded, today's volume of 768,270 shares nearly doubling yesterday's total. Better business news helped bring about the improved demand, according to most observers. Among the favorable items were the sharp comeback in automobile production, improved steel activity in several important districts, reports of good business in the chemical and machinery industries, and further gains in wholesale and retail trade.

All Sections Join Rise.

Nearly all sections shared in the upturn. After opening irregularly the market turned higher on some good buying in food and merchandising issues. The list then pushed higher on a wide front.

Carriers came forward with the general trend. Minor fractional gains ruled in the power and light group. Consolidated Edison, North American company, American Water Works, Columbia Gas and Electric, and Commonwealth Edison were among the leaders. Union Carbide featured the chemicals with a gain of 2¾ points. Allied and du Pont edged higher.

Standard Brands was prominent in forenoon dealings, rising a substantial fraction. Kroger Grocery, Safeway Stores, Montgomery Ward, National Dairy, and McCrory Stores also attracted attention to show gains ranging to a point.

Volume honors went to United States Rubber, which gained 1⅝ points. Other pivotal industrials to contribute good gains included United States Steel, Chrysler, Bethlehem, General Motors, International Nickel, Anaconda, Goodyear, and Sears-Roebuck.

Gypsum Up 4½ Points.

In the building group United States Gypsum stood out with an advance of 4½ points on 800 shares. American Radiator, Flintkote, and Johns Manville, among others, showed gains running to a point.

In the electric equipment section General Electric advanced ½ point in active dealings. Westinghouse rose 1⅝. Case was outstanding in the farm implement stocks with a jump of 3½ on a few deals. International Harvester rose 1½.

The recently neglected aircrafts came to life in the afternoon. Gains were mostly fractional, however. Most oils closed fractionally higher, with Socony Vacuum active.

Arrangements were made for the sale of a stock exchange seat at $68,000, up $5,000 from the last sale.

NEW FAST TRAIN STARTS TODAY TO SAN FRANCISCO

The "Exposition Flyer," new train of the Burlington, Denver, and Rio Grande Western and the Western Pacific railroads, will leave today on its first trip between Chicago and San Francisco. Dedication ceremonies will take place at the Union station at 12:45 p. m.

So many tickets have been sold for the first trip that the train will be split in two sections at Ottumwa, Ia., Albert Cotsworth Jr., passenger traffic manager said. Future ticket sales are so heavy that the train will be handled in the same way on June 11 and June 15, and it will travel in two sections to San Francisco on June 18.

The Overnight Denverite, fast Burlington steam train between Chicago and Denver, will make its first trip tonight. The train will make the run in 17 hours and 20 minutes.

Commodities

Irregularity again marked yesterday's commodity trading at New York. Cottonseed oil was lifted .04 to .07 cent a pound by investment buying resulting from strength in related markets.

Boston trade interests purchased wool top futures, advancing prices .01 to .05 cent a pound. Santos and Rio coffee crude rubber and hides closed higher.

Copper futures closed .03 cent a pound higher to .01 cent lower. Lead and zinc were quiet and unchanged. Tin futures dropped nominally .25 to .30 cent a pound after displaying weakness Thursday.

Silk futures showed mixed trends. World sugar contracts moved upward but domestic futures sank slightly. Cocoa closed unchanged.

Egg futures recorded losses of ⅛ cent a dozen on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, while November butter declined ⅛ cent a pound. Brokers said the indifference of wholesale buyers was the principal depressing factor. Cash egg values were lifted as much as ¼ cent a dozen, however. The Federal Surplus Commodities corporation purchased 2,126,700 dozens in Chicago, and 2,105,100 in New York. Cash butter values were unchanged to ¼ cent a pound lower.

INCOME HIGHER, BUT DEDUCTIONS CUT TAX TOTALS

Government Receives 6% Less on 1937 Earnings.

Washington, D. C., June 9.—[Special.]—The treasury has given the public its first look behind the scenes of the individual income taxes reported last year. Although there was 7 per cent more taxable net income reported for 1937 than for 1936, the total tax liability was 6 per cent less, due to increased deductions by taxpayers. Deductions made because of the payment of other taxes increased substantialy.

The data, made public by Secretary Henry Morgenthau Jr., also showed that there were twelve fewer "millionaire" returns filed in 1938 than in 1937. One taxpayer reported net income of $5,000,000 or more for 1937. There was none in this class the year before.

49 "Millionaires" Report.

Returns made last year, covering income received in 1937, included only forty-nine with net income of $1,000,000 or more. In 1937 [for 1936 income] there were sixty-one in this class.

Illustrating the effect of the surtaxes and other upward graduations of taxes, the forty-nine taxpayers who reported 1937 net income between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000 paid taxes of $24,555,000, compared with payments of $17,262,000 by the 1,313,340 taxpayers reporting net income between $1,000 and $2,000. The latter group was the largest numerically.

The 1937 returns numbered 6,350,148, of which 3,371,443 were taxable, the report said. The number of returns increased 936,649, or 17.3 per cent, over 1936.

Income Increases 10 Per Cent.

Aggregate net income shown on the 1937 returns was $21,238,574,163, an increase of $1,998,464,519, or 10.4 per cent, over the amount reported on the 1936 returns. The net income shown on taxable returns was $15,264,162,417, an increase of $1,045,308,867, or 7.4 per cent, and the net income on nontaxable returns was $5,974,411,746, an increase of $953,155,652, or 19 per cent.

The tax liability reported on taxable returns was $1,141,618,740, a decrease of $72,398,059, or 6 per cent, from the preceding year.

For 1937 the income tax liability for Illinois was $103,228,000, compared with $102,036,000 in 1936.

INCOME FOR ALLEGHANY?

Investors' Guide: I don't understand why the Alleghany corporation is prevented by banks from using the dividends it gets from the Chesapeake corporation? What is behind the court fight?—W. R. S.

Answer: Recent litigation involving the Alleghany corporation, top holding company in the former Van Sweringen railroad empire, arises from provisions in the indentures of its three collateral trust bond issues.

The indentures provide that the corporation shall maintain with the trustee of each issue minimum collateral appraised quarterly at 150 per cent of the face value of the outstanding bonds. If the pledged cash and securities on deposit fall below this minimum the trustee is empowered to impound the income yielded by the collateral, to act as voting representative for the pledged securities, to prevent the corporation from incurring new debts [except for current needs] and to prevent its declaring dividends on its stock.

The indentures can be modified with the consent of the corporation and 60 per cent of the bondholders.

Court interpretation of the provisions of the indentures was sought last May 2 in suits filed in the federal court in New York City by the Continental Bank and Trust company of New York as successor trustee of the 5s of 1949 and by the Marine Midland Trust company of New York as successor trustee of the 5s of 1950.

The trust companies asked the court to determine the ultimate disposition of $543,325 released to the Alleghany corporation earlier by the Guaranty Trust company, trustee of the 5s of 1944.

The release of the funds resulted from a special appraisal of March 9, 1939, indicating that the collateral underlying the 1944 issue was worth 152.4 per cent of the total face value of the outstanding bonds. The excess worth above the minimum requirement of 150 per cent was the amount freed.

On May 23 Continental and Marine Midland asked the federal court for temporary injunctions to prevent the company from using the funds for corporate purposes. Hearings were scheduled for early this month.

It was understood the Alleghany corporation in its reply to the suits would ask the court that dividends received from the Chesapeake corporation, a subsidiary, be considered income to be used for corporate purposes. The Guaranty Trust company, formerly trustee for all three bond issues, has treated such dividends as capital to be deposited as additional collateral.

On Dec. 31, 1938, there was $76,450,000 of these bonds outstanding.

Appraisals of the underlying securities as of May 1, 1939, showed declines in values from those of Feb. 1. Collateral behind the 5s of 1944 fell to 122.4 per cent of the par value of the outstanding bonds from 120.1 per cent on Feb. 1. The market value of securities behind the 5s of 1950 sank to 26.1 from 27.6 per cent, and of those behind the 5s of 1949 to 98.5 from 107.9 per cent.

NATION'S RETAIL AND WHOLESALE TRADE IMPROVES

Estimate Gains Over '38 at 7 to 12 Per Cent.

New York, June 9.—[Special.]—Further gains in wholesale and retail trade were reported today by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc.

"Sentiment in the merchandising divisions," said the credit agency's weekly review, "kept pace with the upturn in general business."

Prices, it said, have not yet shown important improvement, but commitments were being made with more liberality in a number of lines. The agency expressed the opinion that the better retail trade has been the chief support of general industry in the last two weeks and called attention to the "even keel" of manufacturing at a season when declines generally occur.

Apparel Lines Lead.

"Milder temperatures," said the review, "failed to put a damper on consumer buying this week. Summer apparel still drew the best crowds, with cotton dresses, beachwear, and millinery featured in women's departments. Shirt and slack combinations, hats, and summer suits were popular in men's stores.

"Retailers appeared well satisfied with the response to light weight merchandise, but complained frequently that last week's sudden change in temperatures had cut short the spring season prematurely, leaving them with quantities of out of season goods."

Tops 1938 Business.

Volume of retail sales was slightly higher than last week's total, but, since buying was also heavier in the corresponding week a year ago, the increase over 1938 remained unchanged at 7 to 12 per cent, the review said.

In the middle west, where the drop last year was unusually sharp, increases ranged between 8 and 15 per cent. The east was ahead by 6 to 14 per cent, and New England by 6 to 10 per cent.

COTTON

Cotton advanced a small fraction of a cent a pound early yesterday on buying by mills and spot interests, but selling by professionals and hedgers caused a recession from the best prices. Bombay sold July and October. Closing trades were .02 cent lower to .06 cent a pound higher.

Spot cotton closed unchanged to .01 cent a pound lower with New York, 9.99 cents; Galveston, 9.55 cents, and New Orleans and Houston at 9.50 cents a pound. Prices follow:

Mount Vernon and Arlington—Tribune Color Camera Follows King and Queen—Pictures Sent by Wire
